Senior Class Play Rehearsals Begin

BRITTON — "Cheaper by the Dozen" is the play selected by the Senior Class to be presented in December, announced [illegible] Donald Morrill. Casting is co[illegible] and rehearsals have begun.

"Cheaper by the Dozen" has been dramatized for high school presentation by Christopher Sergel from the best-seller by Frank Gilbreth and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey.

The comedy in three acts is about a family of the early 1900's who have an even dozen children.

The part of Mr. Gilbreth, an engineer and efficiency expert, is played by Chug Brablec. His wife is portrayed by Susan Kotlarzyk.

Their eldest daughter, Anne, is Dianne Lake, while Jill Cunkle is Miss Brill, a teacher who comes to test the children.

Chug Brablec and Dianne Lake will be remembered by Britton audiences for their excellent performances in last year's production of "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The tentative dates for presentation are a matinee for grade school children Dec. 13 and evening performances Dec. 14 and 15.

BRITTON BRIEFS

The bus drivers from Britton School will attend the school bus driver training program at Lenawee Institute November 21.

Mr. and Mrs. La Vern Steele and son, Keith, left Sunday for two weeks in Miami Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Auten left Thursday morning for Bradenton, Fla., to spend the winter.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ash and Larry were Mr. and Mrs. Don Curry and daughter of Royal Oak, Mr. and Mrs. James Woodward and children of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoagland, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Tucker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown and sons, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rohrback, all of Britton.

Mother-To-Be Is Showered with Presents

BRITTON — Mrs. Fred McCrate of Ypsilanti was honored at a pink and blue shower Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ronald Cheever. Mrs. Russell Cheever of Tecumseh was co-hostess.

Eighteen guests enjoyed an afternoon of appropriate games and prizes were awarded.

A dessert luncheon was served from a lined, covered table, centered with a floral pink, white and blue arrangement.

Mrs. McCrate received many lovely gifts.

System Will Help Establish Policies

BRITTON — All members of the Board of Education were present for the regular meeting Thursday evening in the superintendent's office.

Supt. William Saxton reviewed bills paid and payable and also gave a report on school activities.

Orren Hall, a representative of the Davis - Brickell System of School Board Policy Making and Administration, was present to give the board an outline of how his company assists school boards in establishing and organizing school policies.

Since school policy is becoming increasingly important, the board voted to purchase the Croft Educational Services put out by Davis and Brickell.

Tuition rates were discussed and it was decided to charge the minimum fee.

Albert Wielfaert was appointed to the County Vocational Technical Educational Survey to replace former member Martin Ivan.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

As a citizen of Tecumseh for the past 25 years, a taxpayer the greater part of the time, I have been very happy to call this home.

Now retired and living on Social Security and a little interest, I had hoped to live out my few remaining years, at peace with the world.

Now there is a "fly in the ointment!" "Compulsory garbage removal for everyone."

Since I live alone, I have very little garbage and dispose of it in a way that is not offensive to the neighbors, or interesting to rats.

I do not need, or want, and cannot afford that $15 per year for necessary service.

Perhaps there are others in the same class.

Then there are those with garbage disposal units, or gas incinerators, who do not need the added expense along with the nuisance of stinking sacks of cans when they don't get picked up regularly.

Let's all of us tell the City Council (except Mr. Puffer) in no uncertain terms, that we do not like things like this forced down our throat.

Maybe some of them will change their minds, if we make it hot enough.

Yours for a better and more peaceful Tecumseh.

TO THE EDITORS:

Things I have read in the paper this past week I don't agree with concerning Dependable Garbage or as Mrs. Hugh Walters says "Undependable."

Yes, I do agree with her that at one time their service was about as bad as it could get, but I also know that it did improve and who is to say that it won't improve more.

If I had a garbage disposal, incinerator, dog, and maybe an old goat how would I know what kind of service a garbage truck would give.

As far as hunting ducks on the Red Mill Pond, any one that has a license to hunt can hunt there unless it is private pond.

As far as shooting ducks that are half - tame when they are flying by at 60 miles a hour or more, not many people ask if they are half-tame.

I hope you will print this in your paper as you did the item I read. I know I don't live there now, but I have and will again so I feel as I have a right to say my mind too.

2 Thanksgiving Services Planned at St. Peter's

Thanksgiving services at St. Peter's Episcopal Church will be at 5:30 in the afternoon, Thanksgiving Eve, and at 8:30 in the morning, Thanksgiving Day.

The Rector, the Rev. Frank W. Hawthorne, said, "The book of Common Prayer used in the American Episcopal Church provides proper prayers, the Epistle, and the Gospel for Thanksgiving, as a time for celebrating the gifts of the harvest and for the food for which we give thanks."

The congregation participates in the Community Thanksgiving service, but offers these celebrations of the Holy Communion — Holy Eucharist, which means "thanksgiving" — to those persons who desire to worship at the Lord's Table.

"The services are open to the public," said the pastor.

Through My Window

BLACK AND BLUE

Be not afraid, this is not going to be a discussion of bruises and contusions. Our title merely refers to the color of our bird watching. With the weather unable to make up its mind — we seem to be bouncing from fall to mid-winter to spring and back to winter — anyway, the weather is unsettled and so are the birds.

We had a slight taste of busy winter activity, but for the most part the feeding stations are sadly neglected lately. The steadiest patrons are grackles and bluejays.

I am wondering about the grackles, too. What's up? Theoretically these are migratory birds and by now they should be kicking up their heels in the warm southern sunshine.

WHILE THEIR winter quarters are not necessarily restricted to the deep south, they should evacuate our area and head for at least the Ohio River Valley.

Most of them have done so, I believe I even reported waving a gleeful good-bye to several large flocks. Most but not all.

Oh well, in every crowd there are a few odd balls. For several days I thought one grackle had something going — she was rather dull and ragged, but nevertheless, two shiny and rather handsome males sought her company.

Mighty good odds — right? Too good to last I guess because reinforcements have flown in and now our flock of "black thieves" numbers at least two dozen.

BUT WHY are these characters hanging around? I hope we are not going to have a repetition of last year. Then a few stupid grackles, stubbornly refused to follow the rules and by the end of the winter, they were a sad looking lot.

A bunch of bedraggled black feathers shivering on a snow-covered bird feeder is depressing, too.

The bluejays are a happier story. They are in tip-top shape now, big and fat, bright and bold. As they sail from tree to tree, from creek's edge to the top of the bank, from feeder to ground — well, there are times when we look out the windows and see nothing but streaks and flashes of blue.

When they stop at the feeder for a quick lunch, we are most impressed with the vividness of their blue, the richness of black and the trueness of white. Their round, fat and obviously well-fed bodies are marvels, too. As we said, they are going into the winter in good shape.

PEOPLE ARE always talking about how invigorating the clear and crisp fall air is. Well, I think our bluejays must agree.

They are just more than active these days — of course, it is a busy-busy type of busy, they dash from one thing to another so fast, I am sure they are never in one spot long enough to accomplish a thing.

The frantic pace almost got one in trouble the other day. He "touched down" at the feeding station, started to reach for a sunflower seed, but before picking it up, changed his mind and took off.

Wham — right smack into the window he flew. Fortunately, the flight was short and he had not picked up much speed. The hit was loud but not hard.

BOUNCING OFF the window, he regained control before touching the ground and flew up to a conveniently-near tree. From here he started sounding off — oh, but he was mad! Squawk, squawk, squawk!

It was not a scream of pain, he was just one hot-tempered bluejay who was absolutely furious and almost beside himself with rage.

So it is that with grackles and jays affording most of the bird activity lately, our good looking has been black and blue.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Why should Alfred Jung come to mind when there is a search in my mind for thoughts of Thanksgiving?

We met just once, 21 years ago. And it wasn't even in November, more like February.

But do our t h a n k s for the good things of life have to be expressed only at the start of winter?

When I first saw Alfred, he was about 12 years old, back in 1945.

The tattered 157th Infantry Regiment had gotten pretty well chopped up and was ordered to the rear to re-group and add replacements.

Co. G and most of the 2nd Battalion was billeted in a tiny town somewhere in Alsace. A few of us were told to move into a neat, well-kept home, which was owned by the Jung family—Mama, Papa and Alfred.

The Jungs kept our room and the kitchen, the GIs had the rest of the place. But it wasn't long before Mama invited us to bring our meals into the kitchen, which was the only heated room in the place.

We'd gather around the large table, family style, trying to converse, but this was difficult because we spoke little of each other's language.

That is, the adults. It turned out that Alfred was taking English in school and he soon became the most important person in the household, interpreting all conversations — much to the delight of his parents.

When we first met the Jungs, we asked whether they spoke French or German, in the knowledge their tiny province had long been a pawn between the two powers.

"We speak Alsatian," Papa replied through Alfred. It was a mixture of both French and German.

One night, GI Special Services arrived in the town and showed a movie in the church. We took Alfred with us and he was thrilled.

BUT THE most fun was the nightly card game with the Jung family.

After the evening meal was all cleared away, Papa would tell Alfred to get out the cards.

The game was called "I Doubt It."

It's a silly, child's diversion, but through those six or eight days of bitter winter in that snug Alsatian kitchen, "I doubt It" seemed the most important thing in the world.

The 52 cards were dealt and the idea was to get rid of your cards as quickly as possible. By turns, each player placed, face down, two cards at a time. They were supposed to be in pairs.

The crafty would try to dump unmatched cards. With every play, each of the others had the right to shout, "I doubt it" — either in English or Alsatian.

When one did, if the cards tossed were a pair, the "doubter" would have to put everything on the table in his hand. Should the play be bogus, the person who made it had to gather up all discards.

There was so much shouting and laughter during the games, you'd think the Allies had just signed a declaration of peace in the Jung kitchen.

Cards were never so much fun for me.

THEN one afternoon the orders came — back to the line the next morning.

When we told the Jungs, Mama cried.

As we gathered up our equipment at dawn and started to leave the cozy home, Mama brought out a batch of cup cakes she had baked during the night and gave us each several as the Jungs bade us farewell and good luck.

I wonder what ever happened to that wonderful family? I don't even remember the name of their town, but I'll never forget them and my Thanksgiving in February.

BOOK FAIR — Kit Burns lays out books in preparation for the Holiday Book Fair, to be held at the Tecumseh Public Library Nov. 28 - Dec. 3. A wide selection of new adult and children's books will be available for purchase. Also featured is a table of secondhand books. The fair is sponsored by the Library in cooperation with the Book Store of Adrian. The fair will be open Monday-Thursday from noon to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday, noon to 5 p.m.

Bargains Are Many

Heigh-ho, come to the fair — the Holiday Book Fair, that is.

The world opens wide to the reader — travel, adventure, science, biography, who-dun-its, handicrafts, many a well-told yarn, books for the kiddies and the grandpas.

"If your pocketbook is hurting, come to browse; or buy a good used book for a small price," said Mrs. Jule Fosbender, librarian.

"'Twould make a marvelous way to do your Christmas shopping and have a good time doing it," she added.

The Fair is sponsored by the library in cooperation with the Book Store of Adrian.

"We'll be looking for you anytime from Monday through Thursday from noon 'til 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from noon 'til 6 p.m.," suggested Mrs. Fosbender.

500 Tickets Put in Mail

Members and guests of Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary usher in the Christmas season Dec. 3 with their 18th annual Holiday Ball.

The dance will be presented at Tecumseh Country Club.

Ray Luis and his orchestra will provide music for dancing from 9 p.m. (instead of 10, as indicated on the invitations) until 2 a.m.

"An Old-Fashioned Christmas" is the theme chosen by Mrs. Ivan Lindstrom and her decorating committee. Their design plans center on a pair of nine-foot trees decked out in paper chains and other old-time ornaments.

Chairmen of this year's Ball committee are Mrs. Joseph Fortunato and Mrs. C. W. Hanna. Ticket sales are being directed by Mrs. Wilbur Andrews and Mrs. Dermont Poley.

Mrs. Ed Schwartz is in charge of refreshments.

Five-hundred ball invitations were mailed last week. Each bears the return address of a committee member from whom tickets are available.

Reservations must be made to the return address on each invitation.

Parking Chairman Continues Fight for More Free Spaces Downtown

A temporary delay, at least, in the merchants' plan to retire off-street parking meter bonds occurred at Council meeting Monday night, when city officials did not feel they could increase the amount of froo parking in the lots.

J. W. 'Pat" Meadows, bank president, who has led the merchants toward retirement of the bonds, sought additional free parking of 70 stalls for five bonds, to be paid by contributions from the merchants.

So far, the merchants have retired four bonds and the United Savings Bank, one bond. The five bonds have saved the city approximately $8,500.

Mr. Meadows has congratulated Council for its aggressiveness in providing off-street parking, and its plan to acquire more parking property for downtown businesses.

He says city officials should be commended not only for developing the present lots and plans to acquire more property, but for giving merchants 51 free, two-hour stalls, about 18% of the total parking meters.

At the present, he holds $2,200 in checks plus $700 in an account at the bank. This money will be held to see if other merchants and interested parties contribute with the hopes of raising $5,000 for five bonds in the near future.

Merchants to Discuss Bankards

A special meeting of all merchants to discuss the Michigan Bankard program is being called by the United Savings Bank at the Tecumseh Community Center, Monday, Nov. 28, at 7 p.m. All interested persons should attend.

Presbyterian Building Drive in Full Swing

All phases of the building campaign at the First Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh are progressing on schedule. General chairman, J. W. Meadows and his committee chairmen have been meeting weekly with progress reports.

Coffee hours are completed except for one, brochures and letters have been mailed, canvass teams will soon start meeting and the women of the church are making dinner plans.

The final coffee hour will be held at the fellowship center Monday, Nov. 28 at 8 p.m.

A swiss steak dinner will be served Dec. 1 to all members and attenders of the church in the fellowship center at 6:30 p.m.

Reservations will be 50c per person and each family will bring either a salad or dessert and table service.

"The church family is urged to attend these functions relating to the building program in order to be better informed about the church's needs and help in planning their pledge before the canvasser calls on December 11," said the Rev. Julian Gresham.

100 Patients, Kin Are Entertained at Nursing Home

Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary entertained 100 patients and families at a Thanksgiving Tea Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Herrick Nursing Home.

The Rev. Blair Bashore delivered a brief message and the group sang hymns to complete the devotional program.

Mrs. Al Merz and Fred Dickinson entertained with a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Oberlin on the piano.

A social hour and tea followed. Guest of honor was Marda Gene Duncan, whose color slides have entertained patients at the home in past programs.

Mrs. Merz and Mrs. Robert Sage of the Auxiliary were in charge of the presentation.

No More Stumbles

Ridgeway Lockers Will Eliminate Litter

If the Tecumseh School Board has its way, youngsters at the Ridgeway School will no longer have to hang their garments on hooks and stumble over boots and lunch sacks and pails in the hallways.

Mrs. Donald Cobb, board member, says the situation there was terrible the rainy day she visited the school. Other school officials agreed.

Norval Bovee, business manager, was requested to seek bids for 70 hall lockers and submit his report at the Dec. 19 meeting.

He estimated the lockers to cost about $21 each, or approximately $1,500.

In other action by the board — which set some sort of record by adjourning at 10 p.m., two to three hours earlier than normal, members:

Discussed costs of renting classrooms and typewriters to Cleary College for adult education classes.

Heard a brief report from Supt. James McDowell concerning negotiations with the Tecumseh Education Association about salaries.

Accepted a letter from the Lower Light Mission saying its property next to the school bus garage was not for sale.

After adjournment, the board toured the Sutton and Tecumseh Acres elementary schools.

Dr. John Dawson Is Thanksgiving Service Speaker

Thanksgiving Eve Services sponsored by the Tecumseh Area Ministerial Association will be held in the Tecumseh Methodist Church Wednesday, Nov. 23 at 8 p.m.

Dr. John Dawson, president of Adrian College, will be the guest speaker. His message will center around the theme, "Thankful — For What?"

Dr. Dawson was elected to the presidency of Adrian College Dec. 12, 1954 and assumed his full-time responsibilities at the College Feb. 15, 1955.

He served a number of Methodist Churches in the Pittsburgh Conference before being elected to his present position. During this period he lectured in sociology at the University of Pittsburgh completing his Ph.D. in 1954.

The public is invited to attend this Union Service by the association.

Yeggs Break Into School

A break-in at Tecumseh High School Friday night, or early Saturday morning, netted burglars approximately $43.

Entry was gained by breaking a window in the varsity locker room. The burglars then smashed a wire-meshed window in the coaches box in a file cabinet.

The money was to be used to purchase a trophy.

After entering the Ag room, yeggs removed pins from the supply closet and took about $30.

Police Chief Murell Clark says some evidence was found and police have hopes of running down the culprits.

Two downtown Tecumseh businesses also were intended victims but the burglars were foiled. The rear door glass at Flanders Music was broken last Wednesday night, or early Thursday, but the burglars still were not able to open the door.

Bill and Betty Flanders, owners, do not believe they ever got inside their store.

Dick Eggleston, owner of Eggleston's Jewelry, reported burglars attempted to jimmie open a door over his store, but failed.

Backing Auto Strikes Another

Only one minor accident occurred here during the past week, and it happened on private property.

Melvin Jack Smith, 23, Adrian, was backing out of a stall behind Wright's Pharmacy and hit a parked car owned by Gordon L. Logan, 3222 Gady Rd.

Five Deer Bagged Near Tipton

Tipton area provided good hunting for five local sportsmen Saturday.

Almost 900 pounds of venison was brought down within a five-mile radius.

Fred Vollmer of LaSalle bagged a 246-pound, seven-point buck just off Tipton Hwy., about three miles south of Tipton.

In the same party Mrs. Vollmer's nephew, Richard Baker of Tipton, shot an eight-pointer weighing about 180 pounds.

Hugh Gooding of Tipton bagged a six-point, 200-pounder across from the home of his father-in-law, Willard Cowen, on Monroe Rd.

Gerald Fox, 411 W. Cummins St., estimates the weight of his eight-point prize at 123 pounds. It was shot at the Whelan farm, north of Tipton on Whelan Rd.

Rodney Bird of Adrian hit a 10-point, 140-pound buck at the Treat Farm on Wisner Rd.

Fifty-five members and guests attended the postponed meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at the Tecumseh Methodist Church last Wednesday evening for a round table discussion. "Let's Talk to our Church Neighbors."

Representatives from seven of the 16 churches in Tecumseh explained the organization, programs, goals, projects and mission work of each of the women's societies.

Although no formal conclusions were made by the moderator, Mrs. William Steele, Jr., it was generally agreed by those attending that the work and programs in each church were highly similar in purpose and goals.

Differences occurred only in material available and special missionary fields.

The representatives were Mrs. Thomas Brooks Jr., Baptist Church; Mrs. Perry Hayden and several society members, Friends Church; Mrs. Kenneth Goldmann, Gloria Dei Lutheran Church; Mrs. Charles Bater and Mrs. Edward Klopp, Grace English Evangelical Lutheran Church; Mrs. Fred Feight, Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Robert Laidlaw, St. Elizabeth Catholic Church and Mrs. Robert Bonner, Methodist Church.

Upon recommendation of the committee serving this year's event, another Festival will be held with chairmen now being selected and a new theme being discussed.

Football Field To Be Rebuilt Before '67 Action

A complete renovation of the Tecumseh football field came under discussion at the School Board meeting Monday night, when board members studied proposals by Don Brazee, assistant high school principal and athletic director.

Plans include a new drainage system, crowning the field and either seeding or sodding the playing area next spring.

Dr. Fred Freeman and Bill Brown were asked to contact the extension service of Michigan State University for assistance.

The present field is flat, potted with low spots and is noticeably lacking of grass in many large areas.

HEAP OF TROUBLE — One and one-half 20x70 ft. cement stave silos containing a total of 22,000 bushels of high moisture shell corn collapsed Wednesday night on the Kitty Kurtis farm on Hendershot Rd. A year old 40-20 John Deere tractor, silo blower, drag-line and fuel tank were buried and two silo unloaders were destroyed in the silos. The farm feeds some 1,200 cattle each year and the owners hope some of the corn can be salvaged by reseiling it in a pit silo at the Richard Sherman farm. The silos had been built for eight years, and the partially-standing one at left was in the process of being filled.

According to Sanchez, a car pulled up in front of his home, honked, and he went out to see what the occupants wanted. As he approached the car, one of the occupants fired at him.

He told police that he was unable to identify the car or any of the occupants.

Wallace Wilkin, Mike Wilkin, Richard Rudd and Bruce Norton left Friday night for a weekend of deer hunting near Mio.

Army Corps To Examine River Project

A study on the River Raisin watershed basin is being conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers to make a more efficient plan for the use of water and land resources.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 1:30 p.m., at the Adrian Public Library at the corner of Dennis and Church Sts. in Adrian.

The purpose of the hearing is to inform interested parties about the planning study and to get public views concerning the study and water resource problems it will deal with.

The River Raisin Watershed Association will be represented by some of its key personnel at the hearing.

The association has been trying to organize a workable program with federal assistance for improvement of the River Raisin for the past three years.

Inter-county cooperation under the Michigan drain code is the newest angle tried by the association.

THE RIVER Raisin research is part of an overall southeastern Michigan study, which covers the long-range needs for flood protection, navigation improvements, industrial and municipal water supplies, outdoor recreation, improvement of water quality and encouragement of economic development.

The River Raisin area, covering 1,135 miles, is the largest of eight basins being studied.

THE STUDY will attempt to identify the most desirable means of developing the area's water resources to meet the growing needs of population and economy.

It will provide a basis of authorization of federal assistance in construction of public works projects.

The Corps of Engineers will work closely with federal, state and local governments to help them deal with water resource problems.

A coordinating committee will be formed, which will represent all three government levels.

Col. Edward C. Bruce, district engineer, invites all interested persons to attend the hearing to express their views concerning water needs and improvements desired.

ANY GENERAL PLANS of improvement with factual information are desired. Proponents are asked to furnish available supporting data on the benefits expected from the improvements.

Anyone opposed to the changes is also asked to state reasons and data for opposition.

The information should be presented at the hearing so it may receive ample consideration and discussion.

Specific information desired:

- ► Maps indicating the nature and extent of development.
- ► Photographs or other documentary evidence of undesirable conditions.
- ► Specific instances of damages and loss encountered.
- ► Improvements by local interests now being considered or those proposed to be undertaken while the basin study is in progress.
- ► The extent of cooperation which local interests are prepared to furnish. Principal items of local cooperation usually required on certain types of projects will be explained at the hearing.

Oral statements will be heard, but all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, in quadruple, for accuracy of records.

Written statements may be given to Col. Bruce at the hearing or mailed beforehand to him at the Department of the Army, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers, Box 1027, Detroit.

The light of knowledge is a lot brighter in barrio Punta Engano school on Mactan in the Philippines through the efforts of Sgt. George Fleshman. He was one of the instigators of a project to supply the new school building with educational supplies. The drive brought enough money to purchase 612 text books. Sergeant Fleshman is a member of the 463 Field Maintenance Squadron stationed on Mactan since December, 1965. His wife, the former Patricia Fielder, and children have been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fielder, during his overseas duty. He will arrive home for Thanksgiving with his family, then they will all move to Travis AFB, Calif.

Falls Asleep, Lands in Creek

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

"Three hundred forty-three years ago a small number of grateful Pilgrims assembled in prayerful tribute to God for an abundant first harvest. The occasion marked the launching of a meaningful custom which has become one of our Nation's most cherished holidays — Thanksgiving Day.

"Regrettably, too many Americans no longer care about religious ideals and heritage. To some, our country is a fantasy-land filled with complimentary handouts of rights and freedoms without obligations.

"With patent indifference, they shirk the mere suggestion of individual responsibility.

"Their purpose in life is lost in moral lethargy, self-indulgence and neglect of duty.

The above thoughts are from a reprint of J. Edgar Hoover's last year's FBI law enforcement bulletin.

There are those of us who are told that we are extreme when we feel deeply and state that things are not just right in our land, but at least we are not one of those who are (what is that word?) apathetic.

Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport are spending Thanksgiving in Woodbine, N. J. visiting their new granddaughter, Carol Ann Dareh, who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dareh Jr. Nov. 12. The baby weighed 6 lbs. 9 oz.

Ronald Lewis of Butte Falls, Ore. was home to attend the funeral of his grandfather, Charles Lewis, at Michigan Center, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion French announce the birth of a granddaughter, Nov. 20, to Mr. and Mrs. David French, who live at Charleston Height, S. Car. Mrs. David French is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cole of Sand Creek. The baby weighed 7½ lbs. and is named Kelly Jean. David is in the Navy.

Teens Mimic Adults

Elizabeth Schroeder, a social worker from Ypsilanti State Hospital, spoke to members of the St. Elizabeth Altar Society recently on the problems and their causes of teenagers.

She said that a lot could be solved if parents would realize that children look for a person to mimic and usually choose parents.

Attitude and atmosphere maintained by parents in the home, good examples set there have much to do with the troubles of growing children, she concluded.

"We could have listened to Miss Schroeder and her views for much longer than time permitted. It was a most stimulating and mind-searching talk," said one member.

After Miss Schroeder's talk, coffee and tea cookies were served by Mrs. Robert Laidlaw and her committee, Mrs. Robert Koffron, Mrs. Paul Rudd, Mrs. Jerome Kujawa, Mrs. Daniel Walsh, Mrs. Dominic Conklin, Mrs. Edward Ryan, Mrs. Wallace Whiting, Mrs. Clare Bates, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. E. Dear Friends:

The Thanksgiving season is a time when Americans traditionally give thought to the many blessings and bounties of life for which we can be thankful.

In this spirit, I would like to thank you, the citizens of the Second Congressional District — my employers for the past two years — for the privilege of representing you in the United States House of Representatives. I am especially grateful to those of you who cast your votes for me in the election just passed. To the hundreds of individuals who generously helped to finance my campaign for reelection, and to the many hundreds of volunteers who devoted countless hours, immeasurable energy, and unbounded hope to the campaign, I owe and offer my sincere appreciation. You helped make democracy work.

I regret that I shall not have the opportunity to represent you and our District in the forthcoming Congress. During the past two years, I have welcomed the challenges and responsibilities of office. And the challenges that remain are many. Our world is far from perfect. Our nation has painful faults and unhealed flaws, as well as noble ideals and worthy practices. Our people still have rights to be fulfilled and needs that must be met.

In recent weeks, many of you have sent letters and telegrams of condolence and encouragement. I am deeply grateful, to each of you, for your thoughtfulness and support.

In the months ahead, I shall look forward to meeting with many of you, when opportunity permits, and hope that, at some future time, I shall be able to accept again the challenge of public service.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Wes Vivian

Village Backs Budd with Revenue Bonds

By MAXINE CALHOUN

CLINTON — The Village of Clinton has announced plans to issue revenue bonds for $12.3 million for the construction of the new Budd Company plant being built at the south village limits.

John Truesdale, village president, said the council met with officals of the Budd Company and members of the Office of Economic Expansion, Michigan Department of Commerce, two weeks ago to consider the proposal.

It is now subject to final action by the board of directors of Budd Company.

Such municipal bonding for industrial expansion was authorized in state legislation in 1963 and the Michigan Supreme Court approved its constitutionality in August, 1966.

The original act permitted local units of government to issue bonds for industrial land and buildings only.

In September, the Michigan legislature amended the Act to include "such machinery and equipment other than vehicular equipment as shall be necessary, suitable, intended for or incident to the use of the industrial building."

The law permits local government units to issue bonds to finance construction of an industrial facility, pay off the bonds from the company's rent money, then turn the facility over to the firm.

Mr Truesdale said it is expected that the municipal bonds will be offered to the public next spring.

The bonding plan will not cost Clinton anything and it will almost double the valuation of the village, Mr. Truesdale said.

Clinton's mayor said the sewer plant is entirely adequate for the new facility and only the sewer lines will have to be extended to it.

With the new well installed in recent years, Clinton's water supply is ample for the needs of the new facility.

Detroit Edison will supply the electric power necessary.

Budd Company has leased space in Clinton since 1964 for the production of disc brake assembly and plans to produce for the automotive industry a goal of four million units per year by 1969.

Present employment of 200 will be increased to 300 eventually.

The company purchased 245 acres of land from John Walz last spring and had begun to build before the bond plan came up.

The plant will have 152,800 square feet of manufacturing space and an 8,000-square-foot office. With machinery and equipment, the completed facility is expected to cost more than $12 million.

Mr. Truesdale concluded his remarks by saying, "Other similar industrial developments are pending in the community."

Sewing Dresses Will Help Make 100 Girls Happy

CLINTON — Mrs. Edgar Randall, Material Aid Mission chairman of the United Church of Christ, is making a special appeal to anyone in the community who would like to assist with the sewing of 100 little girl's dresses, to phone her, 456-4059.

Each year members of the church have made from 50 to 100 or more dresses, which Mrs. Randall has cut from donated materials. They are sent to the Salvation Army in Adrian for Christmas giving.

This year, because so many women are employed, she is unable to find enough people to sew the dresses and the time is getting short. They are all cut out in simple patterns, just waiting to be sewn.

DON DeJONGHE AND LISA DUNBAR HELP BUILD PILGRIM SETTLEMENT

Pilgrim Settlement Is Built by Children

By CHRISTINE FAIRBANKS

BRITTON — Typical of the displays found in many elementary classrooms across the land at this time of year is Anna Creger's third grade class replica of the Plymouth settlement, where Thanksgiving Day began.

The display, complete with stockade, common house, Pilgrims, Indians, and even a turkey or two, was made entirely by the pupils.

Thanksgiving celebrations actually started in ancient times with the various days of feasting and prayer.

The American version can be considered a natural evolution from the English harvest festivals. The Pilgrims first celebrated this day in October, 1621.

It was the first autumn of the exiles in their new home.

Governor Bradford appointed a day of public thanksgiving and three days of feasting followed. Chief Massasoit came with 90 Indians.

This was the beginning but there were more changes in this day of Thanksgiving to come down through the years.

In creating the display, plus reading stories about the early settlers and articles in My Weekly Reader, the youngsters learn about all phases of Thanksgiving, and stress the important fact that this is one day in the year set aside for giving thanks for what we have received.

MACON MAXIMS

By MRS. HAMILTON MOORE

Thursday, Dec. 1 at 1:30 p.m. the Faith Circle will meet with Mrs. Wade Scudder. Mrs. Hamilton F. Moore will assist her. Mrs. Truman Jordan and Mrs. Garland Osburn will have the program and devotions. Mrs. Harold Ruhl will also present the program.

The Macon Woman's Society of Christian Service will serve the Lenawee Historical Society luncheon Thursday, Dec. 1 at noon. Mrs. Edward Zick and committee will be in charge.

A cooperative fried chicken dinner was served Tuesday to members of the Macon Community Club, when they met with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton F. Moore. Following the dinner, the pledge to the American Flag was given and the Lord's Prayer was repeated. It was decided to wait until the December meeting to elect a chairman and vice-chairman. The Charles Bigelows have invited the group to their home in December.

Elmer Pocklington opened the program by reading an original poem "Good Deeds Done On Earth." Mrs. Clayton Bigelow read a poem on Thanksgiving, Mrs. Dean Moore read an article on Thanksgiving Day 1621, Mrs. Ralph Halladay told of the trip she and her late husband had taken to Plymouth, Mass. She also shared several pictures of Plymouth Rock and other historical places and had a statue of Priscilla and John Alden carved out of wood.

Mrs. Charles Gorton Sr. gave a review on the book, "One Small Candle." Mrs. Moore closed by reading "Count Your Age By Your Friends." Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Evans and Mrs. Mary Goodin of Milan attended for the first time in several months.

George Hawkins of Britton, Carl Hawkins and Marvin Stotler of Tecumseh are in northern Michigan deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rowe entertained the seventh grade of Britton School for the 13th birthday anniversary of their daughter, Teresa. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. Refreshments of birthday cake and pop were served during the evening. There were about 40 in attendance.

Mrs. Charles Gorton Sr., assisted by Mrs. Clare Camburn showed Christmon Symbols and Monograms in Tipton Wednesday evening. Mr. Gorton called on Walter Bale, who is formerly of Macon.

The Rev. Virgil Turner returned to his home in Delaware, Ohio Wednesday. He has been conducting a building crusade for the Macon Methodist Church.

Roger Gillespie and Lawrence Ash are in northern Michigan deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton F. Moore left Saturday morning for Jacksonville, Fla. where they will attend the wedding of Mr. Moore's nephew.

The youth of the Macon Methodist Church took produce, canned goods and other useful items to the Chelsea Methodist Home Sunday afternoon for the annual fall festival.

There will be a united Thanksgiving Service at the Tecumseh Methodist Church Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

Fellowships Visit Home in Chelsea

The Senior and Junior High Youth Fellowships of the Tecumseh Methodist Church visited the Methodist Home in Chelsea this Sunday.

The young people participated in the worship service provided by the youth of the Lenawee subdistrict for the guests of the home.

Gifts of commercially-canned products, squash, and other produce were taken as an offering from the local church.

Upon returning from Chelsea the Senior High group attended a pizza party in the parsonage as guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Porteous. Mr. and Mrs. James Records opened their home to the Junior High youth.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meads are sponsors for both fellowships.

Junior Leaders Plan to Attend Training Retreat

Approximately 100 4-H Junior Leaders will participate in a Junior Leadership Training Retreat at the Monroe County 4-H dining hall Nov. 18 and 19.

The retreat, "Widening Horizons" will involve 4-H youth from Lenawee, Monroe and Washtenaw Counties. Dr. Joseph Perez, Assistant Professor of Sociology, at Adrian College, will be the featured guest speaker. He will speak on the subject "Who Am I?"

All junior leaders in attendance will have had at least one year of experience in 4-H club leadership and must have been named by their club leaders to attend the Area Retreat.

Job Corps Has Spots for Youths

Almost 30% of the two million young people entering the nation's work force each year are school drop-outs.

They have difficulty finding jobs, according to Larry Gunter, Youth Counselor at the Adrian Office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

For them the Job Corps may be the last chance to share in the "American Way of Life." The Job Corps program, Mr. Gunter said, is designed for those young men and women between the ages of 16 and 22, who need to develop the skills and work habits necessary to find and hold jobs and join the mainstream of society.

There are currently openings in the Job Corps for youth in this area, who can qualify.

Anyone interested, may obtain additional information from Mr. Gunter, at the Office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission in Adrian.

Uniform Fund Boosted $200

BRITTON — A sum of $200 was voted to be given to the Band Uniform Fund, which still needs $1,500 to complete payment on the new uniforms, when the Britton-Macon PTA met in the gym Tuesday evening.

A balance of $1,380 was reported by the treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Bortel. "The budget will be presented at the next PTA meeting in January," stated PTA President Wayne Dunbar.

Mrs. Donald Bush, the vocal music instructor, presented the High Ensemble, a group of young singers from the High School Choir. They sang four numbers: "Lone Wild Bird," "Thanks Be to God," "Look Out World, Here I Come," and "I Wish I was."

Superintendent William Saxton welcomed the parents to the Open House, and then the parents visited 10-minute sessions of their children's classes.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria following the completion of the visitation.

Facts about cleaning carpets with Blue Lustre
A gallon of Blue Lustre cleans the equivalent of six 9x12 rugs, depending on soil.
Traffic paths may be removed without cleaning wall-to-wall if rest of carpet shows no soil.
It costs only about 1c per square foot to clean your carpet. Blue Lustre electric shampooers may be rented for $1 a day.
Carpets stay new-looking if you keep Blue Lustre handy to remove spots and traffic paths as they appear. Since it contains no soap, there is no residue to cause rapid re-soiling. It dries to an invisible crystalline powder containing the soil, removed by vacuuming.
You'll be delighted by the way Blue Lustre restores forgotten colors in both carpets and upholstery. Des Ermia's Furniture, Tecumseh.

2 Clinton Starters Back

By IVAN McKENNA

CLINTON — The Clinton Redskins have hung up their football cleats and exchanged their pigskins for basketballs.

Coach Dick Content has five returning lettermen on this year's squad, plus a good group of juniors.

He has two returning starters in Gene Brown, and junior Butch Hoelzer.

The other returning lettermen are seniors Sam Sparks, Jim Grey and Ken Bennet.

Last season the Redskins had their best record in several years finishing with a 13-6 mark overall.

In Lakeland C competition, they tied for second place with a 9-3 record. In first place was Manchester, winning 11 games and losing only one.

Asked about the Lakeland C competition this year coach Content replied, "It's always tough! In the two years the league has been in existence, Manchester, Brooklyn and U. High have always been the teams to beat, and it will probably be the same this year."

Those three teams, plus Clinton, finished the top four in both '65 and '66.

The Redskins will host the Onsted Wildcats in the opening game of the season Tuesday night. Sure starters are Hoelzer and Brown.

Hoelzer led the team in scoring last year, averaging over 18 points a game.

He missed the last half of football season due to a shoulder separation, but is expected to be in top form for the first basketball game.

Other probable starters are Sparks, Gray, and Jim Schuler. Jake Schwab and Kelvin Bennet could also work into a starting position.

Indians Lack Heighth

By JIM LINCOLN

One of the most inexperienced —and shortest—squads in years will open the Tecumseh 1966-67 basketball season here next week against Dundee.

Only four lettermen are back. Gone is the heighth Coach Vic Lawson has enjoyed the pest few years.

The Indians will have seven of the 12-player varsity at 6' or over, but none will match the Terry Alcocks or Gregg Allens, the 6'4" centers the past four years.

Chuck Thomas at 6'3" is the tallest with Dean Hebb and Doug Bugbee stretching to 6'2".

Both Thomas and Hebb are lettermen as are Dave Kennel and Jim Mobley.

Another letterman, Scott Edwards, may have played his final prep game last spring. Edwards suffered a broken leg Oct. 14 at Grosse Ile where the Indians bowed in a football tilt to the Flyers.

Hebb and Thomas are certain to start in the opener but the others are battling for starting roles.

Steve Dalton, 6' sophomore, has a chance to break into the lineup as do Bugbee, Jim Upell, Mobley, Kennel, Buddy Work, Gus Bishop, John Anderson, Dan Conklin and Dick Gerten, 6'1" cager from near Fremont, O.

With the exception of Dundee, Grosse Ile and Milan, the Indians will be the shortest team on the floor. Airport is expected to win the Huron League crown with Blissfield, and possibly the Indians, giving the Jets the most trouble.

Airport, although only 3-7 in the Huron League last season, has its entire starting five back, including 6'5" Andy Anteau. The Jets dropped two close ones to Tecumseh last year.

With a little luck, Tecumseh could equal the 12-6 record posted last season.

An Old Timer Remembers

By CLARENCE J. AVERY

This ended my formal schooling and within weeks I had moved on. It seems the D. T. & I. had opened machine shops in Tecumseh and the master mechanic, a Mr. Sloat, seeking a timekeeper-telegraph operator, through the recommendation of George Ziehr, the Lake Shore agent, was saddled with me.

I think George was glad to get me out of his hair. Telegraph operators were scarce and being quickly "discovered." I was yanked from that soft berth and slapped on the night job at the Detroit yards in Delray.

This job was a dilly — 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., seven days a week.

I was alone in the office, and in addition to handling the telegraph wire my duties included throwing by hand all switches for incoming trains, calling all train crews by going to their lodgings, checking all car lists and at exactly each midnight, with lantern and pad, I appeared at the "cross-over 'Y'" from the other connecting railroads to check the cars that had been, or were being returned "home" before the midnight deadline.

That was not all. A short distance down the tracks there was a drawbridge over a canal through which an occasional coke barge would pass.

So, upon hearing the familiar whistle for the bridge, I would drop everything, run like hell, insert an iron bar in the center of the bridge and walk around and around like a donkey to manipulate it.

Then each morning come daylight I would gather up all switchlights, clean, refill and replace them, sweep out the place and wait for relief.

It didn't take long to get a belly full of that. So, with all that "main line" experience (still 1906) and having developed a severe case of "boomer fever," (uncontrollable urge to move on to other jobs) from which, by the way, I never fully recovered, with due notice I was off and running.

For the next few years, before I was 21, I had worked for both commercial telegraph companies (W. U. and Postal) in a great many cities including Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Reno, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Also, I had pounded a key for most of the western railroads from the lonely "flag stops" on the prairie to the big city terminals.

My last railroad job was at Mojave, California, a small desert town, but a very important joint terminal for the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe roads which shared a single track over the difficult Tehachapi mountain pass.

At that time (1910) this place was probably the roughest and toughest spot on the continent.

The Los Angeles aqueduct which extends for 200 miles across the desert was then under construction, requiring eight years to complete.

The construction stations were about 30 miles apart and Mojave was in the middle of them.

Pay day was once a month, and I doubt there was ever anything in the movies, or in fiction, or that Robert W. Service could have better described the wild scenes that took place at Mojave for a week following pay day.

Hundreds of men, mostly laborers called "muckers" would swarm into town loaded for bear.

To "greet" them, coming from Los Angeles and San Francisco would be gamblers, thugs, dope peddlers and droves of prostitutes. The latter group would occupy "cribs" which surrounded a huge dance hall and bar inside a high stockade.

The 10 saloons on the one dusty street never closed. During the week-long orgy both railroads would bring in squads of their own strong men in attempt to keep order and protect their own property.

That is how bad it was, and if I were to go into further detail you would probably think me to be a bigger liar than you may have already suspected.

Anyway, some years later in New York City there appeared in a Sunday edition of the New York AMERICAN a double page illustrated feature story, describing the events I have cited, and referring to Mojave as THE LAST STAND of the DEVIL in the UNITED STATES.

Next stop was El Paso, Texas, where the Mexican rebellion was getting hot just across the border, and as usual, good telegraphers were in great demand.

Through many hours of practice I had by that time become a high speed press telegrapher, where the Phillip's code (a sort of short-hand) is used in conjunction with the Morse code.

Soon afterwards, upon reaching Chicago via Dallas and St. Louis, I joined the ranks of the Associated Press.

My "boomer fever" was then higher than ever and for the succeeding seven years I worked press wires in many newspaper offices in as many large eastern cities and in the New York bureau offices of all three major press associations — the A. P., United Press and Hearst's I. N. S.

Here in the bureau offices I always worked as a sender. The press senders were regarded as the most skillful. At least they received the highest pay.

OUR NEW BIRD FEEDER

A new bird feeder came into the yard several months ago. A friend, Russ Cheever, of Britton, built it and it's a dandy. He used a cement-filled wheel for the base and mounted the feeder itself atop a six-foot pole.

The feeder proper has glass on three sides, is roofed and has rudder-type wings extending straight out from the open side. These catch any breeze and the box moves so that always the open entrance side is away from the wind. How about that — our birds will be dining in comfort this winter.

THE HEAVY base did away with any pole driving and as soon as the feeder arrived we were in business. Scratch feed was put in and early the next morning we had customers.

There was absolutely no waiting period at all, no shyness nor any being afraid of something new. The sparrows knew what that white thing was and, quite obviously, they approved.

The next free loader was a blue-jay — yes, this feeding station was really going to be fun.

THE GLASS sides are great for us as well as the birds. We can see exactly who is eating and they do not have the sensation of being boxed in.

Of course, birds are not terribly smart about glass and we laughed the other day as a dapper little downy woodpecker repeatedly tried to enter the feeder through one of the glass sides.

He could see the piece of suet inside. But could not figure out what was keeping him from it. November's big blizzard brought home the importance and value of a covered feeding station.

The food on the open tray was buried deep under the white snowy blanket, but inside the new station, all was nice and dry.

THE SQUIRRELS are having trouble with the new restaurant. The pole it sits on is, as mentioned earlier, fairly tall, but it is also quite spindly and smooth.

They know food is up there, but have not figured out how to get at it. One did manage to shinny his way up and bump his nose on the bottom of the tray.

He could not, however, manage to twist himself around enough to reach inside. Actually, he didn't try very hard — he merely slid down and ran over to the fence where there was, of course, no problem.

I do not underestimate the squirrels though and, when their curiosity becomes strong enough, they will discover the secret of getting into the feeder.

Just lately, the most faithful patrons have been three little tufted titmice. As pert and cocky as ever, they have developed a most systematic eating pattern.

While one is inside carefully selecting a sunflower seed, the second is sitting on the front porch perch patiently waiting and the third is in the Norway maple tree eating.

When bird No. 1 has picked out what he apparently thinks is the biggest and tastiest seed, he takes it up to the tree.

No. 2 then moves inside to make his selection and No. 3, who, with perfect timing, has just finished his snack, flies down to the waiting perch.

Of course, the tufted titmice are always most welcome visitors, we love their bright and, oh, so big black eyes, their pretty slate gray coloring and their cheerful dispositions, but this precision eating bit has afforded a bonus to the fun of titmouse watching.

CHECKING BACK through the feeding station's guest book shows how thoroughly it has been accepted.

Sparrows, tufted titmice, white-breasted nuthatches, both the hairy and downy woodpeckers, bluejays and flickers — all have been customers.

So it is that we have been busy lately watching the birds as they enjoy our new feeder.

Druggist Advises—Let Others Be Guinea Pigs

"Let somebody else be the guinea pig, stick with products you know," Carl Lamb, local pharmacist, told members of the Mothers of Twins Club Nov. 14.

Mr. Lamb gave many helpful hints aiding the shopper. He said that aspirin is the most common over-the-counter medication and that the only difference in it, buffered, coated or plain, is the price.

MR. LAMB remarked that 4,000 tons of aspirin are used annually in the United States — that familiarity of the product has bred contempt for its therapeutic action, but recent studies have given it a wider range of action, from lowering the blood sugar in the diabetic to the lowering of the uric acid in gout.

"Sweat has no odor," the pharmacist introduced the deodorants and antiperspirants into his talk. "When freshly secreted, perspiration is not unpleasant, only after bacteria which dwell on the skin begin to act, does it begin to develop an odor."

"Deodorants do not check the flow of perspiration — it is the anti-perspirant that will check the precipitating protein," continued Mr. Lamb.

"These terms are frequently interchanged when actually they perform only one of the functions but it is believed that the word 'deodorant' has more sales appeal," he explained.

Mr. Lamb included information concerning tranquilizers, vitamins, cold remedies, diet and acne aids and hair sprays in his informative talk preceding the affiliation of the organization with the state Mother of Twins Club.

SIX MEMBERS of the Western Wayne County Mother of Twins Club were present to discuss the advantages and purposes of becoming affiliated with the state group. Local members voted in favor of the affiliation.

Mrs. James Hite and Mrs. Frank Sandhoff were appointed chairmen of the Christmas party to include a potluck supper at St. Elizabeth Church at 4 p.m. Dec. 4.

Mrs. Sandhoff is a delegate to the state board meetings held four times each year.

New Police Pay Contract Is Proposed

Representatives from the city and Council No. 55, Lansing, AFL-CIO, met at city hall Monday night and discussed a proposed new contract for the Tecumseh police.

City Manager Cal Zorn said he was not at liberty to discuss the contents of the proposal, but said the city would make a counter-proposal for the next session, scheduled Dec. 6.

Mr. Zorn, Police Chief Murell Clark and Earl Boonstra, Detroit attorney, a specialist in negotiating union contracts, met with Donald Rodehaver and Jerry Anderson, local police officers and union representative, Sid Grzenda, of Lansing.

Monday's meeting was closed to the public, as will be the December session.

What About Zoning?

Editor's note — A series of articles on zoning in Tecumseh begins with this one and will continue for the next six weeks.

OBJECTIVES OF TECUMSEH ZONING ORDINANCE

Tecumseh's new Zoning Ordinance has been in effect for slightly more than one year. During this time much new building has taken place and it is felt by the Planning Commission that some phases of the Ordinance should be presented.

This article deals with the purposes of zoning and the methods of issuing permits for construction under the ordinance.

The power of the Zoning Ordinance is based on the philosophy that the common good of the community must be considered. In order for all citizens to benefit, each must necessarily be limited to some degree in the way he uses his property.

For example, an individual could maintain a profitable livelihood at home—say a junk yard in his back yard, or a machine shop in his garage.

This, however, would create adverse conditions for his neighbors and, perhaps to a lesser degree, for the surrounding neighborhood and the City. Through zoning this situation would be prevented by prohibiting business or industrial uses in residential districts.

ZONING HAS become recognized by the courts as a valid regulation since it has been proved to operate for the public health, safety and general welfare of communities.

Zoning regulations, for example, pertaining to housing densities prevent overcrowding, insure adequate light and air and establish minimum standards of livability.

Hence, zoning is one of the major legal means for implementing a sound plan for the community and assure, stable property values. It must be emphasized, however, that zoning is not a means for immediate effectuation of all phases of the city's long range plan.

As changes occur, the new development must abide by the Zoning Ordinance, but poorly-planned existing development will not be eliminated until replacement is worthwhile.

An intermixture of industry, business and housing in the same area is contrary to sound planning principles since it is not conductive to safe and economic land use patterns.

Most communities, do, however, have a scattering of activities that are unrelated or dissimilar to the predominant character or use of the area in which they are located.

If these uses existed prior to the adoption of zoning, they are defined as "legal non-conforming uses" and may remain as long as they wish, but they should eventually be replaced by uses in keeping with the zoning requirements.

TO INSIST on the immediate elimination of legal non-conforming uses would be unfair since it would likely deprive a person of his livelihood.

Thus, the owner and his successors may continue maintaining and operating the use indefinitely. It cannot be enlarged, however, and if it is ever abandoned or destroyed, any new use must be in conformance with the provisions of the ordinance.

Thus, zoning is one tool for gradually bringing about a better pattern of land use relationships in Tecumseh.

Thanksgiving is a good time to stop taking things for granted.

The traffic near your home, for instance.

Take a tip from an independent study of police accident reports in Michigan. Out of a total of 109 people who died in Michigan traffic accidents over the Memorial Day, 4th of July and Labor Day weekends, 79 died within 25 miles of their homes. Over 70%!

So this Thanksgiving Day weekend, no matter what state you live in, it's a good idea to stop taking familiar surroundings—or anything else—for granted.

Your Car. Just because it's been running like a top for months, don't be lulled into thinking it'll perform dependably forever. Have your car checked regularly, even if it doesn't happen to send up a trouble signal.

Other Drivers. Just because you haven't had any close calls in traffic recently is no reason to think that other drivers are getting smarter. Be ready for anything. Plan ahead for dangerous situations, such as people getting out of cars from the wrong side or cars going through stop signs.

Yourself. Maybe you know people who've made it home half asleep after a late party. They were lucky. Because you can't be a safe driver when you're tired. Also, as you probably know, many fatal accidents involve drinking drivers. So a little common sense can save your life.

Thanksgiving is a wonderful holiday. But it's no time to let down your guard.

One of the most important things we've learned about safety over the last 58 years is this:

Safe driving depends on three things. Tell your friends.

News from the Tecumseh Library

New books ready for you to borrow from your Public Library:

THE MUSIC SCHOOL, short stories by John Updike.

FRANZ LISZT by Victor Seroff. Wherever he played, Liszt was idolized by eager crowds, but what can his admirers know of the great man's private life, his aspirations as a composer, his dreams for music in his own time and the future? These are the subjects explored in this charming book.

THE NAKED IMAGE, observations on the modern theatre by Harold Clurman. Observations on today's theatre world by this author carry more weight than those of any other spokesman in America. For more than three decades, he has watched the development of the theatre here and abroad, has been a director and critic, a formative figure in the Group Theatre of the 1930's and a vital force in appraising the new playwrights who have revolutionized the theatre in the late fifties and sixties.

THE GLORY OF THEIR TIMES, the story of the early days of baseball told by the men who played it.

TREE FROG by Martin Woodhouse. With his first sight of Tree Frog, an experimental pilotless drone aircraft designed of fiberglas to be so light radar cannot detect it, Giles Yeoman, a young research scientist and ex-R.A.F. flier, enters a perilous labyrinth in whose sinister turnings death waits.

A MAN FROM THE MIST by Mary Elgin. A colorful and romantic love story that reveals the Highland mists can hold tenderness as well as suspense.

CAPABLE OF HONOR, a new political novel by Allen Drury. The foibles of human ambition and stupidity, and the grandeur of political and personal integrity, are woven into this block-busting novel of national and international crisis.

Three new who-dun-its: HIS WEIGHT IN GOLD by Maurice Proctor; I START COUNTING by Audrey Lindop; and TERROR by John Creasey.

We have the best connections

When you're a big telephone company, you don't get to meet too many of the people you serve.

So you have to find ways to avoid thinking of a customer as just a line in a book full of numbers. Or a circuit in a complex telephone network. Or an address on a mailing machine.

We decided a long time ago that a communications company should never be out of touch with the people they work for.

That's why we hire from the communities we serve. Linemen. Repairmen. Operators. Executives. Secretaries.

That's why we keep active in community affairs. With fund drives. Safety programs. Little Leagues. Junior Achievement.

And perhaps that's why we feel so close to all the people represented in that telephone book. A lot of them are us.

Cleary Program Expanded

Tecumseh Extension Administration Management classes will be offered in winter term, beginning in mid-January by Cleary College.

Dr. Donald Houghton, Cleary vice-president, stated the college was planning to enlarge its winter program.

Basic accounting, business law, economics, English, intermediate and advanced typing, business math and shorthand classes are being considered.

In addition, management courses involving industrial communications, work simplification, industrial sociology, personnel relations, data processing orientation and effective supervision are tentatively scheduled.

Individual courses with the exception of typing, math, accounting and shorthand will meet one night a week for 12 weeks beginning Jan. 9, 1967. Tuition cost is $30 per subject, plus a $10 matriculation fee.

"Most of the participants are pursuing the six-subject Management Development Certificate Program," Dr. Houghton said, "however, interested citizens desiring single courses are welcome."

A TENTATIVE schedule for classes follows:

Monday — English 216, Business Law 101.

Tuesday — English 101, Work Simplification 218, Typing 102-103, Math 101, Accounting 101.

Wednesday — Economics 101, Industrial Sociology 252.

Thursday — Personnel Relations 109, Accounting 101, Math 101, Typing 102-103, Data Processing 127.

Saturday, 1 p.m. — Management 238.

Business Law 101 is an introductory survey of law and legal systems, with emphasis on contemporary problems.

Accounting 101 deals with basic accounting procedures, journalizing and posting, books or original entry, merchandise operations and classified statements.

English 101 is concerned with the study of basic grammatical forms and functions of words and word groups, supplemented by spelling.

Economics 101 is the beginning course in economics dealing with the general principles which find application in modern business.

Math 101 involves the accurate use of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions and decimals in computing interest, markup, depreciation, insurance, taxes, etc.

Typing 102 is theory and speed practices and Typing 103 includes production typing problems and continued speed

Sociology 261 reviews the social structure of work environment, the work experience of the participants and the relation of both to the community and society. Particular emphasis is given to the formal and informal groups that operate within the framework of the industrial enterprise. The composition of the labor force is also studied in some detail.

Data Processing 127 is designed primarily for administrative personnel and is not essentially technical in nature. It provides a quick history of data processing, basic concepts of electronics, computers and programming techniques.

Entertain District Director

The Little Garden Club entertained the Federated Garden Club District Director, Mrs. A. J. Kohler of Monroe, at the November meeting.

Mrs. Kohler explained the Federated organization system, stressing that it is a large club, but its basic beginning is most important through the individual meetings in members' homes.

The Garden Center and Books chairman, Mrs. Carson House, Jr., reported that the book to be presented to the Library this year would be "Abstract and Not So Abstract Flower Arranging" by Mrs. John Knight.

Four members attended the "Fantasy in Holiday Design" demonstration at the Michigan Union in Ann Arbor given by "Eric", a designer and flower shop owner from Jackson, and reported some of the highlights.

A film titled "No Time For Ugliness" concerning landscape design in city planning was shown by Mrs. Carlton Cook, followed by slides of some of the areas within Tecumseh where improvements are needed.

Members voted to make Civic improvement an important phase of the program for the coming year.

Definite plans were announced for the annual Christmas social evening, Tuesday, Dec. 13, with members and husbands meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hammel for punch and appetizers. Dinner at 7:30 p.m. at Don's Beef Buffet and ending with dessert and songs at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Carlton Cook. Reservations must be made by December 8 with Mrs. Donald Moffatt.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. A. J. Kohler, Mrs. John Howell and Mrs. Robert Bagdon.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Judson Miles, assisted by Mrs. Charles Gross, and Mrs. J. J. Walper.

Pancake Day To Be Monday

The Women's Auxiliary to Goodwill Industries will hold Pancake Day and open the Gift Shop Monday at the Goodwill Industries Bldg. on East Beecher St in Adrian.

Pancakes and sausage will be served from 9 to 7 p.m. The Gift Shop will be open daily through Saturday, Dec. 3.

Attends Session

Mrs. Gerald Henricks recently attended Michigan Counselors Association Convention in Grand Rapids.

Dr. Donald Bouma from Western Michigan University gave the opening luncheon address. A sociologist, he said counselors and sociologists are supposed to have all the answers, yet even people allied with so-called exact sciences cannot determine accurately how many square feet were involved in a race riot or the precise number of injured, though sociologists are expected to know exactly what the cause of the riot was.

He suggested that all it takes to be a counselor, many people believe, is common sense, yet he said this quality is neither common nor does it always make sense.

Examples such as "birds of a feather flock together", yet "opposites attract"; "he who hesitates is lost," yet "all things come to him who waits" are some contradictory adages associated with common sense.

Dr. Kenneth Hoyt, president of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, discussed current trends and changes in the guidance field. He predicted many new faces of guidance and told counselors to prepare for these changes.

Willard Cheek, a physicist associated with General Motors, said the search for truth brings many innovations and answers to numerous problems.

Dr. Cheek felt that many problems in schools as well as industry came because half the team plans and the other half executes the programs. The total team must be involved in the planning as well as the doing. And finally, he emphasized the need for loyalty.

Workshops in group techniques, the impact of community colleges, testing financing college educations, legal implications in counseling, and the youth opportunity center of the Michigan Employment security commission were also featured.

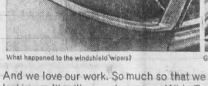
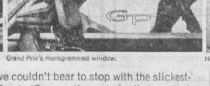
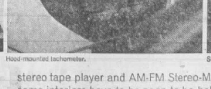
When you love your work, it shows.



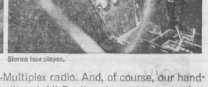
What happened to the windshield wipers?



Grand Prix's monogrammed window.



Hood-mounted tachometer.



Stereo tape player.

And we love our work. So much so that we couldn't bear to stop with the slickest-looking split grille ever to grace a Wide-Track. (Or any other car, for that matter.)

We went ahead and made the windshield wipers disappear. The car not only looks cleaner, but the wipers are less subject to icing and freezing, too.

Then we got rid of the vent windows on all Grand Prix hardtops. We replaced them with nifty monograms and a flow-through ventilation system.

We even designed a rather unique hood-mounted tachometer option that's available on all Pontiacs. As are our other bright new options like our eight-track stereo tape player and AM-FM Stereo-Multiplex radio. And, of course, our handsome interiors have to be seen to be believed. All Pontiacs have standard safety features that include a dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, outside rearview mirror, and GM's energy absorbing steering column.

Isn't it time you decided to see your Pontiac dealer? If you love our work the way we do, it's the least you can do.

What do you have to be thankful for?

A great deal we hope.

Because we at A&P have much.

We're thankful for God's blessings on our great country.

We're thankful for the free enterprise system that has allowed us to serve you for more than a century.

We're thankful, that again this year we'll be privileged to play a part in making Thanksgiving feasting a memorable occasion for so many.

But most of all we're thankful for you . . . for your patronage and loyalty.

When you come in we hope that the warmth of our service, the completeness of our selection and the dependability of our values will tell you better than words how thankful we are.

"TECUMSEH'S PROFESSIONAL PHARMACY"

When the U.S. sends a man into space, an Accutron timepiece usually goes with him.

Why on earth do you need one?

Just one darn minute!

For the same reason he does. So you can tell what time it is. Precisely.

The Accutron® movement is used in Explorer, Telstar, TIROS and Pegasus satellites, as well as Gemini. The vibrations of a tiny tuning fork divide each second into 360 equal parts. And make Accutron time so precise, we guarantee it within 60 seconds a month.* About two seconds a day.

What's more, this is the accuracy this timepiece can be expected to keep long after man has conquered space.

By then, earth may not be the only place you'll need one.

That's the most an Accutron® timepiece will gain or lose in one month's time. And we'll put it in writing.*

Accutron looks like a watch. But it isn't. It doesn't have a mainspring, a hairspring, or a balance wheel.

These parts make a watch run fast or slow. Accutron has replaced them with an electronic tuning fork. It splits each second into 360 equal parts. And makes the Accutron timepiece so precise, it won't gain or lose an average of more than two seconds a day. In fact, we guarantee accuracy to within 60 seconds a month.* Just one darn minute.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Tons of newsprint, hundreds of hours of air time and millions of conversations centered on The Game.

It raged for weeks before the battle.

When the Irish rallied to tie the Spartans, 10-10, the deluge rivaled Niagara.

Even some of the most rabid were ready to cry "Uncle."

But let me add just one more story, slightly mythical, the one of the forelorn priest on temporary duty at the Michigan State University Catholic Student Center.

A graduate of Notre Dame, he found himself assigned to hear confessions from 1:30 to 4:30 the day of the game by the hard-boiled pastor, an MSU fan who had hied himself off to Spartan Stadium.

With just about everybody in the area attending The Game, nobody was going to confession and the dutiful priest sat alone and unhappy.

Roars from the stadium indicated the action was furious and he did manage to slip out for a moment at halftime to discover the contest tied.

Back in the confessional, the minutes dragged agonizingly by. He finally got a customer. As the young man was about to leave the box, the priest said, "Son, would you do me a favor?"

"Sure, father, what?"

"Find out what Notre Dame is doing in that game?"

The lonely vigil continued for the cleric until finally he heard someone enter one of the confessional compartments. He automatically placed his ear next to the heavy mesh screen between himself and the penitent.

"Bless me father for I have sinned," the voice of the same youngster started, "It has been 20 minutes since my last confession. I haven't done anything and neither has Notre Dame."

WHICH BRINGS us to the question, are we getting inundated with football on television?

Take Sunday. Three contests were shown, the action running from about 1 to 6 p.m.

One of these days, Wives of America will probably be revolting against the networks. And I'm afraid there will be general sympathy for their cause.

Seeing the gridiron greats on the tube is wonderful — in one-game doses — But it can get to be too much of a good thing.

A headlong rush by both the NFL and AFL to cash in on the TV dollars rapidly is reaching the point of diminishing return.

All of which reminds me of the piece done some years ago by the late H. G. Salsinger, long-time sports editor of The Detroit News. He predicted if college football continued to overemphasize, it could strangle itself.

Then he told of the game of the future, which could do the final deed.

Much cash had rolled in from Siwash U's games in its ultra - modern 100,000 - seat stadium. School officials decided to double the take by building another right next door.

A tunnel connected the two stadiums and the idea was that on Saturday afternoon Siwash would have two contests. Its offense would start in Stadium No. 1 against the defense of that week's foe and the Siwash defense would be pitted against the opponent's offensive unit.

When the ball changed hands, the defensive monsters would change fields via the tunnel.

One game day it rained and there was confusion in the tunnel.

With uniforms caked by mud, stadium guards couldn't tell the players apart and mistakenly sent them the wrong way.

It wasn't until another set of downs went by that Siwash's offense discovered it was playing the Siwash defense.

There was muttering from the stands when the truth came out, then shouts of anger.

Finally, the spectators, almost as one, got up and quietly filed out of the stadiums, never to return.

Greed had killed college football.

Community Fund Goes Over Top - - $46,152

By CAROL HOWELL

Annual drive of the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation has gone over the top again this year.

Before a meeting of the Board of Trustees Tuesday night Carl Lamb, chairman of this year's appeal, reported receipts and pledges totaling $46,152.97. This figure exceeds the charity budget by $269.

Residential gifts, amounting to $4,199, were up 21.6% this year.

Retail and commercial donations of $4,909 were about 9.4% more than last year's.

Industrial giving, although down slightly, still was impressive. Industry's total: $30,403.

Professional contributions were $1,616, about the same as last year.

Following Mr. Lamb's report, the Board approved payment of $3,235 to the City, completing the Foundation's obligation toward the purchase of the Pit property.

An additional $2,500 was earmarked for a specific project at the Pit. Money will be paid to the City when the nature of the project has been determined.

Speaking for the Foundation, President Merlyn Downing commended Mr. Lamb and the other workers for their enthusiastic efforts throughout the campaign.

$50,000 Fire Hits Wilson's

A leaky gas main in a control room just off the parts department of Wilson Motor Sales caught fire mid-morning Monday, causing estimated damages of $45,000 to $50,000 to the auto agency.

The fire devastated the parts department, ruining radios, batteries, mufflers, belts and other equipment. Flames charred a considerable portion of the immediate area and then fanned out beneath a false ceiling.

Tecumseh firemen quickly responded and probably could have cut damages drastically, except there was no outside shut-off valve to the gas line.

Firemen were afraid to extinguish the jetting gas, fearing fumes would then pocket and explode.

Charles Baird, employee, discovered the fire shortly after 10 a.m. when smoke began billowing out of the control room into the parts department.

Smoke soon spread into the agency's showroom where seven new cars were on display. Ten cars, three new, were in the service department.

Harvey Wilson, owner, was not certain Tuesday as to possible smoke damage to the automobiles. They were removed from the building immediately.

Firemen fought the fire and smoke for two hours. Consumer Power employees searched 45 minutes afterwards for a shut-off valve and even dug through the blacktop parking area.

Mr. Wilson is keeping the agency open, although operations are far from normal. Friends in the community offered their services as operations in the agency's service department are limited.

He's also appreciative of the firemen, who made a second run shortly after noon when smoke broke out under the roof.

Leukemia Stricken Boy Loves Mail

Mrs. Donald Stoner, in keeping with the spirit of Christmas, has a suggestion for Tecumseh area residents — send mail to Dean Reens.

Friends of the Stoners in Grand Rapids told them of the plight of a six-year-old son of residents in that city who has leukemia with a six-months life expectancy.

The main interest of the youngster is mail. Mrs. Stoner supplies his address:

Funeral services will be held for Mr. Taylor, who was 70, in Proctor Funeral Home at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Mr. Taylor's shop was located at 132 E. Chicago Blvd.

Born Christmas Day, 1895, at Colon, he was the son of Edna and Royal Taylor.

Mr. Taylor married Lavilla C. Grieve in Detroit in 1927, coming to Tecumseh the following year.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church in Detroit and attended the local church. He was a veteran of World War I and a member of the Underwood-Orr American Legion Post No. 34 and the Odd Fellows Lodge.

He is survived by his wife and three sisters.

The Rev. Julian Gresham will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Christmas Trees Are Being Cut for Jaycee Sale

Tecumseh Jaycees are preparing for their annual Christmas Tree sale, with the proceeds to be used to develop Community youth activities.

In an effort to provide quality selected trees, the Jaycees went deep into the bush country of Grass Lake and Chelsea to handpick the trees to be sold at the A & W lot on W. Chicago Blvd.

The first load of trees is expected to arrive Dec. 3 and will all be Scotch pine of the long needle variety.

Scotch pines must be cut in mid-October to retain their green color, Mike Shorkey, the Christmas tree chairman, said. If they are cut after Oct. 25, they will change from green to a pale yellow.

The load of Spruce, short-needled trees will arrive Dec. 10, freshly-cut only a day or two before, which will insure their needles holding through the holiday season.

The Jaycees need a couple of large trucks or a semi-tractor trailer to haul the trees. Anyone having such vehicles to offer may call 423-2973 or 423-7113.

Patrons To Get Credit Cards

By JIM LINCOLN

Patrons of Tecumseh businesses will soon have the privilege of using Michigan Bankard credit cards for purchases in most stores.

Approximately 50 business folks attended a general meeting Monday night at the Community Center, where Bankard officials from Lansing and officers of the United Savings Bank explained the credit card program.

Acceptance by 22 merchants automatically instilled the Bankard credit system in Tecumseh. Other merchants are expected to join. They may obtain information and applications at the local bank.

Within the next few days, about 1,200 credit cards will be mailed to Tecumseh and area patrons. This will activate the program almost immediately.

As soon as the stores receive patron applications from Bankard, all residents will be urged to obtain a credit card.

The cards will be issued with limitations of $300, $500, $700 and $1,000. Patrons will merely present their cards when making a charge purchase.

At the end of the month, the customer will be billed by Michigan Bankard — not by the merchants. The credit card holder will then be expected to remit within 25 days.

He will also have the perogative of remitting in full or spreading the total charge over 10 months. This incurs a monthly payment of at least 10% of the unpaid balance each month.

Recovering from Facial Gun Wound

Dan Anderson is recovering satisfactorily from a gunshot wound to his face, at University Hospital Ninth floor, west ward, in Ann Arbor.

He was struck with a 22 caliber hollow point bullet, which was accidently discharged by a friend, Pat Davis of Jackson, while cleaning his gun.

The accident happened Thanksgiving Day about 6:30 a.m. in a trailer in Jackson, where Dan and his brother, John, and Dean Hebb were preparing to go hunting with friends.

Mr. Davis was in another room when the gun went off. The bullet went through a partition and struck Dan in the left side of the face, shattering his cheekbone and lodging in the left temple.

Surgeons at the hospital removed part of the bullet, but left a segment lodged in the head, saying that it was doing no harm.

The Anderson children live with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hebb. Their parents were killed in an automobile accident on Christmas Eve, 1964.

Mr. Hebb said it is unknown whether Dan Will lose the sight of his left eye. He is expected home next week.

Dan, a sophomore at Tecumseh High School, has been active in football and other sports.

Niels Hansen Dies in Auto Accident

Niels Hansen, a Tecumseh High School graduate and exchange student here in 1961 and 1962, was killed in a car accident in Germany.

His host parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonner, 800 Rogers Hwy., received a cablegram from Niel's parents Monday stating only, "Our beloved Niels died in a car accident."

After graduation in Tecumseh, Niels spent 18 months in the German army and was presently enrolled in law school in Heidelberg, Germany. His home is in Braunschweig.

Recent letters received by the Bonners told of his enthusiasm for school and also an apartment he had rented.

Robert Bonner was expecting a visit from Niels in April especially to be in Bob's wedding party.

More details of the accident were not available at press time.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church. Those unable to attend the service are invited to call at the church between 1 and 5 p.m. to sign a memorial book to be sent to the Hansen family.

Players Looking for Musical Talent

Tecumseh Players musical production of the year "Annie Get Your Gun" is slated to hit the boards in the middle of February.

Try-outs will be held Friday, Dec. 9, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 11, at 2 p.m. in the Glass Room of the Tecumseh Community Center.

The lively musical has 45 parts, something for everyone, from ages 6 to 60. There are non-singing parts as well as singing parts, and voices will be needed for the chorus.

Bring your own music with you if you wish to try for a singing part. Any song will do, it need not be from the musical.

"Annie Get Your Gun" is rich in well known songs such as "Doin What Comes Naturally", "The Girl That I Marry", "Can't Get a Man With a Gun," "They Say it's Wonderful," and many, many more.

Music and lyrics for "Annie" were written by Irving Berlin, and the book was written by Herbert and Dorothy Fields.

The story concerns Annie, a tom-boy-type of girl in her late teens or early twenties, who lives in a small western town. She is a crack shot with a rifle.

Betty Jo Hancock, who directed last year's musical for the Players, will again take on the chore of the director. She will be assisted by Dick Boyd.

Musical director for "Annie" is Gary Burgess, band director for Adrian Junior High School.

The choreographer is Eleanore Brown who has her own dance studio in Onsted.

Anyone interested in little theatre, with or without experience is invited by the Players to try out.

New Clinton Baptist Church Is Dedicated

By MAXINE CALHOUN

Dedication services for the new Clinton Baptist Church on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Floyd Vaughn of Adrian is pastor of the church which was formed as a missionary church in 1962.

Meetings were held by the 13 original families in the Bill Still house near the site of the new sanctuary which was begun last fall and used for the first time for Easter services.

Guest speakers at the dedication services will be the Rev. Willard Martin of Monroe and the Rev. Edgar Owens of Wauseon, Ohio.

Featured singers at the service will be the Smith Sisters trio of Romulus.

The 36' x 80' yellow brick sanctuary has a glass brick cross in the center front which is lighted at night.

Built by the General Construction Company, the building has eight Sunday School rooms and a large meeting room in the basement, with space for a kitchen to be completed at a later date.

Rustic birch is used throughout the sanctuary. Recent pledges have initiated a fund for the purchase of a Thomas organ.

Focal point of interest in the baptistry is the mural painted by Mary Jane Hudson, a senior at Clinton High School. The painting was a gift from Mrs. James Trull of rural Adrian.

Mary Jane painted the 4x12 contemporary scene of the River Jordan where Jesus was baptized.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson of Hudson Rd.

Although not a member of the church, Miss Hudson's artistic ability was called to the attention of church members when she completed a beautiful 12' x 15' mountain scene mural in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Northrup in Clinton.

The church has 90 members with 70 children and adults enrolled in the Sunday School classes.

MARRIED 25 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. John H. Harrison, 1104 Sunset Dr., will observe their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house Sunday afternoon at the VFW Post Home. Friends and relatives are invited to call from 2 to 6 p.m. John Harrison and Evalena Hobb were married Nov. 30, 1941, by the Rev. O. V. Robison at the First Baptist Church. They will be assisted at the reception by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Harrison, 212½ E. Pottawatamie St., a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Michling, 301 E. Logan St., and another son and daughter, Debbie and Randy and a niece, Sheila Anderson. The couple have one grandson, Scott Michling.

CROP Account Opens at Bank

The "CROP Account" at the United Savings Bank, Tecumseh, is open to receive cash contributions for the purchase of Navy Beans and Milk Powder to be used in overseas feeding programs of Church World Service, according to Robert Ries, local CROP representative.

This program is sponsored in Michigan by the Michigan Council of Churches and is under the direction of Russel Hartzler with offices in Lansing.

Churches, organizations and individuals in the Tecumseh area are asked to lend their support to this united effort to provide food for emergency feeding programs overseas.

MRS. GARY THOMAS

Marilou Layton Is Wed to Gary Thomas

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Joseph Evert Layton, 1440 North Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Illinois and the late Mr. Layton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Thomas, of Hamburg, New York.

The Rev. William Baker of the North Side Presbyterian Church, Ann Arbor, preformed the ceremony. A soft candlelight glow and fall flowers formed the background of the chancel.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Henry K. Thomas of Detroit, the bride was gowned in a floor length dress of candlelight beige textured silk, hand beaded at the neckline and hem line with rice pearls and tiny seed crystals.

Her full length veil was held by four handbeaded broaches. The gown was an original by EvelDean.

She carried a cascade of Woburn Abbey roses interspered with stephanotis and minature ivy.

Mrs. Geoffrey Hogan of Westfield, New Jersey, served as the matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of pumpkin colored silk linen and head band of bittersweet and carried a semi-cascade arrangement of copper shaded daisies centered with clusters of bittersweet.

Jane Thomas, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid and was attired the same as the matron of honor. Both attendants gowns were by EvelDean.

Brian Leach of Lakeview, N. Y., was the best man. Ron Thomas of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Roger Thomas and Craig Thomas of Hamburg, N. Y., seated the guests.

A reception at the Tecumseh Country Club following the ceremony was attended by 120 guests.

Shades of copper, pumpkin and cream were used with matching candles throughout the club rooms.

The tiered wedding cake was on a taffeta draped table, edged with pumpkin velvet and clusters of gardenias and rosebuds. The cake was topped with roses and stephanotis.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and the University of Michigan. She teaches English at Brighton High School. Mr. Thomas will complete his studies in Mechanical Engineering at the University of Michigan this year.

Facts about cleaning carpets with Blue Lustre

A gallon of Blue Lustre cleans the equivalent of six 9x12 rugs, depending on soil.

Traffic paths may be removed without cleaning wall-to-wall if rest of carpet shows no soil.

It costs only about 1c per square foot to clean your carpet. Blue Lustre electric shampooers may be rented for $1 a day.

Carpets stay new-looking if you keep Blue Lustre handy to remove spots and traffic paths as they appear. Since it contains no soap, there is no residue to cause rapid re-soiling. It dries to an invisible crystalline powder containing the soil, removed by vacuuming.

You'll be delighted by the way Blue Lustre restores forgotten colors in both carpets and upholstery. Des Ermia's Furniture, Tecumseh.

Dundee Cagers Tough

By JIM LINCOLN

Minus its big men of yesteryears, Tecumseh opens the 1966-'67 basketball season here Friday night against Dundee.

The Vikings have been whipping the Indians in just about everything for the past few years and have a good chance of extending their luck in the opener.

Although Tecumseh will be a mite shorter than previous seasons, the Indians will hold an edge in height — one of the few times this winter.

This advantage in helping the taller club to control the backboards could be the difference, especially if Coach Vic Lawson throws his three biggest at the Vikings at one time—6'3" Chuck Thomas and Doug Bugbee and 6'2" Dean Hebb.

Thomas and Hebb are expected to pace the Indians' attack. If Bugbee can come back and continue his fairly good start of last spring, he, along with Steve Dalton, could add to the scoring punch.

Coach Lawson unquestionably had hoped to start Scott Edwards at one of the guard posts this season, but Edwards may have ended his basketball days as a prep last March.

He's still hobbling from a broken leg suffered against Grosse Ile on Oct. 14. Edwards started many games last year and could have hit his stride as a senior and leader on the team.

Buddy Work, Jim Mobley and Dave Kennel are battling for starting roles. Work is up from the Jayvees while Mobley and Kennel lettered last year on the varsity.

Coach Lawson must have several players come through if the Indians are to be title contenders when the Huron League schedule opens here against Flat Rock, Dec. 9.

Hebb and Thomas could be two of the top scorers in the area and league, but Tecumseh will need more if it is to contest Airport and Blissfield for the league title.

1966-'67 THS Cage Schedule

HEY, WAIT FOR ME — George Mira (10), San Francisco quarterback, is off and rolling with Lion Jerry Mazzanti in hot pursuit. The play exemplified Detroit's total effort, the Lion's were always a couple of steps behind, losing 41-14, on Thanksgiving Day. The Lions will be in Los Angeles Sunday in hopes of getting back on the winning trail, but with the Rams' Front Four's current play, it's going to be tough.

He suggested, "Let us try to make every effort to make life more worthwhile and enjoyable for others and we will find that in doing so our own lives will become more worthwhile and enjoyable."

Only Cause

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the title of this week's Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches Sunday.

Like 'Game of Life'

Playing football helps young men learn what life is all about, Tecumseh Coach Tom Fagan told those attending last week's St. Elizabeth banquet.

On the gridiron the youths face similar problems to what they'll meet as adults — battling to solve them with sacrifice and hard work, always within the rules and with good sportsmanship.

Coach Fagan said that in his five years as mentor at THS, three of his captains were former St. Elizabeth junior high players.

An overflow crowd of 208 attended the ham dinner, which was prepared by Jerry Henricks, one of the St. Elizabeth Sports Boosters, sponsors of the event.

Moms and dads handled the clean-up chores under the leadership of William Berry.

'One Nation, Under God'

When the National Exchange Club designated November as "One Nation Under God" month, the Tecumseh Club expressed this theme in an observation by Elmer T. Pocklington, one of its members.

By ELMER T. POCKLINGTON

We may look back 7,000 years when man was living much as did the animals around him and we will find evidence that the main distinction between him and these animals was his belief in some kind of a god.

This belief seems to have been as innate as was his love of life. The Archaeologist shows us artifacts outdating the early paintings and carvings and then the historians give us descriptions of the gods of the ancient Romans and Greeks, whose images of these gods include men, women and animals; and they were supposed to possess all the virtues and vices of men.

THESE WERE only images of the real God whom men have always sought to understand. They became more exalted as civilization developed and as men came to realize that a finite mind cannot ever fully comprehend an infinite God.

Our own country was founded on a faith and belief in God. Our founding fathers, while few could be called religiously-minded, possessed this faith and expressed it in many ways.

Today we have an element in our society which would erase all such evidence of faith.

They would bar prayer from our children's education, "In God We Trust" would be removed from our coins and now they seek to take the words "Under God" from our oath of allegiance.

THE FAULT with these people is that they have failed to distinguish between God and their image of God.

They now say "God is dead" simply because they are unable to distinguish between the reality and the image which they have created or which has been created for them.

When I was a boy, I was taught to believe that the great Frenchman, Voltaire, was an atheist. But Voltaire said, "I am a deist — if there were no God, it would have been necessary to invent one".

If you do not want your child to grow up to be an atheist, then give him three things — intelligence, a power microscope and a telescope.

Then teach him the difference between knowing and believing. The jury says a man is guilty because the preponderance of evidence says so; therefore, that is what the jury believes.

I BELIEVE in the existence of God for the same reason. I believe in God who created this beautiful world in which we live and who made the laws under which all nature operates.

One of these laws is that when matter is heated it expands and when it cools, it contracts. But the Creator made an exception to this law — when water is cooled it contracts until it reaches the freezing point and then it expands and the ice that is formed, floats.

Without this exception to the general law, the ice would sink as soon as it formed and our lakes, rivers and coastal waters would be solid masses of ice and the surrounding regions would not be able to support life of any kind.

This is but one of the thousands of ways God's wisdom is displayed in Nature.

As civilization has developed, there has been a corresponding development of respect for the deity.

It is not reasonable to assume that the present wave of juvenile delinquency and crime is general may be one of the results of this growing disrespect for God?

Army Private First Class William D. Watson, 20, whose mother, Mrs. Virginia L. Watson, lives at 109 Burt St., has been assigned to the 21st Base Post Office at Ft. Buckner, Okinawa. Pvt. Watson entered the Army in February, 1965, and was last assigned at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. He is a 1965 graduate of Tecumseh High School.

U of M Hosts Counselors Conference

Director John Pobuda, with counselors Robert Benham and Mrs. Gerald Henricks, attended the annual Principal-Freshman-Counselor Conference sponsored by the University of Michigan.

The object was to aid secondary school personnel in judging how students from their respective high school situations adjust to the academic and campus life of the U. of M.

Discussion-type meetings provided information concerning admission policies, counseling services, testing programs and the new Residential College.

As part of the event, Mr. Pobuda and Mr. Benham met with THS graduates who are freshmen on the U of M campus to discuss how they were adjusting to college, how the high school may have helped them more, how their university programs were progressing, whether their individual program was the one they were looking for and what counseling they had received at Michigan.

Dr. Harlan Hatcher, president of the University was the main speaker. He discussed the growth of the University from 1951 to 1966 and administration attempts to maintain controlled growth and also fit the needs of the students in the changing technological world of today.

King-Size Home Addition

A gigantic addition to the Dwight Helms home, 801 S. Adrian Street, is probably the biggest project ever attempted in Tecumseh. Actually the whole house is being engulfed, with a large living room and garage on the ground floor, four bedrooms and bath upstairs, plus a second-story balcony across the front. Solid vinyl siding will complete the remodeling job. E & D Construction of Onsted is handling the project, which should be completed in early 1967. We're pleased to be furnishing all the building materials. Is your place over-crowded? Maybe you might wish to consider adding a room or two, finishing off your basement or attic. It's a lot easier than you might think and your family will love it. Call us.

An Old Timer Remembers

By CLARENCE J. AVERY

In 1917 I joined the Navy as a first class wireless operator, using the Continental, instead of the Morse code. I was subsequently advanced to chief, then chief-in-charge, communication office, Third Naval District, New York City.

Upon my discharge in 1919 I entered Wall Street where I was to remain for the balance of my business career. At this point I would like to say that in all my changes I was never once fired from a job and never left one without giving proper notice, although it sometimes took weeks, even months, to be relieved, as it once did at Evenston, Wyo., on the Union Pacific.

After entering Wall Street, although I actually worked as a telegrapher for only a short time, my experience in the telegraph field — going way back to that little old railroad station — was to serve me well all through the succeeding years.

Every move, it seems, was in some way related to the telegraph. I was first an operator, then chief operator for a large New York Stock Exchange firm (wire house) with an extensive private wire system.

Then largely, I think, because of my wire experience I was assigned by this firm to open branch offices — with private wires — in many parts of the country, chiefly on the Pacific Coast and in Canada.

First stop on the coast was San Francisco where in 1922 I arrived via a stateroom on the Overland Limited with a room reservation at the Palace Hotel awaiting me.

This was quite a switch from the way I landed there a bare 12 years earlier broke and jobless, having used a union card for transportation.

The stopover at Reno had been a big mistake. Being jobless, however, was no problem and I was soon pounding a key for the Western Union, secure with a company letter in my pocket guaranteeing room and meals at a nearby hotel and restaurant.

Soon on my feet and with worldly belongings retrieved from "Uncle Sam" at Reno, I was off for Los Angeles.

NOW, COME 1928 and once again settled in New York City, having become interested in arbitrage while in Canada, I continued to study its operation.

This resulted in teaming up with a couple fellows to form our own firm on the old Curb Market — now with the American Stock Exchange — to specialize in arbitraging in interlisted stocks between that market and Toronto and Montreal — by telegraph.

This operation, by the way, is a highly-specialized one, somewhat risky, to stocks are bought in one market at a price lower than they can be immediately sold for in another market, with the rate of foreign exchange being an important factor to figure.

In July, 1929, with too much success and too poor timing, we joined the New York Stock Exchange (price $400,000) and I went to the floor as a professional trader.

We did not contact the public, but continued to arbitrage, adding London to our operations.

Then, WOW! Just three months later we were hit with the big market crash — the daddy of them all.

The results of this crash were terrific. For a while it was dangerous to walk near high places for fear of being hit by some of the fellows who were diving to the street.

No kidding! At one place — a high platform on the Ninth Avenue "L" it was so bad that the merchants below, who, because of losing business every time the area was roped off awaiting the coroner, considered having nets stretched around it to discourage the jumpers.

So, after winning and losing a lot of financial skirmishes over the many years, I threw in the sponge for an easier life, and now for the last 20-odd years I have divided my time about equally between a quiet spot on a lake in my beloved Michigan (chickens come home to roost, you know) and the west coast of Florida.

I had many interesting experiences while with the press associations. Perhaps the most colorful event was the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at Newark, N. J., on July 2, 1921, where on a one-day assignment for my old I. N. S. boss, from Hearst's ringside box I sent feature stories — in Phillip's code — from dictation by three of Hearst's topflight writers — Arthur Brisbane, world's highest-paid editorial writer, famous author Irvin Cobb and the celebrated woman journalist Nellie Bly.

At one point in the moving pictures of this affair, the camera was focused close up on yours truly working the side-action sending key to show how the news of the fight was being flashed to the world.

The picture blew up to the point where all that showed on the screen was my hand and the instrument in operation.

Actually, I was sending only feature stories, the action of the fight itself being covered from another box.

Also, an earlier feature was with the A. P. Bureau in New York where on a special wire, early in the morning, I copied step by step from the death chamber at Sing Sing prison, the execution of New York Police Chief Becker for his part in the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal.

Another operator and I had flipped coins to see which end of the wire we would be on.

IN WALL STREET, on a lunch break from 20 Broad Street, I was an on-the-scene eye-witness to the Wall Street explosion on September 16, 1920, which killed 38 persons and injured over 200.

Scars from that explosion can still be seen on the walls of the Sub Treasury building and J. P. Morgan's building across the street.

And, of course, I was on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange — as a member — during the big market crash of October 29, 1929 — an experience to be remembered, sadly.

Since I have gone this far, I may as well give you the works. In addition to once having held a membership on the Big Board, I was for years a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange, (now the Midwest) the Detroit Stock Exchange and the New York Produce Exchange.

And was I a joiner! At one time or another I belonged to New York Stock Exchange Luncheon Club, the Bankers Club (NY), Downtown Athletic Club, Lido Club, Long Island and Brooklyn, New York Yacht Club, several golf clubs, Masons in N. Y. and Shrine in California, Encino Country Club, California, Elks and Rotary in Battle Creek, Battle Creek Country Club and not to be forgotten, the American Legion in Brooklyn and Battle Creek.

Looking backward, considering everything, I believe I get the biggest kick out of thinking of some of my exciting — and sometimes funny — experiences as a telegrapher, which, after all, is the point of this lengthy, and I hope, not-too-boring tale.

50 Sports Cars To Be Displayed at Greenfield

DEARBORN—Greenfield Village's 15th annual "Suorts Cars in Review" show will be held in the Henry Ford Museum starting on Friday, Jan. 13 and running through Feb. 5.

The 1967 show will combine the latest in sports cars alongside classic machines of the past.

This contrast of styles provides an unusual opportunity to trace the development of racing cars from their earliest days to the sophisticated machines of today.

The 50 plus sports cars, both American and foreign, will be displayed along the picturesque Street of Early American Shops, nearby the Museum's outstanding transportation collection.

Touch of Past

1926

Mrs. E. Reckner has sold the Hotel Reckner to Mr. and Mrs. C. S. King of Angola, Ind.

Helen Wilson was badly scalded Monday by steam from a radiator.

Sue Langan, who was severely injured in an auto accident six weeks ago, has been brought from Flint to her home in Macon.

1936

A Past Chiefs Club was organized Nov. 18 by Past Chiefs of the Pythian Sisters.

The first snowfall of the season came Nov. 22.

J. E. Murphy has purchased the Henry Smith property on Mill St. in Brownville which will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Driscoll.

During the noontime windstorm, the large plate glass window in Kerby's Hamburger Shop blew out. Although it caused a lot of commotion, no one was seriously injured though one customer had pieces of glass removed from her eye.

Harvey Hindes, who returned Friday from northern Michigan, secured both a deer and red fox. Mr. Hindes is 77 years of age and this is his first hunting trip in some time.

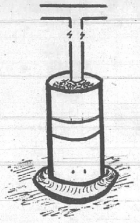
Beginning Dec. 15, everyone caught double parking on Chicago Blvd. without a driver at the wheel will be given a ticket.

DECORATED — Brigadier General Edward L. Mitchell, retired, of Palmyra, received the Grand Decoration of Chivalry at the Adrian IOOF Hall Saturday, along with Department Commander Major General LaVern J. Moore of Blissfield. The award is the highest ever granted to a Chevalier of Adrian Canton No. 8 and is given for meritorious service. Both men have been active for over 25 years. Brigadier Mitchell has served several terms as Captain of the Adrian Canton. The solos used in the Degree were sung by Brigadier Mitchell's daughter, Mrs. Elmer Kovach.

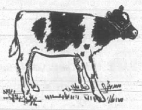
DOLLAR and SENSE FARMING.



SELF-FEEDERS like the one shown work well for growing and finishing hogs in confinement. A simple overhead auger delivers feed to each feeder which can be manually or automatically controlled with a time clock. A pressure switch in the feeder shuts off the flow. The feeders are designed to deliver small amounts of feed to the trough at a time to make waste negligible.

LOOK FOR HIGHER FAT CATTLE PRICES in the coming weeks. During the first quarter of 1967 prices are expected to run around $26 to $27. Price increases higher than this are doubtful. Heavy supplies of pork and poultry meat will be highly competitive. In 1967 prices will average higher than 1966. A major rise appears on the way for late 1967.

DAIRY CALVES can be fed corn silage in place of hay if it's good quality and fits your feeding program. But calves must eat three times as much silage to obtain the same amount of dry matter as with hay. Clean the feed box and feed fresh silage every day. Silage can be fed shortly after birth, but calves should have a minimum of 3 pounds of calf starter to six weeks of age and vitamin D supplement.



CHECK STORED SHELLED CORN to be sure moisture is down to 15% or less to prevent spoilage. Run dryer or aeration fans at night until temperature reaches 40 degrees to 50 degrees F. Check temperature regularly.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

By RICK CURRIE

The Ice Follies of 1966 is reward for academic success. Those boys who worked hard to get on the honor roll traveled to Olympia Stadium to see this year's Ice Follies. The tickets were donated by the management of the Ice Follies. This was first for many of the Knights.

River Raisin League Co-champs celebrated their victory at a cottage on Vineyard Lake. Coaches Pat Connors and Richard Chatters showed their appreciation for the team's hard work by treating the team to a meal prepared by their wives and Mr. Connor's mother. After the varsity ate as only a football team can do, they watched color TV and played cards.

"Pirates of Penzance" captured 90 Boysville students. The Gilbert & Sullivan musical performed by the Clinton High School Choir under the direction of Mrs. Donald Geiger was presented to the Knights at its dress rehearsal.

The Clinton Choir members were expert hosts, not only because of the musical entertainment, but for the refreshments served at intermission and their friendliness after the show. Clinton High School is No. 1 on the Boysville campus.

Turkey Hop strutted in Boysville's first campus dance. Again the ever-active Student Council sponsored the record hop D.J.'d by Joe Schulteis of Milford. Two busloads of girls were transported to the campus from St. Joseph Academy.

The decorated tables, Brother Donald's kitchen staff, the eighth grade waiters, the dress, all indicated the atmosphere of the evening — "The Best!"

New schedule on Sunday allows for more sleep. The campus at Boysville now rises at 9 a.m., has breakfast at 9:30 and Mass at noon. The one-hour study hall from 12 to 1 p.m. has been replaced by two optional study halls one 5 to 6 p.m. and the other from 8 to 9 p.m. This new schedule finds the students more awake and active at Mass. Under the old schedule rising was at 7:30, Mass at 8 a.m.

River Raisin League awarded Boysville its co-championship trophy. At a luncheon held on the Boysville campus dining hall, the River Raisin League had its All-Conference football assembly. Brother Jeffrey welcomed the league to Boysville. Sam Hamilton, the league secretary, awarded certificates to the All-league first and second teams and honorable mentions.

Boysville will open its cage season Friday against Ida here. JV game starts at 6:30 p.m. Returning varsity men are Sam Kirkland, Mike Gaudreau, John Jankowski, and Mike O'Shea. Giant 6'6" Rich Kayl, because of the knee inury received during football season, is doubtful for action this season.

265-Voice Choir Singing 'Messiah'

DETROIT — A Christmas season performance of Handel's "Messiah," will be performed by the 265-voice Rackham Symphony Choir and members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at 8 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11, in the Masonic Temple Auditorium, Detroit.

Admission to the concert is $2, with no reserved seats.

Tickets may be obtained at the door or in advance at the University Center Office, Rackham Educational Memorial, Detroit, Grinnell's downtown, all J. L. Hudson ticket offices and at the Masonic Temple.

OH, DAD — Larry Meads as Sir James goes over lines with his daughter, Cinderella, Debbie Osburn, for the Senior Play, "Cinderella Complex," presented Dec. 12, 13 and 14.

Aims for My Fair Lady' Role

ADRIAN — Combining a college career with a weekly Detroit television appearance sometimes gets a little hectic for an Adrian College senior.

Sandra Solce of Warren, a secondary education major who has sung professionally in Detroit and Windsor, is appearing on the "Musical Carousel" show on Channel 7.

It follows Hollywood Palace and is seen at 10:30 p.m.

She'll likely be in the running for a role in this spring's "My Fair Lady," to be produced in April.

The schedule for a coed TV singer starts each Sunday afternoon when the next week's show is taped in the Channel 7 studios in northwest Detroit, conveniently near Sandra's Warren home.

If the taping runs late, it's up extra early in the morning to get to Adrian and another week of classes.

Scheduled to graduate in January of 1968, Miss Solce is sure of one thing — she's going to finish her college education before she does any more extended professional singing.

"I just like the idea of the security of having completed my education, and teaching speech and theatre (my major) combines both my interests into one role."

SANDRA SOLCE

Next summer, as last summer, she'll sing in the Top Hat Supper Club in Windsor, where she was spotted and asked to audition for "Musical Carousel."

No one cares to venture what the future will bring, but one thing is sure — the present is quite busy for Adrian's TV singer — prospective speech and theatre teacher, Sandra Solce.

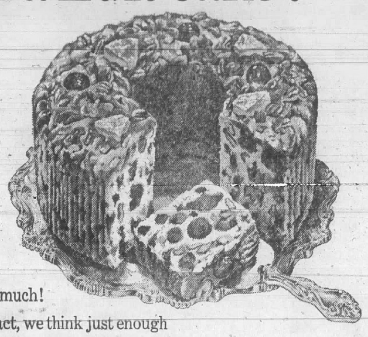
A&P how much cake should there be in a fruit cake?



Not much!
In fact, we think just enough to hold the fruit and nuts in place.
You see, our Jane Parker Fruit Cake is over 2/3 fruit and nuts.

Every cake is just bursting with cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

And one other thing you should know:
We hand-decorate every cake with glaceed fruit and nuts.
Makes it look almost as good as it tastes.

Is it any wonder Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular Fruit Cake?
Is it any wonder it's become such a favorite gift item?

It's one of many.

DECEMBER'S BIRDS

We are ready for him—ready and waiting. Big pieces of suet are at both feeding stations. The little red-breasted nuthatch has only to appear. He is in the neighborhood, or, at least several weeks ago, he was at Clara's.

She is in the neighborhood and if he was there then I assume, and hope, that he still is. I just wish that he would move a few blocks north once in a while.

These tiny nuthatches are cute little characters. They do not visit us often, not the wildest stretch of imagination could class them as winter regulars, but for the past few years, they have done quite well.

Last year a pair of red-breasteds showed up in December — how nice it would be if there was a repeat.

ANTICIPATING the arrival of a new or different bird is fun. The least little movement outside or the faintest noise and immediately everyone's attention is directed toward the windows.

When such a tiny mite as a red-breasted nuthatch is expected, all eyes must be focused "Extra carefully".

I shall not even venture a guess as to how many white-breasted nuthatches, sparrows, woodpeckers and brown creepers have been mistaken for the red-breasted and, only after a good second glance, have been correctly identified.

And such mis-naming is nothing but wishful thinking — there is not enough similarity between the birds to justify such confusion.

A bird 4 or 4½ inches long is not exactly what one would call a giant, especially when part of that length is a sword-like bill.

Unlike his big cousin, the white-breasted nuthatch, who can be quite a dandy with his white, satiny navy and slate blue, the red-breasted is almost dull and grubby looking.

Any markings on his back are so indistinct as to be unnoticeable, and on his head — well, does he have a black stripe running through his eyes or is it a white stripe above and a whitish cast to the lower part of his face? Take your choice.

THE MOST misleading thing about the red-breasted nuthatch is his name. Oh, he is a nuthatch all right. Short blunt tail, tree climbing feet and that long pointed bill.

But red-breasted?

Well, the red is certainly not the bright and brilliant hue we associate with most red birds.

A cardinal is red, the hats on our downy woodpeckers and flickers are very bright and think of the brilliant cravat worn by the male rose-breasted grosbeak.

Compare to these, the poor little red-breasted nuthatche's color is a sad thing. It is a mixture of dark pink, white, and tan which comes out looking to us like some washed-out shade of rusty rose.

OUR LITTLE bird isn't even as well groomed as his big cousin. He is always neat and trim with scarcely a feather out of place.

The red-breasted's feathers are soft and fine. They are not untidy in the manner of a yellow-bellied sapsucker, but he does usually look a little mussed up.

But, for all his faults, he is as cute as cute can be and we are always thrilled and excited when he drops in for a visit.

So it is that we are hoping, hoping, hoping the little red-breasted nuthatch will move two blocks north, taste our suet and find it to his liking, and stick around long enough to earn the title, December's bird.

Mrs. Fred Penrod Covers 24 States in Month's Tour

Mrs. Fred Penrod, 306 S. Union, returned recently from a 30-day excursion by Greyhound Bus.

She covered 24 states in her travels, stopping along the way to visit friends and relatives, and sightseeing at some of the nation's historic sites.

The tour began Oct. 8, when Mrs. Penrod left the Northwestern United States, proceeding down the Pacific Coast to Monterey, Cal., where she spent a few days with her grandson, Teddy Goodacre, now stationed at Fort Ord.

From there, she continued to Pomona, Calif., to spend a week with her son, Eldon, and to drop in on a number of friends.

The return trip took Mrs. Penrod through the Southwestern states to New Orleans, La., and across to Pensacola, Fla., where she stopped again to visit her son, Nick, and his family at Elgin AFB.

Returning home on her birthday, Nov. 7, she was greeted by a family party in her honor.

Commenting on her tour, Mrs. Penrod noted that she met many foreign visitors on the bus. She traveled with two groups from Britain, another from Puerto Rico and others from Canada.

"Foreign visitors, she said, "seem to take advantage of the opportunities we offer for this type of tour more than our own citizens do."

Balance Books

Between now and late December is the time for farmers to run a "trial accounting" of their farm business for 1966 and determine what they can do in December to save money on income tax.

Extension Agricultural Agent Norman Bless says an even annual income usually results in less total tax payment. Farmers can easily adjust income by timing sales of livestock and grain and by making or delaying purchases of fertilizer, feed, seed, and supplies around the end of the year.

"If you have had a good year income-wise it would probably pay to buy your fertilizer, feed, seed, and supplies for early next year in advance. It would pay also to hold livestock and grain and sell after January 1," the county agent said.

Income averaging is an accepted practice and farmers need to have an idea of their income to date before they can make logical decisions on whether to make a move before January 1 or wait until after the new year begins.

GM
Pontiac Motor Division

What'd you expect us to put our Overhead Cam Six in?

An ordinary car?

Our revolutionary 165-hp OHC 6 is so revolutionary we had to do something special with it. So we made it standard in all Tempests and Le Mans.

You see, it was inspired by those famous overhead cam engines in expensive European sports cars. With a few Pontiac refinements, of course.

That's why it'll keep running and running until somebody turns it off. And with a power reserve for expressway passing you'd normally expect from a V-8.

We even offer a 215-hp version that makes a lot of big V-8s seem awfully extravagant. Which is why we say, with a 6 like this who needs an 8?

Incidentally, a four-way hazard warning flasher, backup lights, and GM's energy absorbing steering column are some of the safety features also standard in all Tempests and Le Mans. So how can you possibly resist seeing your Pontiac dealer right now?

Chorus Floats

BRITTON—The sixth and seventh grade chorus of Britton-Macon School will present an abridged version of Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m., in the school gym.

Led by Captain Corcoran (Rick Saxton), the sailors aboard the good ship Pinafore sing rollicking tunes as they try to impress the visiting Navy chief, Sir Joseph (Tom Gubbe).

The captain's daughter, Josephine, (Vicki Maschino) is plighted to Sir Joseph; but she really loves a humbld sailor, Ralph (Jim Pilbeam).

Much of the humor in this operetta is satirical and is focused on British life in general and the British Navy in particular.

The main characters are preoccupied with their stations in life; even after being assured that "love levels all ranks".

Special comic roles are sung by Dick Deadeye (Wes Exelby), disliked because of his mean disposition and Buttercup (Roberta Ehlert), who sells goods to the sailors and keeps a dark secret.

Other characters include the boatswain (Scott Hetrick), Hebe (Linda Tubbs), and the many sisters, cousins, and aupts of Sir Joseph. There will be no admission charge. The operetta is directed by Mrs. Donald Bush, head of the vocal music department.

BRITTON—Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Croll and son, Kurt, and Mrs. Clay Croll were guests of Mrs. Ruth Dumire of Pittsburgh, Pa., for the Thanksgiving weekend.

On Sunday, the group attended the Sardis Methodist Church near Pittsburgh, where Kurt Jerome received the sacrament of holy baptism.

The officiating minister was the Rev. Kenneth A. McGowan, a fraternity brother of Ronald Croll when the two attended Adrian College. The choir anthem was "Mary Had a Baby." The two grandmothers were also present. A coffee hour and reception was held in their honor at the church following the service.

On Friday evening, they were all entertained at a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pendergast of Pittsburgh. The Crolls returned home Sunday evening.

'Cheaper by Dozen' Cast in Full Swing

BRITTON — Practices are becoming more numerous and longer as the production dates loom ahead for the seniors in "Cheaper By the Dozen," the hilarious story of how a family copes with the inevitable problems of raising 12 children.

It's hard to know who is going to have the most fun, the cast or the audience.

Clothes, dates, tests and a live dog complicate the action.

Tentative dates are set for Dec. 14 and 15.

The full cast is:

Father — Chug Brablec
Mother — Suzanne Kotlarczyk
Anne — Dianne Lake
Ernestine — Gail Lister
Martha — Brenda Hall
Lillian — Marilyn Sayler

Back row: Doug Fairbanks, Ray Vershum, Dave Fairbanks, Bill Higginbotham and Tom Schroeder. Ash, Fairbanks and Vershum are returning lettermen.

3 Seniors Lead Tories in Opener

BRITTON — Taking the basketball floor for the first time this season, the Britton Tories play at Whiteford Friday night.

Coach Sam Hamilton predicts the team will probably have a better season than the past two years.

He has three lettermen, seniors Larry Ash, Ray Vershum and Doug Fairbanks, on hand.

Juniors Tom Schroeder, Gordon Henning, Lynn Palmer and Bill Higgenbotham, plus sophomores Dave Fairbanks and Jim Skelton complete the varsity squad.

"Our heighth is good, as most of the boys are over six feet, but we lack depth," stated Coach Hamilton. "The boys are all good students, and I don't expect to lose any through ineligibility."

VOICE of THE HERALD

'Free Customer Parking Only'

Whenever free downtown parking is discussed, there comes the quarry:

"How can we keep storemen and their clerks from using these places?"

Maybe a neat little sign for each free stall would help.

Something like:

FREE CUSTOMER
PARKING ONLY

At present, the 51 free off-street parking places have tiny signs inside the meter heads, "Free two-hour parking."

Unfortunately sometimes these spots are taken up by merchants, who even have to move their cars every two hours or be ticketed.

A sign limiting use of the parking to extent that they realize this consideration is to bring patrons into the downtown shopping area — not provide a convenient place for vehicles of storemen.

Council is now preparing to purchase land behind the Ken-Ray, Lamb's, Pickard block for additional off-street parking. To pay for it, plus the improvements of hard-topping, lighting and lining, there must first of all be meters.

As is the case with the other off-street lots, there will be a nipping away at the paid stalls in favor of free ones — based on the cooperation of the merchants who are gradually buying up the revenue bonds which are the means of providing the original capital.

How About 'Envelope System'

With a rousing election victory behind them, Republicans of Lenawee County are looking to the future with optimism, but also with some concern.

GOP candidates polled the bigger share of votes — as usual — but the Democrat totals continued to roll upward. That's the reason for the apprehension.

Actually, it's always best to run scared anyway. When the party faithful— from either side — predict easy victory, things start to happen. Usually bad. Ask Tom Dewey.

Financially, the Lenawee GOP's have $1,500 in the treasury after meeting election obligations and sending along more than $4,800 to State Central, almost one-third of its quota for the year.

But despite the black figure in the ledger, Maurice Stubnitz, the fellow responsible for rounding up more GOP cash in Lenawee than anyone, isn't fully satisfied.

"A party is no good unless it has grass roots support," he recently told a gathering of county Republicans. "I'd like to see $1 from each Republican voter."

This sounds like a solid idea — for both parties. Why should a few have to shoulder the load with gifts of $100 to $1,000 while so many sit on their hands?

The envelope system, as used by churches, might be considered by both political parties. Not weekly, but at least annually. An envelope would arrive, stamped and self-addressed at the home of each registered voter, the GOP sending them to their number and the Democrats to theirs.

Give one dollar and help your party," might be the brief tag line.

There could be a lot of pleasantly surprised people in headquarters if the idea were given a try.

Esch Can Thank Lenawee

In the exciting 2nd Congressional race, there are some fascinating post-election angles, starting with vote statistics:

	Total Vote	Lenawee Vote
Esch	65,079	12,146
Vivian	62,651	9,092
Difference	2,428	2,054

With a George Romney landslide to help Marv Esch, this was indeed an impressive run by Wes Vivian. It's apparent that Mr. Esch should be thanking Lenawee County for winning him the seat in Congress.

It likewise is evident that plenty of people were well satisfied with Rep. Vivian's freshman term in Congress. We'll wager he'll be back in an effort to regain the seat in 1968. His large "thank you" ad in last week's Herald (and other papers) indicates this. Mr. Esch and GOP leaders should always remember the probability of a re-match with Mr. Vivian—and run scared from now until 1968.

As to Mr. Romney, everybody now surely understands his desire for the GOP presidential nomination. It's no sin to want to be president and we think our governor might as well quit playing footsie with reporters who keep asking him if he is going to make a run for the laurel wreath.

One big city editorialist noted that the governor should do his best in Lansing and when the time comes, the Big Job will seek him out.

Sounds logical.

Be Thankful Every Day

"Say Joshua," said the Pilgrim, "We've finally turned out a decent harvest, the Indians aren't raiding us anymore, the cholera epidemic is over and we still have a settlement. What do you say we have a party to celebrate our good fortune before the snow flies?"

All the folk in the colony pitched in—the men hunted for meat, the women started baking, even the children did their part, finding wood and running numerous errands.

The great day came . . . the pots were full, the aroma of roast turkey and venison filled the air, breads and pies were set upon the table.

Everyone was excited and gay, the ring of laughter, the music of clinking pans, the scuffle of feet, children playing hide and seek under the tables and behind busy mothers.

The tables were full, people gathered . . . and . . . with a solemn pause, bowed their heads and thanked God for all their riches in a new land.

Today, our land is not so new, but it is full of riches.

Could the early pilgrims have foreseen, they could not have believed the wonders of our century.

Harvests so plentiful that they have to be curtailed.

All men granted equal opportunity.

Autos, planes, electricity and all the other things we have repeatedly taken for granted in our modern society.

It sometimes gets so complicated that we don't know what to be thankful for first and often find ourselves criticizing, rather than appreciating.

Thanksgiving is not just a once-a-year deal.

We have a life that has never been known to man before.

Let us recognize our benefits daily — and give thanks.

"A lot of people would like to have 'post no bills' signs on their mail boxes."

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

HARK. Could you be the owner of a light blue or gray Dodge Dart that got a thorough paraffin wax job at noon Nov. 15, as it sat at the curb by the school entrance. Or might you be the parents of the five or six boys that did the job? In either case you have nothing to be proud of, but do have a lot to be concerned about.

I am the person that stopped alongside to watch, hoping to discourage them as they went at the task of making someone pay for what, I do not know.

One by one they became aware of an outside observer and walked away until there was only one deeply engrossed in a hub cap. When he did see me, he stood up very tall and erect and gave me a big "what's your problem man" grin.

Yes, there were other incidents that you would not have been proud of. Your son is racing down the block only to jam on his brakes to take on more passengers. And had I run into him, you know as well as I, it would have cost me a summons plus repairs.

I drove around to the police department to find out what might be done about the wax job. I told them I made certain I could make a positive identification of the one with the big grin. But without his name or a witness, it would only be my word against his. Yes, I can make a citizens arrest. This means that you choose to place him under arrest and take him to the police, place charges and appear before him.

It also means that you identify yourself so that they, the gang, can make life miserable for your son or daughter.

And he or she could end up looking like the boy I saw in the police station that appeared to be the victim of the fight that they had just broken up downtown.

I talked to one officer and he asked me to consider the ratio of two officers to 2,000 students. He also indicated that when the police car drives down the street, you can expect nothing but peace and tranquility. You and I know that the ratio is not 2 to 2,000. We don't have 2,000 problem students but we do have too many and it is a high ratio as to two officers, especially when the entire town needs their services.

So are we going to say there are too many? They are too smart. We are outnumbered. We have to acknowledge their rights. Now we are admitting nothing can be done.

If someone wants something done to correct this situation, there is more than one answer. Close the school at noon, students only leave to go home at the end of the day. Appoint deputies that are not quite so conspicuous to police the area. Allow only boys with a personal parent consent to drive to school.

I am sure you think of others, like asking yourself, is this my boy? I am. And I am going to find out. Have you done all that you can to find out? Or maybe you know your boy is a problem to the community but you are tired of fighting with him. What would you do if you saw him waxing your car like he did someone elses.

I have heard many tales about the gang. All can not be true, but let's not delude ourselves into thinking that none are. And don't let yourself think that these youths are only a problem during the noon hour.

The Police admit we have a problem. I admit it and will definitely determine if I might be contributing to it through my child. Others admit to their awareness of this situation but it has existed for too long. I wonder why something was not done to correct it long ago.

What is to be done to correct it now? Could it be we have accepted defeat or maybe we don't want to do anything about it for one of many reasons. Who are you? What are you? Where are you? Let yourself be seen, heard and known as one who has had enough.

All humans walk through life saying, "Watch me, look at me." And if you don't watch them and give them some acknowledgment and recognition, they will get it from someone, some how. Just read the papers about the mass killing by someone that needed someone to show them some interest, love and concern.

No, these boys are not the problem. You and I, as parents are. Believe me, I know, I am a parent.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Gini Snyder is a lucky girl. She's the first to admit it.

Now a member of the exclusive Pacemaker Club, Mrs. Snyder is alive and feeling wonderful, thanks to a marvelous medical development.

Her heart is getting an assist in its beat from a pacemaker unit, which consists of five tiny, one-volt mercury batteries made up in a three-by-three-inch packet, implanted at the front of her right arm pit.

A wire runs from the amazing unit to her heart, insuring a steady rhythm of 72 beats every minute.

She is one of 100 persons to have undergone this delicate surgery at University Hospital, according to Bill Bender, public relations chief at the famed medical center.

Nationally, about 12,000 belong to the Pacemaker Club, reports Mr. Bender.

A heart failure 18 months ago, one July afternoon, was the first indication that Mrs. Snyder had a problem. That time, Tecumseh firemen were able to revive her by resuscitation.

There were two other incidents when her heart gave out. Mrs. Snyder's physician advised a pacemaker. But it took several weeks for her to build up the courage to say "Yes."

When Gini's husband, Alton, the A & P store manager, took her to Ann Arbor in late November her heart was chugging along at a mere 36 beats.

Now, the jovial Mrs. Snyder is delighted.

She readily agreed to talk about her experience if it would help others.

As it turned out, her fears were needless. The surgery went smoothly — in fact, Gini made her TV debut, with the operation being televised.

SINCE SHE was given only a local anesthetic and sedatives, she could watch the show on a nearby monitor set.

A team of half-a-dozen specialists hovered about, each responsible for a portion of the "show."

Gini spent 10 days in the hospital and was released with a clean bill.

The doctor who checked her out said she could do anything but water ski. A tumble at high speed could disturb the hookup.

A magic wand — which in reality is a magnet — given to Mrs. Snyder, who can now speed up or slow down the beat. She merely rubs the batteries with one side of the wand to increase the tempo, uses the other to trim it back.

With an ordinary transistor radio, she can monitor the cadence by setting the dial between stations and holding the transistor next to the battery packet. The heart beat thumps out loud and clear, permitting a count to be made.

Every three months, Gini will hie herself over to University Hospital, and have a routine check. The life of the batteries is from two to four years. Changing them is an easy matter, explains Mr. Bender.

From a "heart block, fainting spells, couldn't breath, skip a beat" life, Gini explains her condition now as "marvelous."

"If someone needs the aid of a pacemaker, he or she should go right in and get it done," advises Mrs. Snyder.

FOR THOSE who have seen Mrs. Snyder cavort on stage — for example in the Tecumseh Players productions of "You Can't Take It with You" and "The Music Man" and last winter's Jaycee Follies, you'd never have guessed she was enjoying anything but the best of health.

But her heart was really working.

Now she has a partner — the pacemaker.

If Gini should decide to do some fast steps on the stage, she'll just take her magic wand and rev up her heart beat to 88 and take off.

Santa Arrives Here Saturday

Who? Santa Claus!
Where? Downtown Tecumseh!
When? Saturday at 10 a.m.!

More popular than mother, more popular than daddy, in fact, the most popular guy who ever lived, is the bewhiskered old fellow from the North Pole, Santa Claus.

Just ask any youngster!

There will be hundreds in downtown Tecumseh to greet the season's favorite when he makes his 1966 debut here on a Tecumseh fire truck.

His annual trek here really starts the Christmas season in the lives of youngsters who find 365 days too long for the annual visit by Santa.

Downtown merchants can be thanked for making Santa's visit here possible. They set up a trailer at the Four Corners where the young ones can visit with him and with the city, help provide Santa with the candy he will have available for the youngsters.

Santa's visiting hours will be posted on the trailer, and he's assured the business folks that he'll stay right up to Christmas Eve.

After his downtown parade Saturday morning, Santa will host the youngsters at his trailer until noon, and then for four hours from 1 to 5 in the afternoon, and again from 6 to 8:30 in the evening.

This will also be his schedule on Saturday, Dec. 17, and the last week before Christmas. Only exception is Saturday, Dec. 24, when he'll be in town from 9 to noon, in the afternoon from 1 to 3, then off to the North Pole to get ready for his annual ride.

Next week, Santa's visiting hours will be from 3:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon and 6:30 to 8:30 in the evening each day, Monday through Friday.

On Thursday, Dec. 22, at 7 p.m., he'll pay a special visit for the annual children's party at the Community Center.

HER CREATION — The happy gal with the sad-faced clown is Sherrie Johnston, a senior at Tecumseh High School, who has started her own achievement program. Sherrie, accepted as an art student at Michigan State University next year, was looking for ways to earn extra money to help put her through college. Friends persuaded her to sell her talent. She specializes in chalk drawings — a favorite being colorful clowns. She will draw nearly anything people wish to order. Sherrie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Johnston, has been active in 4-H and has received several awards for her art work.

Kiddies Can Phone Santa

Area children can have a heart-to-heart talk with Santa Claus on the telephone this year.

They can call him between 7 and 8:30 p.m. Dec. 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23.

The telephone number is 423-2015.

The Tecumseh Jaycees, with Fred Johnson as chairman, have handled the details and General Telephone Co. set up the direct line to the North Pole.

GINI AND HER MAGIC WAND — It's easy to speed up or slow down her heartbeat, explains Mrs. Alton Snyder, who can control her pacemaker with this tiny object, which is a magnet.

Ice Skating at The Pit Is Not Safe

The Pit is not safe for ice skating yet, according to Don Moffatt, recreation director.

Several youngsters were in danger last weekend while skating on ice that was less than an inch thick. Luckily, they were discovered and warned to stay off.

When the ice is ready, supervised skating at the recreation area will be announced.

Chief Tecumseh Will Be Crowned at Jaycee Follies

Two more organizations have picked entries for the Tecumseh Jaycees Big Chief Contest, which is held in conjunction with the second annual Jaycee Follies.

Charles Houghtby of the American Legion and Robert Hart of the Exchange Club bring the total of contestants to nine.

Candidates' canisters will be placed in downtown stores next week. Each penny counts one vote.

The winner will be crowned Chief Tecumseh at the final performance of the Follies, which will be presented Jan. 19, 20 and 21.

The Jaycees are asking for people of the community to participate by either trying out for parts or assisting in offstage production.

Anyone interested may contact Jack Lundi, 423-3637 for details.

Family Plants Grass, Tulips

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Beneath the snow and ice at the corner of N. Evans and Brown Streets lay about two-thirds of the anticipated seed and fertilizer necessary to make the new triangle a pretty green spot next spring.

Dr. and Mrs. Carlton Cook and their children "worked like dogs" the city parks and recreation director, Don Moffatt, said.

Taking the lead from Virgil Tucker who has taken over care of "Kissing Hollow", the Cooks sought permission from the city manager, Cal Zorn and Mr. Moffatt. They submitted a plan of the landscaping they proposed to do at the corner of their street.

The family promised not only to do the planting but also to keep up the area permanently.

Mrs. Cook remarked, "It has cured the kids of littering their own yard or any other, I think, after picking up all the bits of paper on the corner."

Young William Tecumseh Cook wearied a little as the work went on last fall and he said, "Why doesn't the city do all this work?"

His dad dropped his rake and quickly straightened out his son's thinking by querying, "Well, who is the city? Aren't we the city?"

In years to come, the Cook children will have more than a passing interest in the Sugar Maple, the dwarf phitzers, myrtle, the euonymous alatus, more commonly called a burning bush and the tulips that they helped their parents plant.

Another batch of seed and fertilizer will go on the area when spring comes to insure a good seeding and then the Tecumseh physician and his family will reap the reward of their efforts last fall.

Development Is Proposed

A tentative plat for the development of Hawthorne Hills subdivision was presented to the Council Monday night.

The new housing area, located just north of the Tecumseh Country Club from Milwaukee Rd. to Macon Rd., comprises 90 building sites on approximately 80 acres.

Since there's approximately 300 feet of the west section of the subdivision inside Tecumseh's city limits and the balance in Tecumseh Township, it's still undecided which governing body will act on the plat. It will go before the Planning Commission next Tuesday.

Robert Goedert, Adrian realtor, is the developer and already has nearly completed one home there. Large lots are featured and homes upwards of $30,000 and more are planned.

More Land for Parking Is Planned

Council gave City Manager Cal Zorn the go-ahead nod Monday night when the city's top administrative official reported available property for more off-street parking.

The total project is the largest single step ever taken by the city towards procuring property for parking.

The possible sites are, in the city's southwest block:

- 6,344 square feet now occupied by Tecumseh Glass Company and owned by Louis Schneider, $18,300.
- 4,816 square feet, vacant property behind Lamb's Pharmacy and owned by John Cameron, $9,632.
- 8,309 square feet, adjoins S. Evans St. and includes the Quick Lunch, owned by Albert Bagshaw, $15,000.

One other site under investigation is a 7,920-square-foot lot owned by the late Floyd Guy. It adjoins E. Pottawatamie St. and is directly behind the laundromat at the corner of Pottawatamie and Ottawa.

If the city goes through with the purchases, total cost is $47,932.

It was the expressed feelings of several officials that cost of the property will rise, instead of drop, within the next few years.

On two properties, Schneider's and Bagshaw's leases are involved, which could help the city in spreading the costs over several years.

Purchase of the property would give downtown Tecumseh businesses and area patrons additional parking and provide accesses to city lots of E. Pottawatamie and S. Evans Sts.

Resident Calls Sanitation Poor Despite Sewer

Miles Cowdry, Jane St. resident, told Council Monday night that poor sanitation conditions still exist there despite installation of a new city sewer.

City Manager Cal Zorn and Police Chief Murell Clark told the resident that the condition would be improved as soon as a resident, having sewage difficulties, takes out a permit to tap into the main sewer.

Traffic Light Installation Is Due Soon

Tecumseh's long-awaited traffic light at the intersection of E. Chicago Blvd. and Ottawa St. is due for installation this week.

Cal Zorn, city manager, told Council that preliminary work has been completed for the installation.

Although the traffic light will be installed, Tecumseh's new one-way street program will not be put into effect until Tuesday, Jan. 3, at 2 p.m.

Mr. Zorn says one-way signs must be erected and the crossing at Kilbuck St. and S. Evans be widened.

On the effective date, traffic will be one-way south on Evans St. from the athletic field to Kilbuck St. Northbound traffic on S. Evans will turn right at Kilbuck St. to Ottawa St., and then north to N. Evans St.

Traffic southbound on N. Evans will be allowed left turns at Chicago Blvd., and west bound traffic on Chicago Blvd. may turn left onto S. Evans.

Eastbound traffic on Chicago Blvd. also will be allowed left turns onto N. Ottawa.

Prize-Winning Papers on Display at USIA Libraries

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Copies of The Tecumseh Herald are currently on display in U. S. Information Agency information centers all over the world as examples of outstanding American community newspapers.

The Herald was a winner in the 1966 National Newspaper Association Better Newspaper Contest.

At the request of USIA's overseas libraries, the association has assembled 90 sets of prize-winning weeklies and dailies — more than 2,000 individual copies in all.

It is the first time that foreign nationals have had an opportunity to view examples of non-metropolitan U. S. newspapers at the USIA centers.

In many instances the exhibits will be used as the focal point of newspaper seminars. At La Paz, Bolivia, for example, a nationwide seminar brought together 80 Bolivian newsmen, who had the opportunity to look over the exhibit and discuss it with U. S. newspapermen taking part.

All of the newspapers were donated to USIA, which handled packaging and shipmen to its overseas libraries and information centers.

Want to Adopt School in Africa?

Are there schools or clubs interested in adopting a sister school in Africa?

Tanzania, in southwest Africa, desperately needs more schools. It can now accommodate only 50% of the youth of elementary school age.

With the cooperation of United States schools and clubs, and with the sponsorship of Peace Corps, Tanzania will be building 50 new schools next year.

PEACE CORPS Volunteers are currently at work in Tanzania. Two will be visiting Michigan in January to discuss the school or club project of adopting a Tanzania school.

These volunteers will then return to Tanzania and continue working on the school project.

If any local school or club would be interested in more details, they may contact the Cooperative Extension Office, 4-H Division, at the Courthouse in Adrian, 265-5108.

An appointment to visit with one of the Tanzania Peace Corps Volunteers will be made at that time.

Pfc. Philip Zick's top sergeant asked him if he was a movie star when he received 15 letters one day recently in Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam. Philip's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zick, had sent his address to the Detroit Free Press Servicemen in Vietnam list and Detroit area letter writers really got busy. Adrian High School seniors sent him a package which he has received already. Does that give you any ideas?

TEN CANNOTS BY ABRAHAM LINCOLN

"You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
You cannot help small men by tearing down big men.
You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
You cannot lift the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.
You cannot help the poor man by destroying the rich.
You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income.
You cannot further brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.
You cannot establish security on borrowed money.
You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should be doing for themselves."

Eastern Michigan University provides a geographical breakdown of the on-campus students for the fall semester, 1966. Of the 12,330 Michigan residents attending, 45 are from Tecumseh, five from Tipton, 20 from Britton and 15 from Clinton. Eight are from Onsted. There are 390 students from out-of-state and 164, out-of-country.

Last week's essay by Elmer T. Pocklington of Ridgeway for the Exchange Club, entitled "One Nation Under God," had a transposition of two words in the final paragraph. It should have read:

"Is it not reasonable to assume that the present wave of juvenile delinquency and crime in general may be one of the results of this growing disrespect for God?"

Tecumseh Country Club greenskeeper, Rick Moran, didn't have to go far for his deer — nailing a 10-pointer at the course Thursday.

Good and bad luck has dogged Jim Lawson, one-time THS basketball star. He's now attending Grand Rapids Junior College and in action against Henry Ford Community College last week, Jim scored 28 points as his team took a last-second 101-99 decision. But Jim injured his knee in the battle and is expected to be on crutches for about three weeks.

Over the Thanksgiving holiday, Jim's team finished as runner-up in the Ft. Dodge (Iowa) Junior College Tournament and he was named to the all-tourney team.

If you're looking for an electric train, try a "wanted" classified, advises Dean Jones, the expert from Export at the Products. There were half a dozen phone calls to answer Dean's ad, which appeared last week, and he quickly closed a deal.

Mrs. James Tonneberger sent her son's name to The Detroit Free Press Vic. — Mail Call and in a three-day period, Cpl. Tonneberger received over 100 letters and cards, nearly 30 from children. One from David Samples in Birmingham, the marine thought especially nice and sent it to his family. It reads:

"Dear James. I hope you come back soon. My name name is David Samples Birmingham, Mich. I have a long letter. We have a duck. I will show you Quacky (duck pictured). The rest of my address is 505 Wadsworth Lane 48010. This is the letter from Quacky. I like the boys and girls. They clean my cage. Love David and Quacky."

Designers Are Judges in Contest

Tecumseh couturiers, Evel Garrido and Bill Heimerdinger, have been invited to serve as judges in the Michigan State finals of the "Make It Yourself with Wool" competition, at Michigan State University Saturday.

The contest for girls, 10 to 19 years, is sponsored by the American Wool Council, with headquarters in Denver, Colo.

Start Fund To Help Exchange Students

A Niels Hansen Memorial Fund, to promote student exchange programs and related projects, was established Saturday, following the Memorial Service in memory of the late Niels, at the First Methodist Church.

Niels, who stayed with the Robert Bonner family while attending Tecumseh High School during the 1961-62 school year as an exchange student, was killed in an automobile accident on Nov. 26 in Germany.

Youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Edward Hansen (the former Baroness von Netzer) of Braunschweig, Germany, a city of 250,000 in the province of Lower Saxony, he is survived by his parents, four brothers and a sister.

HE RETURNED to the United States in the summer of 1964, accompanied by his brother, Dirk. Aside from these two trips to the United States, he has visited Canada, Mexico, Africa and traveled extensively throughout Europe.

He had been planning to return to Tecumseh in the spring in order to participate in the wedding of Robert J. Bonner.

Upon his return to Germany in 1964, he entered a special cadet officer program in the German Army for a period of 18 months. At the time of his death, Niels was studying law at the University of Heidelberg, where he was also vice-president of the law student union.

Niels will be remembered in the community for his warm smile, cheerful personality and dignified demeanor.

His linguistic ability included knowledge of German, English, French, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Greek and Latin.

THE NIELS HANSEN Memorial Fund invites contributions from all interested friends, acquaintances and civic organizations. The interest derived from the fund each year will be used to promote the student exchange program.

Since he exemplified so well the ideal exchange student, this perpetual fund seems to be the most appropriate tribute.

Checks should be made out to the "Niels Hansen Memorial Fund" and sent to either the Tecumseh High School or the United Savings Bank.

The Board of Directors established to administer the funds will be comprised as follows: two members of the THS Class of 1962, two members of the Tecumseh High School faculty, president of the Student Council, a member of the Hansen family and two members of the Robert Bonner family.

Still Have Big Chore

By DUANE DeLOACH
Special to The Herald

"We still have a big job to do," said Harry Dusseau, following the public hearing Nov. 29 in Adrian by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers on a water resources study of southeastern Michigan.

"Local incentive is needed to push the River Raisin watershed development program through to completion.

"We know the Corps of Engineers will help us in any way they can. We're assured of their cooperation, but we can't wait for them to do it for us. We have to get busy ourselves."

Dusseau is Palmyra township supervisor and president of the River Raisin Watershed Association. He succeeded Harold Easton, Mayor of Tecumseh, when new officers were elected last spring.

Col. Edward C. Bruce, district engineer with offices in Detroit, served as chairman of the Southeastern Michigan Study coordinating committee. He solicited questions at the hearing and attempted to answer them.

In a preliminary statement, he explained the objective of the study is to formulate a plan for best use of water and related resources in the region. In order for this plan to be fully effective, responsive to present and future needs, it must be done in cooperation with the planning agencies representing governmental entities in the area.

LARGEST BASIN by far is the River Raisin watershed, which drains 1,135 square miles out of the total 5,372 square miles of drainage area under consideration.

Chief spokesman for improvement of the River Raisin watershed has been the four-county membership of the Watershed Association which Dusseau presently heads. For an initial study, each county Board of Supervisors in Jackson, Washtenaw, Lenawee and Monroe, has pledged $5,000.

Col. Bruce said other hearings would be held in Port Huron and Detroit. The mass of documented information would be evaluated by the Corps of Engineers before recommendations are made. The study is financed by a grant from Congress.

A comprehensive plan, developed out of these hearings, will attempt to determine each phase of the area's needs, such as flood control, waste disposal, control of water quality, storage reservoirs for municipal and industrial use, outdoor recreation facilities, Col. Bruce said.

But each will be weighed on its own merits in relation to the entire area.

"We expected to get a lot of information out of the hearing," Dusseau said, "and we did. I'm sure it helped our organization to clarify some of its objectives and I fully expect that we'll be asked to cooperate with the Corps of Engineers on a continuing basis as the study progresses.

"But what is important for our peple to know right now is that whatever is accomplished in the forseeable future toward cleaning up the River Raisin and some of its feeder streams is strictly up to us.

"If we can get Federal assistance later on for some of the things we want to get done, fine. But wishing won't get it done; we have to initiate the action," said Dusseau.

Holiday Auction Featured

The annual auction of Christmas gifts and baked goods will be featured at the Women's Society meeting of the First Baptist Church Monday evening.

Proceeds, as always, will be sent to Mather School for negro boys and girls in Beaufort, N. C. The school will this year celebrate its 100th anniversary.

Students there study through junior and senior high school and two years of college and are prepared to earn a living when they graduate.

It is not a state-supported institution.

The Rev. and Mrs. Blair Bashore visited the school in January, 1964, and report that it is filling a real need. They were impressed with the fine behavior of the students.

Circle meetings are canceled for the month of December and all members will attend the Monday evening meeting.

Mrs. Eddie Kirkland will again be the auctioneer for the event.

Members of the circle led by Mrs. Claude Sebring, will be the hostesses.

Bad Weather Is Calamity

Snow and ice occasionally cause 'calamity" days for the Tecumseh schools — no school for students and teachers.

The inclement weather frequently has its other aspects — a bombardment of phone calls to the schools and administrators.

Parents are urged to listen to their radios when there's a possibility that school will be called off.

Norval Bovee, assistant superintendent, says five radio stations are notified — WJR in Detroit, WABJ and WLEN in Adrian, WOIA in Ann Arbor and WJCO, Jackson.

Local Girl Scouts Plan Busy Holiday

The Tecumseh Neighborhood Girl Scouts are planning a busy holiday season.

This Saturday, Dec. 10, a special treat for all Brownies and fourth and fifth grade Girl Scouts will be a free tour plus the showing of a couple of selected short subjects at the Strand Theatre in downtown Tecumseh.

The tour will begin at 1 p.m. All the Girl Scouts are to wear their uniforms or Girl Scout pins in order to prove their association with the Girl Scouts.

The cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. F. Guy, owners of the Strand Theatre, make the treat possible.

Dec. 12 all the Tecumseh Neighborhood Girl Scouts will take part in their annual Christmas caroling.

Instead of being driven around in wagons as before, the scouts will walk around their own neighborhoods singing carols.

The Girl Scout troops will gather according to their school districts and walk in a group caroling as they go.

The Christmas caroling will begin at 6:30 p.m. and end at 7:30 p.m.

When you hear the caroling, why not take a second to wave to the girl scouts and cheer them on their way?

Robert Laidlaw Plans To Attend World Jamboree

Robert O. Laidlaw of Scout Troop 4 and son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Laidlaw, 510 Seminole Dr., has been approved one of four from the Wolverine Council to attend the World Jamboree to be held one week in August next summer at Farragut State Park in Idaho.

A life scout striving to be an eagle before August, Robert is looking forward to the summer event. His brother, David, attended a similar national jamboree in 1964, bringing back glowing tales of the fun he had meeting scouts from other parts of the nation.

Robert looks forward to meeting scouts from other parts of the world.

Robert is a senior patrol leader in Troop 4. His application had to be approved by the interviewing committee from Wolverine Council, both region and national headquarters.

The groups also approved him as a member of the host group to go early to Idaho and welcome other scouts until they discovered that his age is 14, then they said, "too young."

Unemployment Benefits Fall During October

Unemployment benefits for October paid by the Adrian Office of the Michigan Employment Security totaled $32,749.

The September benefit payments amounted to $48,772.

Lenawee County unemployed individuals received $104,421 in October 1965.

During this past October, local employers hired 150 workers referred to them by the Adrian Office, said Clifford J. Rice, Branch Manager.

Facts about cleaning carpets with Blue Lustre

A gallon of Blue Lustre cleans the equivalent of six 9x12 rugs, depending on soil.

Traffic paths may be removed without cleaning wall-to-wall if rest of carpet shows no soil.

It costs only about 1c per square foot to clean your carpet. Blue Lustre electric shampooers may be rented for $1 a day.

Carpets stay new-looking if you keep Blue Lustre handy to remove spots and traffic paths as they appear. Since it contains no soap, there is no residue to cause rapid re-soiling. It dries to an invisible crystalline powder containing the soil, removed by vacuuming.

You'll be delighted by the way Blue Lustre restores forgotten colors in both carpets and upholstery. Des Ermia's Furniture, Tecumseh.

Skins Scalp Manchester

By IVAN McKENNA

CLINTON — On the heels of their impressive 79-73 victory over Onsted Tuesday night, the Clinton Redskins successfully opened play in the Lakeland "C" Friday night with a 71-54 trouncing of Manchester.

Junior forward Butch Hoelzer led the Redskins, connecting for 22 points and pulling down 22 rebounds.

In the opening quarter, Manchester's fast-break was off and running to a 23-13 lead.

In the second quarter, Clinton slowed things down and began to play its own ball game, outscoring the Dutchmen 21-6, and building up a narrow 34-29 advantage at intermission.

Jim Scrudder led the second period spurt with 11 points. He had a total of 17 for the game.

THE REDSKINS were determined in the second half and quickly jumped to a 10-point lead. The Dutchmen never threatened again, despite some fine play by Larry Fielder and Pat Wallace.

Clinton wrapped things up in the third period by pumping in 22 points and limiting Manchester to 9.

The Redskins connected on 40 percent of their shots and Manchester hit 38 percent. Pat Wallace was high scorer for the Dutchmen with 14.

The Clinton reserves were defeated in a close contest, 37-35.

THE REDSKINS will host the Whitmore Lake Trojans Friday night in another Lakeland "C" battle.

The Trojans, defeated 67-40 last week by Brooklyn, will be seeking their first league win.

Indians Meet Flat Rock Five

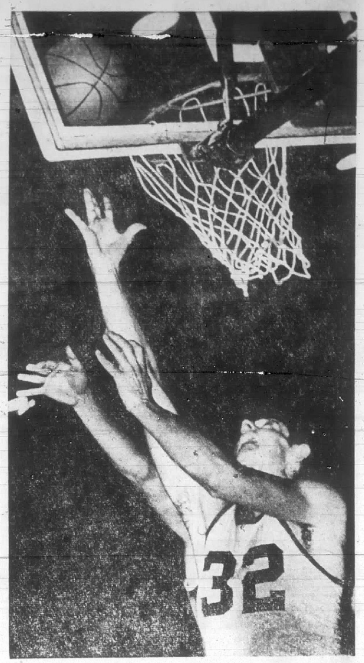
Tecumseh faces its stiffest test Friday night when a veteran Flat Rock club comes to town to open the Huron League schedule.

FR, winner last week over Gibralter-Carlson, has three back from last year's squad, which dumped the Indians twice.

Big 6'5" Bill Allen will give the Rams a heighth advantage and a rebounding test for Tecumseh's Charlie Thomas, Dean Hebb and Doug Bugbee.

Rich Miracle and Larry Reeves give FR depth and scoring potential.

Whether Coach Vic Lawson's five upsets the visitors will depend largely on their floor game. Last week in whipping Dundee, the Indians had numerous turnovers and failed to hit consistently, except for Thomas, who poured in 30 points.



HERALD PHOTO BY BILL WHITING

Thomas' 30 Points Pace Indians to 75-59 Win

By JIM LINCOLN

A big fourth quarter paid off for the Tecumseh Indians Friday night when Coach Vic Lawson's five opened the 1966-'67 cage season with a 75-59 victory over visiting Dundee.

It was the first win over the Vikings in several years.

Tecumseh never trailed in the victory, but neither did the Indians open a commanding lead until midway through the final quarter. Four times Tecumseh opened up 10-point margins and once led by 12 points shortly after the half.

The Vikings, however, narrowed the lead to two points early in the final stanza.

After a slow start, 6'3" Charlie Thomas was the whole show — and for both teams. He netted 12 points in the first half and 18 in the second half for a prep high of 30 points. He also ruled on the bankboards, particularly the offensive boards.

Although eight Indians scored, only other player to break into the two-figure bit was Dean Hebb with 15 points, of which 12 came in the first two periods.

Tim Rod, shooting from 15 and 20 feet out, led the Vikings with 22 points on nine goals and four free throws.

Dundee threw a three-quarter press against the Indians at various stages of the game and was successful on several occasions. Both clubs had numerous turnovers, as one might expect in the opener.

Senior guard Dave Karnel played a good floor game despite scoring just one goal, and Gus Bishop came off the bench to give the Indians some spark.

Doug Bugbee combined with Thomas to open up Tecumseh's lead in the last quarter, hitting for five points before Lawson cleared the bench in the final minutes.

Sophomore Steve Dalton started at a forward post and collected eight points. He hit six out of nine attempts from the foul line, but found difficulty hitting for field goals.

Music Makers Have Cantata

A Christmas program and cantata was presented by the Music Makers Club Dec. 4 at the Presbyterian Church.

An instrumental group opened the program playing a medley of Christmas carols followed by a piano duet by Jeanette and Diane Mannino.

Barry Moll, Jeanette Mannino and Michael House played piano solos and Jeanette and Pat Mannino and Wendy and Claudia Vollmer played instrumental duets preceding the cantata, "Festival of Carols."

Candace Chrisman, Tom Adams and Jeanette Mannino were the narrators.

A film strip was shown as familiar carols were sung by Jamie Danforth, Marcia Gilbert, Pat Cook and David Bush in solos and duet form.

Would You Believe 27?

Junior Varsity action between the Indians and the Vikings wasn't exactly a barn-burner.

Would you believe a massacre?

There may be other names for a 27-point spread, but they all sound like slaughter, annihilation or wipe-out.

The name of the game was basketball, but the Junior Indians spelled it "desire and hustle". They exhibited plenty of both as they racked up their 60-33 victory.

Tecumseh shot a hot 37% (23 for 59) from the floor while Dundee was as frigid as the weather outside, hitting on only 13 shots from the field.

Contributing heavily to the Vikings abominable floor percentage was the near constant, clawing, defense of the shorter Indians.

THE FIRST quarter was not an accurate barometer of things to come. In fact, the score at its conclusion was more suitable to a baseball game, 8-2, THS favor.

But then the roof fell in on Dundee.

The aggressive tactics of John Kennedy and Carlo Mobley, the strong board work of Bill Puffer, and the sharp shooting of Jim Hunt who netted eight points in the second quarter, shot the Indians into a 26-11 half-time lead.

The Indians continued to fluster and harass the taller Vikings throughout the rest of the game as Ken Pieh, Butch Quinn, Denny Lewis, Bob Reed and John Bryan repeatedly stole the ball, caused bad passes and generally made life miserable for Dundee.

Typical of the night's play were two straight steals by Bob Reed with John Kennedy joining the parade and dropping one in on a beautiful reverse lay-up.

THE ENTIRE Indian squad of 13 boys got into the game with 11 of them breaking into the scoring column. Jim Hunt was high scorer night with 16 while Howard Kniffen led the Viking effort with 11.

Two of the freshmen on the Indian team, Reed and Pieh, contributed 12 and nine points respectively.

Coach Val Spangler was reluctant to single out any one player for praise. He said, "It was a team effort all the way. I'm very pleased with the hustle all of the kids demonstrated."

Mr. Tucker was cognizant of the fact that the "Kissing Hollow" roadside park area needed some attention when highway M-52 was switched from the Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. to its present location north of Billington's Corners.

The state left the picnic table and gave the responsibility over to the city, since the area is just inside the city limits on the northern outskirts.

It is north and behind the Tucker residence at 1102 N. Riv-Acres Ct.

Mr. Tucker asked to become official caretaker of the area, seeing that the grass is cut and checking with city trucks when the park area litter barrels are full and should be emptied.

The Tuckers and the Cooks set a prime example for other residents.

Decides on Ministry Crossing to Formosa

The Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Tien-hui Wang will be guests and he will address the congregation of the Tecumseh Friends Church Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service.

The Rev. Wang was born 37 years ago in the ancient city of Peking, China. He was the fourth child and belonged to the fourth generation of a Christian family, which dated back to the days before the Boxer Rebellion.

His parents and grandparents, being closely associated with missionaries, suffered greatly during the uprising.

Given the name of Tien-hui, which means "Mercy of Heaven" in Chinese, the boy grew up under Christian upbringing and the religious training of Dr. John Sung. When he was 14, he surrendered his whole future into God's service.

While a freshman, at the time of Pearl Harbor, he and his family fled from the Japanese forces to the interior of China, where he was deeply impressed by the fine work done by the CIM missionaries.

REV. THOMAS WANG

When the war was over he went back to Peking to resume his studies, but was only to be cut off again when the Communists started their southward drive.

While crossing the channel to Formosa, a spiritual crisis came to his life which made him decide to delay no more in getting into actual service for God. He pastored a church for three years in Formosa, until 1957, when he visited many nations in Europe as a traveling evangelist.

One summer afternoon, in Sweden, he felt called by God to serve in a specific effort to the "Chinese people in Dispersion" with the final goal of bringing the Gospel back to China mainland when God reopens the door.

He came to the United States in 1958 and, together with a handful of dedicated Chinese Christians, formed the Chinese Christian Mission.

The Rev. and Mrs. Wang will be guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiemer this weekend.

What About Zoning?

NO. 2 IN A SERIES

This is the second in the series of articles on Tecumseh's Zoning Ordinance. It is the desire of the Planning Commission to clarify the procedures and objectives of various aspects of the Zoning Ordinance. Today's article deals with permits and inspections.

To assure that new development is built in compliance with the zoning ordinance certain permit procedures are necessary.

1. A building permit must be issued by the city engineer before a building can be erected, altered, moved or repaired. The terms altered or repaired refers to changes in structural parts, stairways, type of construction, type or class of occupancy, light and ventilation, means of entrances or exit or other changes effecting or regulated by the City Building Code.

2. The building permit issued also is considered a zoning permit and the proposed building is checked to make sure it meets minimum zoning requirements of lot size, set-backs, etc.

In order to assure compliance with the Building Code and the Zoning Ordinance both plans for the building and a plot plan layout are required to be submitted. The Zoning Ordinance requires the following plot plan:

a. The actual shape, location, and dimension of the lot.
b. The shape, size, and location of all buildings or other structures to be erected, altered or moved and of any buildings or other structure already on the lot.
c. The existing and intended use of the lot and of all such structures upon it including, in residential areas, the number of dwelling units the building is intended to accommodate.
d. Such other information concerning the lot or adjoining lots as may be essential for determining whether the provisions of this Ordinance are being observed.

After the issuance of a Building Permit and as work proceeds on construction, periodic inspections are made to assure the continued compliance with the Building Code and Zoning Ordinance.

3. Upon completion of construction the holder of the building permit notifies the building inspector of completion of work and requests a final inspection. Final inspection is made to assure compliance with all codes and ordinances of the city, including the Zoning Ordinance. No building can be occupied until such inspection is made and a certificate of occupancy is issued for the building.

The city building inspections office stands ready to assist with any question that may arise regarding the issuance of permits.

CITY OF TECUMSEH

An Old Timer Remembers

By CLARENCE J. AVERY

It was quite a relief to receive your note which accompanied the boat picture—returned. Upon reflection I had feared that I may have written something offensive or uncomplimentary, for which I was — and am — prepared to apologize for my bad taste.

I had wondered who Maxine Calhoun might be. Could she be a teenager, or a person devoid of a sense of humor, should any humor be detected with the facts. So, a careful amateurish analysis of your handwriting convinced me that you definitely were not a teenager gaining her journalistic spurs, but a very mature and intelligent person.

Nevertheless, I wish to amend my personal note to you which accompanied my first letter. Any hint of strained relations between myself and anyone in my home town or any seemingly uncomplimentary remarks was not intended. Any existing "gap" has been my sole responsibility. I was a school drop-out, and moved away. Also, unfortunately, my family was split.

Tecumseh has some wonderful Christian families, some of whom I am proud to claim as distant relatives, but ashamed to admit having all but forgotten them over the years. There are — or were — the Coles the VanDorens the Boyces and the Rectors.

All very fine Christian families, as I remember them. One of the daughters of the latter family was married to Guy Nemire mentioned in the same paragraph with me in your story. Her brother, Earl, and I were close boyhood friends and many times bunked overnight together in the cupola atop their big red barn.

YOU MENTIONED that some magazine might like to print some of my stories. Could be, I I suppose, but lacking the training I'll never attempt to put any of them in proper form. There is one that comes to my mind:

I believe I previously mentioned having once stopped off in El Paso, Texas. It was early spring, 1911.

An experience at that time not to be forgotten was to have visited — and mingled — in two opposing army camps on the same day.

About four miles west of El Paso at the site of an old smelter, there is, or was, a narrow swinging bridge across the Rio Grande to Mexico.

An insurrection army under General Orozco was poised there for an attack on Juarez.

Disregarding stern warnings from the American guards, another "boomer" and I crossed over and mingled with the insurgents. We were urged, but not pressured, to join up with them.

"Viva Orozco" seemed to be the pass-word everywhere. We promptly joined the chorus and wandered all over the place loudly chirping "Viva Orozco."

I never expect to see a more colorful sight. Along with the men in tattered jeans to spanking new uniforms, there were many women in their bright and colorful garb.

Some were preparing meals in hastily-setup field kitchens and others were doing their washings in the river.

It was more like a tremendous gay picnic or covered wagon caravan than an army bent on the serious business of war.

The long rows of opposing mounted sentinels were riding close enough to talk with each other.

Later, on that same day, having sneaked back across the border, we ventured into the town of Juarez for a look-see at the defending Federals.

There, an entirely different atmosphere prevailed. They were a gloomy lot, feverishly at work erecting barricades.

A short time afterward the Orozco forces struck and the town fell to them. The attackers used the houses for shields and by breaking through the walls, made virtual tunnels as they advanced.

This all could be seen from the tops of the high buildings in El Paso.

WHILE I HAVE actually never broken into print with a story of my own, I have had some press notices over the years.

Among them, in 1923, the Los Angeles Times ran a three-part story under my by-line, explaining the mechanics of rapid stock exchange translations from the Pacific Coast.

Also, an item with picture appeared in the Coast Banker (Pacific) in October, 1923.

Once made the New York Times, too — September 22, 1929. It, with other A.P. subscribers, used an Associated Press story — with picture — under the heading "New Stock Broker Former Press Telegrapher." This was when I was elected to membership on the New York Stock Exchange.

Betcha didn't realize what you were going to run into when you wrote your little article in "Touch of the Past".

But this should do it. Thanks for listening.

Leonard Gamber Is Camp Director

Leonard Gamber of Tipton, district scout executive, will be the 1967 director at Camp Kanesatake.

The announcement was made at the scoutmaster camping dinner in Dundee Nov. 28 at the Congregational Church.

Scoutmasters and Explorers were guests of the Council Executive Board.

Over half of the Troop sites for summer camp have been reserved for the 1967 season.

Gebrge Di Carlo represented Troop 4 at the meeting.

The Central Charter Clearance for Lenape District of the Boy Scouts of America will be held Thursday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m. at Goodwill Industries, W. Beecher St. Adrian.

Mr. Gamber urges all packs and troops whose charters expire Dec. 31 to be present.

Soft Skiers Hit Slopes, Get Injuries

It won't be long before crowds of skiers — well softened by several months of relaxation — will take to the slopes and collect strains, sprains and broken bones.

A good share of the injuries could be avoided by a little physical activity before the season starts.

Skiers can strengthen leg muscles and increase stamina by exercises: lots of walking — including walking up and down stairs, bending and squatting and balancing on one leg and then the other.

A slim skier is not only a healthier skier, but one who is putting the least strain on his heart. No overweight person should embark on a program of dieting, vigorous exercise or skiing without first consulting his doctor.

Another thing is to check skiing equipment. Poor equipment can cause accidents. Properly adjusted and effective safety release binding and ski safety straps are "musts".

Seek the advice of an experienced skier or ski instructor to help select safe, properly-fitted skis and bindings.

When the ski season gets in swing, a beginner should take a few lessons from a professional before attempting the slopes. And even if an experienced skier, should take it easy.

Most accidents occur when skiers are tired — so don't ski and add to the list of broken bones and strains.

Rep. Vivian Gets Citation and Volumes

Congressman Weston E. Vivian was presented a citation and two well-known volumes on American government "in honor of his outstanding service to his constituents and to the country during his two years in the House of Representatives."

Held on the campus of Eastern Michigan University the session was sponsored by Democrats of the district.

Chairman Ruth Munzel told Rep. Vivian, "You have served this district and our nation with conscientious work, great spirit and deep integrity. You have given freely of yourself and your resources to make ours a better world. You have our lasting respect and affection."

The volumes presented to Congressman Vivian were DeToqueville's Democracy in America" and Daniel J. Boostin's "An American Primer."

3.4 Million Cars Checked in National Safety Program

"More than 7,2773 of 45,451 cars and trucks in Michigan were found to be in unsafe driving condition during the 1966 National Vehicle Safety-Check," said Gerald W. Shipman, Executive Secretary of the Michigan State Safety Commission.

Vehicle Safety-Check projects were conducted throughout the state by public officials, business, civic and safety groups, high school students, car clubs, industrial plants, military installations and other organizations.

Top level recognition went to two Michigan cities. Tecumseh received the National Award of Excellence and Ellsworth was presented a State Award of Excellence.

The voluntary Safety-Checks are held each year as part of the national program sponsored by Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and LOOK Magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State & Provincial Safety Coordinators.

Nearly 3.4 million cars and trucks were Safety-Checked this year across the nation.

Almost a half million of the vehicles checked nationally were found to have one or more items in unsafe operating condition.

Items checked were brakes, front lights, turn signals, rear lights, stop lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rear view mirrors and horn.

'Boating' on Bassac

The overall story of a war is one thing. But war is composed of individual stories and Richard C. Hammerstrom (EN) has one to tell.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hammerstrom, 2300 Occidental Hwy, Adrian.

A 1965 graduate of Tecumseh High School, Richard is in the navy in Viet Nam.

He writes:

"The boats are called PBR (River Patrol Boat) and we operate on the Bassac River of the Mekong Delta area.

"Our job is to patrol a section of this river and to search Vietnamese sampans and junks.

"If a person has a large quantity of rice, etc., we take him in for questioning because he might be giving it to the V. C.

"All the merchandise they have has to be on a manifest signed by the government of Viet Nam.

"We have been fired on a lot of times, we're always on the lookout because we don't have any idea where Charlie is going to strike next.

"In my section, 511, called the RVN 11, we have 10 boats and about 100 men. There are over 30 sections on the rivers of Viet Nam.

"Our boats are 31 feet long, made of fiberglass. They are armed with three 50-caliber machine guns, two M-79 grenade launchers, three M-16 rifles, one M-60 machine gun and one 12gauge shotgun.

"Excuse the writing, I haven't much of any place to write except my bed rack. Our patrols are 13½ hours long, day and night."

Scouts Elect Sandra Keith

Eight Senior Girl Scouts met to form a combined troop for Lenawee, District 5 of Irish Hills Girl Scout Council.

Others elected are: Penny Munson of Adrian, assistant; Barbara Sauter of Adrian, treasurer; Janet Trowbridge of Addison, scribe; delegate to senior planning board, Susie Dangler of Adrian and alternate, Glennys Burns of Addison.

Meetings will be held in Adrian the first and third Thursdays of each month.

Plans were made to attend the Dec. meeting of the senior planning board.

The troop voted on Panarama as the major interest, so the proper ties, patches and hat cords will be purchased.

Sandra described the council-wide color Wheel of Creative Arts which will be held in May for all troops, parents and families.

It is hoped that many additional girls from the scouting neighborhoods of the county will attend the Dec. 1 meeting, or notify their Neighborhood chairman of their interest. Mrs. William Norris is the Tecumseh Neighborhood chairman.

For the senior troop, girls must be in grades 10, or 12.

Hospitalized Nun Dresses Bridal Doll

CLINTON — Sister Mary Angela, a heart patient at St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, for the past six years, has designed and made the extensive wardrobe for the bride doll to be given away at the Christmas Bazaar of St. Dominic's Altar Society Saturday night.

Sister Angela, who will undergo heart surgery in January, has made 20 of the doll outfits this year.

The bridal gown is an original design by Sister Angela and is daintily trimmed with sequins. The wardrobe for the 20-inch doll includes a fur coat and hat ensemble, sport clothes, a formal, grannie nightgown, suitcase and jewelry.

The bazaar will feature a variety of stocking stuffers, holiday centerpieces and a bake goods sale.

It will be held in the vacant store building on W. Michigan Ave. all day and evening Friday and Saturday.

The drawing for the doll will climax the sale Saturday evening, but the winner does not need to be present to win.

The chairman of the project is Mrs. Edward J. Kehoe and her committee includes Mrs. William Kershner, Mrs. Frank Ward, Mrs. John Monaghan and Mrs. Alton Emerine.

The engagement of Mary Louise Odell to Lawrence Alan Fromer is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Odell of 16206 Sheridan Rd. She is a graduate of Clinton High School and is a student at the Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit, Ann Arbor. Mr. Fromer is the son of George Fromer and the late Mrs. Fromer of Beaverton. Old Desk Bell Is Inspiration for Collection

By MAXINE CALHOUN

CLINTON — A fascinating hobby began for Mrs. Hans Schmidt in 1952 when her husband brought home an interesting old hotel desk bell from the village dump.

Since then, her collection of bells has grown to more than 100 each different with its own special tone, shape or history to make it of value to its collector.

She displayed and described her collection for the annual Jingle Bell Tea arranged by the Mary-Martha Class in the United Church of Christ, Sunday afternoon.

Many of Mrs. Schmidt's bells have been given to her by friends and relatives and some of them she bought during two trips to Europe.

An especially treasured bell was given to her in an amusing manner when Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt attended their son's wedding in Germany last year.

As a farewell gesture, the daughter-in-law's parents loaded them down with gifts as they departed for the train, a loosely-wrapped package of cookies, a bouquet of flowers, some unwrapped hand-made pot holders, a bottle of home-made wine, — and last of all — the decorative bell, which Mrs. Schmidt had admired all through her visit.

The memory of their dash to a train carrying the suit cases and assorted gifts is brought to mind each tinkle of that little bell, Mrs. Schmidt said.

More than 120 guests were seated at card tables. Each table held an imaginative centerpiece using an heirloom or contrived bell theme. Swags of glittering bells, made of paper cups with shiny bell clappers, were twined about the pillars and were used to form a giant bell above the buffet table where a smorgasbord of favorite Christmas desserts were served.

Mrs. Glen Bihlmeyer introduced the speaker and the music, which included group singing of Christmas carols, a duet by Minota Fox and Linda Corwin and a medley of holiday songs by Jamie Danforth.

The committee in charge of the decorations included Mrs. Ben Mahrle I, Mrs. Paul McKenna, Mrs. Howard Hintz, Mrs. Clyde Greenfield, Mrs. Glen Bihlmeyer and Mrs. John Fox.

Village History Hobby Reviewed for Golden Agers

CLINTON — Mrs. Ralph Halladay recalled bits of Clinton's history for the Golden Age Club, Tuesday at the meeting in the Smith - Kimball Community Center.

She read from the unpublished writings of her late husband, who made a hobby of the history of Clinton, his birthplace and family home, since the early days of the village.

She told of the first telephone company, established in 1887, and recalled the coming of electricity and the first street lights in 1890, which were of the carbon type.

She displayed a telegraph set used as a means of communication by a few people before telephones were installed.

A Christmas potluck supper party will be held Dec. 20 in the Smith - Kimball Community Center.

Klompen Dancers Perform in Toledo

A special pre-holiday program, featuring the famous Klompen Dancers from Holland, Mich., and the Toledo Museum of Arts Children's Chorus is scheduled for Saturday at the Museum.

The program is being planned in conjunction with the Museum's current exhibition, The Age of Rembrandt, a priceless collection of over 100 paintings by the master artists of 17th century Holland.

The day-long program will begin at 12:30 with ceremonies on the Museum Plaza.

After the opening ceremonies, the Klompen Dancers and the mayors will be the guests of honor at a luncheon hosted by Museum Director Otto Wittmann.

At 2:30 the day's musical program will begin with a concert by the Museum's Children's Chorus in the Auditorium.

They will sing Benjamin Britten's Ceremony of Carols and then introduce the Klompen Dancers with the Santa Claus song which they will sing in Dutch.

THE KLOMPEN Dancers, a group of high school girls who do traditional Dutch dances, have delighted audiences throughout the United States for years. They are the highlight of Holland's nationally-famous Tulip Time festival.

Responding to the rhythm of old folk melodies, the fast-moving klompen — as the Dutch call their popular wooden shoes — beat the floor as the klack-klacking sounds combine with the graceful swirling of the dancers' skirts.

The girls, who are allowed to join the Klompen Dancers only after reaching the 10th grade and achieving good scholastic averages spend long hours of practice.

To protect their feet from the often uncomfortable wooden shoes, the girls are required to wear many pairs of heavy woolen socks — sometimes as many as six or seven pair.

This program is free and open to the public. Further information may be obtained at the Toledo Museum of Art, telephone 255-8000.

Holly Breakfast Is Dec. 12

Mrs. Maynard Minier of the Irish Hills Sock Doll House was introduced by Mrs. Walter Prill. Mrs. Minier displayed a large collection of dolls she has made and told of her hobby that has grown into nearly a business.

"Sometimes I think the hobby is moving in and I am moving out," she remarked.

One member was especially impressed with a witch doll riding on a broom stick Mrs. Minier said was most effective when hung on a porch in the wind. There were also small and large jolly Santa dolls, each with a personality of his own.

Mrs. Joe Rice conducted the meeting and announced that the Holly and Tinsel breakfast will be held Dec. 12 at 9:30 a.m. at the First Baptist Church.

Tories Face Two Games on Weekend

BRITTON — It's going to be a busy weekend for the Britton Tories.

Deerfield invades the local gym Friday evening and then on Saturday night, the Tories go to Sand Creek.

In opening action last week, Coach Sam Hamilton's Tories fell to Whiteford, 55-51.

Although the Tories outshot Whiteford, 22-21 in field goals, they couldn't keep pace on the free-toss line.

In the last half, Britton managed to rally twice, coming within two points, but each time Whiteford pulled away.

Individual scoring honors for the Tories went to Ray Vershum and Dave Fairbanks, who each got 14 points. Larry Ash contributed 13.

They attended the program of "The Symbolism for Your Christmas Tree". Mrs. Charles Gorton narrated the program, which was in the Holloway Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Wade Scudder entertained the Faith Circle last Thursday afternoon. She opened the meeting by reading the purpose of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Roll call was answered by members telling something for which they were thankful.

Thank-you notes were read from the family of Pearl Kuder, Mrs. Eugene Hill and Mrs. Laura Oliver in the Chelsea Methodist Home.

It was reported that Miss Minnie Davis is in the Hospital at the Chelsea Methodist Home. She is one of the adopted friends of the Faith Circle and would appreciate cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorton are going to see that the gifts are taken to the adopted friends in the Chelsea Methodist Home before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hicks of Tecumseh and Mr. and Mrs. Sherry W. Murdoch of Britton became members of the Order of the Amaranth, Inc. during initiatory ceremonies Friday, Nov. 18, at Kindness Court No. 27, in Hudson.

As Friendship Night was being observed, guests from other Courts assisted in the exemplification of the degree.

Introductions were made by the Royal Matron, Mrs. Miriam Nixon of Tecumseh, who also introduced Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Topps of Tecumseh, who recently became members of the Order. Refreshments were served and a social hour concluded the evening.

Exchange Club Discusses Plans

Members of the Tecumseh Exchange Club discussed events and activities of the club for the coming year at the meeting Nov. 28.

Ray Dollison, conducted the meeting in the absence of Orville Bishop and announced that the date for the annual children's Christmas party will be Dec. 12

Lance Cpl. Jim Tonneberger left Camp Pendleton, Calif., Oct. 23 and arrived in Da-Nang, South Vietnam, Oct. 28. He spent a 20-day leave in September at home with his wife, Karen, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Tonneberger. Cpl. Tonneberger is attached to the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing and Support Group 17. He works in communications and patrol. He has been in the Marines since March 31, 1965.

Enga-Ring A-Ding-Dine Is Famous

Sonny Eliot's "Engadingadine" crept into Tecumseh news last week in a couple of places. Mrs. James Colson's brother, John Peterson, was one of the 500 Northern Michigan University students stranded there Nov. 27.

He had been at the Colson's with his parents for Thanksgiving and they were most concerned when they did not hear from him until the following Monday evening at 9:30.

The student told how the little town opened wide with hospitality for the stranded campus-bound young people.

The one and only bartender opened with "No drinking, kids, but we'll feed you."

It was said it was the first time in history that Northern had been closed because of the weather. John's Dad, Ralph Peterson, graduated from there in 1932 and Mrs. Peterson was raised in Marquette. Both verified the statement.

Seventeen-foot snowdrifts were reported in that area.

George Dowward and his converted school bus with Bob Handy and Joe Laslo were deer hunting in the Engadine area. Mr. Handy got an eight-point buck.

Golden Text

The Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon is from Isaiah:

"He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young."

The lesson is titled, "God the Preserver of Man."

Mr. Creal, recipient of the Michigan Volunteer Leadership Award, said, "Mr. Conklin has been most active in community affairs and his record of accomplishment gives me confidence in his ability to carry out this important assignment".

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin and five children reside at 206 Park.

A transfer in 1955 moved Mr. Conklin to Fisher Body, Grand Rapids No. 2, as a Supervisor in Labor Standards, then to Shift Plant Superintendent in 1960.

He held that position until 1965 when he was promoted and transferred to Tecumseh Fisher Body as Plant Superintendent.

He was appointed to plant manager at Tecumseh on April 1, 1966.

VOICE of THE HERALD

How To Ruin Peaceful Society

Some folks have the old-fashioned idea that kids go to college to get an education.

This concept, unfortunately, is being shaken as we get reports out of Ann Arbor and Berkeley.

In a serious vein, we do know 98% of the young men and women attending colleges and universities across our nation have an earnest purpose. It's the 2% who are crabbing the act.

But don't write them off. Small, well-organized groups have been known to ruin peaceful and progressive societies before.

The hard cores of maybe 50 to 100 at the University of California and University of Michigan creating all these rhubarbs could well produce tragic results.

A vice-president at the U. of M. made a statement last fall which seemed pretty fantastic. It went something like this: "If there is a head-on clash of students and administration, the university concept, as we know it, will be destroyed."

The comment seems to be taking on more significance with every flare-up. All the "student" complaints about the administrations seems a trifle demented to the bystander. But they appear to have a continuity which eases towards total demoralization of the campus.

Col. Frederick E. Davids, director of the State Police, made some pointed comments in Jackson at a Boy Scout Council session which seem allied to the discussion at hand.

"One of the most significant factors in the complacent attitude toward youth problems today is the false teaching which tends to blame society for all of the frustrations and woes visited on young people," Col. Davids said.

"Teenagers and their parents have been subjected to a foolhardy theory which endorses rebellious conduct against authority, law and order, or any regulatory measures which restrict their whims, wishes and desires.

"This astonishing belief has spread into the school room, living room, the court room, and now into the streets of our nation in the form of riots and drunken brawls.

"No doubt society has failed our youth but not in the way many seem to think," Col. Davids noted. "Rather, the dereliction has been the failure to teach them the meaning of discipline, self respect, restraint and respect for law and order and the rights of others, consequently the lesson is now both painful and costly."

"The vast majority of today's youth are deeply concerned about moral values.

"Those involved in criminal acts represent a decided minority, but we can't afford to turn our heads and hope it will go away. It will not. It is imperative that all of us pitch in with a firm resolve to do all within our power to help today's youth become the world's great leaders of tomorrow."

Dear Santa:

DEAR SANTA CLAUS,

We have been good boys. I am five years old and I go to kindergarten and I like it very well. I hope you give me some toys—My brother is three years old and he goes to Sunday School with me. Here is a list of some of the things I would like.

AN EXTRA SPECIAL SUNDAY

Every Sunday is special really. The folks are home, it is a good day to relax a little bit and there is not quite so much hurry hurry, rush rush and busy busy. Several Sundays ago, however, we had a day that was even better than usual. It was one of those extraordinary bird days, there was bird activity everywhere.

The first thing we did upon eds were not big but, oh, my! waking up was to go back to sleep. It was raining quite hard and the wind was howling, it was a perfect morning to snuggle deeper under the blankets, forget the million and one things waiting to be done and go back to sleep.

The roof of my room is flat and oh, what a lovely sound this type of a rain makes. It is the best sleeping pill in the world.

When finally we did come to, the world outside looked wet and gray, wet and dismal, wet and dreary, wet and windy. It was not really the type of day one would pick for perhaps THE bird day of the year.

Part of the fun of bird watching though is the unexpected and the unpredictable.

Who knows what all happened before we started noticing but, from the minute the drapes were opened till they were closed again at dark, we had birds, birds, birds. Thank goodness the feeding stations were well stocked.

TUFTED TITMICE, white-breasted nuthatches and downy woodpeckers were our breakfast companions. They bounced from feeder to feeder, gobbled food everywhere and, surprisingly enough, didn't seem to mind the inclement weather at all. Probably the biggest thrill of the day was the tiny red-breasted nuthatch. In fact, that can be made plural because I believe we hosted a pair of them.

They never came to the feeder together but one definitely was paler underneath and had a dirtier white eye or head stripe.

To say that we were thrilled with the little birds is an understatement. Only last week our article dealt with these tiny mites and the speculation about would or wouldn't they visit us.

Well, they came and their visit was a lengthy one, too. All day long they kept coming back to nibble at the suet. Sometimes one of them even shared it with a down woodpecker or a white-breasted nuthatch. What a ridiculously funny size contrast that was — we knew the red-breasted nuthatch was small but the down woodpecker is a big bird.

SUET SEEMED to be the favorite food of the day. In addition to pleasing all of the above, it also tempted a big and handsome hairy woodpecker.

He flew in for several snacks and always announced himself in that funny, squeaky, honk of a voice. A flicker started down at the same time a squirrel appeared and, of course, you know who won. We haven't seen the flicker since.

For once the birds were on their good behavior, their company manners were sharp. So often we have busy feeders right up to the time the doorbell rings and then, as soon as company comes, every bird in the area disappears.

This day, however, Agatha brought some friends from Ohio up and our free-loaders did themselves proud. The titmice and the little red-breasted nuthatches showed off marvelously well.

But all of the wonderful bird watching was not centered on the feeders. Three male cardinals played along the creek bank. The dark, dreary day made them look brighter than usual.

M. & D. probably did not realize they had a guest but a little brown creeper spent hours investigating the trunk of the big elm tree.

It seemed to us that most of his time was spent on the side of the tree toward us — wasn't he thoughtful? Notable because of their absence were bluejays, mourning doves, juncos and chick-a-dees. Maybe they are waiting for next Sunday.

So it is that in spite of the miserable weather, or perhaps because of it, we all enjoyed an extra special Sunday.

Fisher Body Inspector Wins Bonus

Daniel L. Snelling, an inspector at the Fisher Body-Tecumseh Plant, received a Suggestion Award of $1,253.20 for his Material Savings Suggestion.

This award was presented by D. E. Conklin, Fisher - Tecumseh Plant Manager. Mr. Snelling suggested a method whereby a quality check could be made on cushion and back seat parts without scrapping the analyzed parts in the testing process.

This is the second award of $1,000 or more this year at the Tecumseh Plant. The General Motors Suggestion Plan provides for awards of up to $6,000.00 for accepted suggestions.

Suggestions resulting in better quality, improved manufacturing and handling methods, material savings and safety improvements are eligible for awards.

The entire year of 1967 is to be celebrated as the 25th Anniversary of the Suggestion Plan at General Motors.

Since 1942, when the Suggestion Plan was started, approximately eight million ideas have been turned in by GM employes.

Every year many thousands of GM employes add to their income through Suggestion Awards.

Mr. Snelling, 31, of Toledo, has been employed at Fisher Body since May 24, 1965.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Lenawee County's new YMCA is a beauty.

Water still isn't in the pool, but should be in a few days. There are some ceiling tiles not up yet and a few other odds and ends to be done.

But it's 99% ready for fun and frolic — and the grins of executive director Bill McCartney and his staff predict a wonderful future for the Y program.

Building and fixtures are costing $855,000 and all but $50,000 of that is paid off, thanks to a hard-hitting money-raising campaign by Jim Gerity and his finance committee. (See editorial about this on last page of Section C.)

Open house is being held from Sunday through next Thursday, most of the day and through the evenings. Get over and take a look.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony is set for Sunday afternoon at 2.

In an attempt to spread the crowds, Bill has worked out a visitors' schedule — although he hastens to add anyone is welcome at any time.

He's got Monday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. for second and third shift workers.

Fisher Body Division folks are asked to drop by between 6 and 7 p.m., Monday, followed by Tecumseh Products people, 7 to 8.

EYES WILL pop when they catch their first glimpse of the pool — 75 feet long and 25 feet wide. Bill notes that the shallow end runs 35-feet long, the better to teach beginning swimmers. There is plenty of depth at the other end for experienced flippers.

The gym is a beauty, 60x80', with baskets hanging all over the place.

For the men, the Y will offer something brand new, handball. Many a pound will melt away as the boys batter that tiny, hard-rubber ball off the four walls in the two courts.

I'll predict right now that before very long, the lineup to use them will cause some scheduling fun.

Other features include a game room, activities area, even a neat kitchen.

For those who would like to "Try-the-Y", a special offer is being tendered. Free programs from Dec. 22 through Jan. 21 are slated for non-members. This schedule is being handed out during open house.

Or, how about giving a membership as a Christmas gift, suggests Bill, with an added grin from John Shaw, one of his staff?

These run:

Youth — $20 a year
Young adult (18 to 25) — $25
Adult — $35
Couple with no children of Y age) — $60
Family — $75
Health Club — $100
Health Club Family — $150

After everything is squared away in the new building, the old Fun Express Bus from Tecumseh to the Y will begin to run again, says Bill.

Oh, before I forget, the new Y is in Adrian, at 638 W. Maumee St., which is just a block west of the Adrian Plaza.

MEN WHO HELPED RAISE MONEY FOR YMCA TOOK A LOOK AT GIANT POOL MONDAY NIGHT

Brochure Proposed To Promote County

A proposed brochure for Lenawee County by the various Chambers of Commerce was discussed here Tuesday afternoon with several members of the Tecumseh Chamber.

No decision was reached at the meeting, which included Adrian's Chamber secretary, Charles Wise and a representative of the firm which is promoting the booklet.

Tecumseh's Chamber, based on opinions of local members present, endorsed the brochure on a qualified basis.

Whether these conditions — equal representation on committees, equal promotion of the county's communities and other relative factors — are accepted for the local Chamber's endorsement, may not be known for several days.

If the brochude campaign gets underway here, Tecumseh will be alloted two pages of editorial matter for each page of advertisement.

Both commercial businesses and industries will be solicited with advertisements ranging from $250 to $750 per page.

Mustang Is Great Christmas Present

Excited owner of a new Mustang is Mrs. Webb Slusher Jr., 510 Center Drive, who won the grand prize in Standard Oil's NFL Sweepstakes last week.

The car will be delivered from George Underwood Fordland.

Mrs. Slusher picked up the winning stamp during her lunch hour one day last week.

She is employed as a secretary in the Sales Dept. of Gray Manufacturing Co.

Arrest Boys Stealing TV Equipment

Two youths, one a 16-year-old juvenile, were arrested just minutes after they fled from the Lawson TV store Sunday night with over $125 in equipment.

Tecumseh police, alerted by a renter in the downtown district and given a brief description, made the arrests at the boys' homes.

Craig Mullens, 17, who's birthday also was Sunday, will be tried in Circuit Court. He has been released to his attorney.

The juvenile was taken to the county's juvenile detention home in Adrian, where he is still detained.

The two boys entered the shop through a window on the roof, went down an inside stairway where they forced a door open. Upon leaving, they were seen by a resident who called for them to stop.

In running down the alley behind the shop, several items were thrown away into the snow.

Items taken include a soldering gun, TV cable, some electronics parts and tape and an amplifier.

Pennies Pick Indian Chief

"Canisters for the Jaycee Auxiliary sponsored Big Chief contest have been placed in the stores," said Mrs. Fred Johnson, chairman.

"Remember, every penny counts one vote," she explained. The winning chief will receive a $25 bond for his organization.

The presentation will be made Jan. 21 at the Tecumseh Products Union Hall at the final performance of the Jaycee Follies.

Candidates for Big Chief and the locations of the individual canisters are:

John Day — Pickard's Floral and Hanna's Insurance.

Wallace MacGeorge — Gamble's and Holme's Pharmacy.

Eugene Skinner — Osborne's Dept. Store and Van's Bakery.

Robert Hart — Don's Beef Buffet and Wright's Drug Store.

Dean Moore — Green's Clothing and Tecumseh Office Supply.

Lloyd (Tiny) Stites — VFW and D & C Store.

Charles Houghtby — American Legion and Flanders Music.

William Steele — Lamb's Rexall and Eggleston's Jewelry.

Charles Gross — Larry's Grill and Ken-Ray.

The Follies will be held Jan. 19, 20, 21 at 8 p.m. at the Union Hall.

The first meeting in preparation for the event will be held at the Tecumseh Grange Hall Jan. 3.

Anyone wishing to participate may call talent chairman, Mrs. Roger Butler, 423-4201.

Tickets may be purchased starting Jan. 1 from any Jaycee, Helms Furniture, Woolworth's or Tecumseh Office Supply.

THS Chorus To Vocalize

The Tecumseh High School Vocal Department will present its annual Christmas program featuring the Mixed Chorus and the newly organized Girls Glee Club on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

The program theme, "Going Backwards in Time" will be developed by using the more familiar Christmas selections from the present day back to the days of Handel and Bach.

There will be many solos from both groups and a selection from the Madrigals and one from the Girls Ensemble.

A featured soloist will be David Jadwin, a former Tecumseh High School student and chorus member.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend.

Spanish Girls Charm Club at Annual Christmas Party

Mrs. L. H. Titley, 203 Adrian St., entertained members of the Child Study Club and one guest, Mrs. Graham Foster, at the December meeting.

Mrs. Stephen Fulop introduced Benita and Ramona Rodriguez, who, with their mother and younger sister, came to this country from Spain. Mr. Rodriguez has been in the United States for eight years and his family joined him last December.

The girls, who did not speak English before coming to the United States, thoroughly charmed their listeners as they answered many questions about their native country.

They told of Christmas customs, explaining that Spanish children receive Christmas presents January 6, a feast day honoring the three wise men.

Although Benita has her high school diploma and Ramona had completed three years of high school in Spain, both girls are presently enrolled at Tecumseh High School where they are learning the English language before continuing their education.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wayne Kaiser and Mrs. Orrie Gilbert. Santa Claus children's favors were furnished by Mrs. Don Sunderland, Mrs. Norman Bailey and Mrs. Richard Chatters.

Act Fast When Making Candy

Some Tecumseh area residents last year were fortunate to have the opportunity to purchase small jars of spicy home-made rock candies made by a church in the Blissfield area at Christmas time.

This year the ladies decided against repeating the project and Tecumseh sweets lovers were left drooling until E. Michaels of Blissfield came up with the recipe.

The Tecumseh Herald shares it with readers.

Christmas Candy
1¾ cups white sugar
¾ cup white Karo
1 cup water
1 tablespoon coloring
1 tablespoon oil flavoring

Cook first three ingredients to 290-300 degrees with candy thermometer. Remove from heat. Add coloring and flavoring. Pour out on tray packed well with powdered sugar. When outer edges start to cool, start cutting and toss into powdered sugar to cut into small pieces. WORK FAST.

FT. HOOD, Tex. — Army Pvt. William B. Sisson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas B. Sisson, 107 S. Van Buren St., fired expert with the M-14 rifle near the completion of his basic combat training here.

The expert rating is the highest a soldier can achieve on his rifle qualification test.

Russell Steinke Will Show 20 New Paintings

Twenty new oil paintings by Russell Steinke will be shown at Don's Beef Buffet Thursday at 8 p.m.

The public is invited.

This marks the fifth display at Don's of works by the local artist.

Showings have been held there since 1959 and over the seven-year period 65 of Mr. Steinke's oils and pastels have been purchased.

Highly regarded for his skill with the brush, his works sell for from $150 to $1,500.

Among the paintings to be seen Thursday will be "Seascape," a 20 x 30" oil he did at Cape Ann, Mass., while on a recent trip to New England.

"The Steel Helmet No. 2", which captured popularity award honors at a recent show in Toledo, also will be hung as is the just-completed oil of Suzie Smith of Adrian.

One art lover has described Mr. Steinke's work as "distinguished in its realistic, powerful simplicity. He has a great feeling for color, texture and lighting."

He is of the "genre" tradition, the School of Dutch Painting, concentrating on everyday things. Toledo Museum's current "Age of Rembrandt" masterpieces best exemplify this style.

Raisin Cane Has Yuletide Celebration

The Holloway Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Christmas party of the Raisin Canes 4-H Club, Saturday.

A potluck dinner was enjoyed by 80 members and families.

Debbie Cote gave the invocation. Pledges to the American flag and the 4-H flag were led by Cathy Laslo and Kathleen Kopke.

Instrumental solos were given by Allen German, Alice German and Mark Moll. A reading was given by Kathleen Kopke and a pantomime was done by Debbie Cote.

Group singing was accompanied by Susan Brown at the piano.

Awards were given consisting of members' pins, certificates, and premiums to the members for their projects.

There was a gift exchange for the children.

Kathleen Kopke and Sue Brown were in charge of decorating the tables. Debbie Cote and Sylvia Steele made the centerpieces.

Tables Glow at Breakfast

The reading of the annunciation from the First Chapter of Luke opened a musical program for the Holly and Tinsel Breakfast of the Monday Club presented Dec. 12 by Mrs. Wilfred Waldron.

Eighty members and guests were seated at tables individually decorated by officers of the executive board in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church.

Ceramic Santas and carolers, greens, tinsel and candles, made every table glow with holly corsages marking each place setting.

Mrs. Joe Rice welcomed the guests. Deborah Earling sang "O Holy Night." Mrs. Fred Oberlin accompanied her and other soloists on the program.

Mrs. Carlton Cushing read "How Mary and Joseph Felt" followed by a solo by Mrs. James Danforth.

"We Saw His Star in the East" was the reading by Mrs. Lynn Harris and Mrs. Ralph Westgate read "Three Wise Men."

Carl Sandburg's "Thoughts and Mary Speaking" was the reading presented by Mrs. David Criss.

Mrs. Ivan Maynard dressed as a young boy, read "I Wish I'd Been His Apprentice."

Mrs. Earl Mason sang a group of Christmas songs followed by a reading, "The Son Goes Forth," by Mrs. William Grigg.

Special mention was given Mrs. Herbert Murphy who originated the first Holly and Tinsel Breakfast in 1955 during her first year as president.

Mrs. Murphy commented that she was happy that the members had continued the event making it a tradition and that much effort goes into the festivity each year.

Another member said that the event always sets a relaxed mood for the season, highlighting the true spirit of Christmas.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Walter Prill of the Monday Club tasting party January 23. Tickets were sold for the event.

A table was filled with gayly-decorated gifts to be presented to Maple Lane Manor.

The Boysville Glee Club will sing on Father Slinker's television show Dec. 18 and 25 at 9:30 a.m. on Channel 2.

For a moment, we thought maybe newcomer Mrs. Carl T. Meyer didn't like The Herald. She's been given complimentary copies twelve weeks via the Welcome Wagon, then received an order form to subscribe.

She returned it with, 'This is not an order." We frowned.

We smiled at the next part. "But it is a thank-you. The paper will continue to be read at my apartment via my weekly purchase through the Country Market or the A & P."

Herrick Nursing Home residents are enjoying Christmas music, compliments of Lawson TV, who lent them a portable stereo for the season.

Driven out of the forest by heavy snow, six deer were grazing in a field behind Rumpf Truck Lines Monday.

It isn't potluck anymore. The latest is — "make and take."

Some farmers may be surprised to receive personal property tax bills along with their real estate taxes, in view of the recent action by the Michigan legislature to remove all personal property used for farm production from the tax rolls. The new law will apply to taxes payable in 1968, not to the present taxes, according to Mrs. Garland Gove, Tecumseh Township treasurer.

Robert Karle is the newest candidate in the Tecumseh Jaycee Big Chief contest. He is representing the Rotary Club.

The man named Pool who shot his deer was Avery, not David.

Charlie Brown called Fred Johnston after last week's paper came out. The telephone number published as Santa Claus's was miswritten, came out Charlie's phone number. Santa Claus can be called at 423-2105.

Friendly Class Holiday Dinner Tables Glisten

Mrs. Herbert Murphy decorated the tables with lighted red tapers and decorated snowballs for the Mother and Daughter dinner party of the Friendly Class in the Friends Church last Tuesday.

Forty places were marked by name cards on handmade holders to be used to hold recipe cards when baking.

The chicken dinner was prepared and served by Mrs. Perry Hayden, Mrs. Roland Mohr and Mrs. Sheldon Chase.

A program on the theme, "Christmas Carols," was narrated by Mrs. Naomi Sallows, president and Mabel Lockwood, teacher.

Interspersing the narration were carols, some recorded and a [illegible] Mrs. Robert Hayz and daughter, Sherrie; a solo by Paula Brantingham, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Paul Brantingham; a duet by Mrs. Clarence Randolph and Mrs. Ray Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. Ashley Chase; a piano solo medley of carols by Mrs. Brantingham.

Mrs. Mohr read the story of the writing of the carol, "O Little Town of Bethleham."

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Brantingham and Miss Lockwood, and gifts were exchanged from under the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Myron P. Dermyer, who was celebrating her birthday, was presented with a beautifully decorated cake by her three daughters present and "Happy Birthday" was sung. The cake was served with the dessert.

Household Items Are Requested

Mrs. J. R. Thompson of the Tecumseh Service Club has a request for three items for needy families in the area.

A used electric stove, two living room chairs and a floor or table lamp are the needed pieces of household equipment.

She remarked for the call for help has not been as great as in past years probably due to lack of unemployment.

Anyone that has items they would care to donate may do so by calling Mrs. Thompson, 423-2831.

'God Has Spoken'

"God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this: that power belongeth unto God."

This will be the Golden Text of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled, "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Roads and streets in Michigan would go around the equator four times.

Toledo Hosts 'Netherlands Day'

The city of Toledo, along with the cities of Holland, O., and Holland, Mich., will observe "Netherlands Day" Dec. 17 in honor of the country whose great artists are represented in "The Age of Rembrandt" exhibition which 28,000 people have viewed at the Toledo Museum of Art since Nov. 27.

Toledo Mayor John W. Potter noted the special day was declared "in acknowledgement of the contributions made by the Dutch artists of the 17th century and in recognition of a time in history when the technique of painting was brought to the acme of perfection."

On "Netherlands Day," Dutch-Americans from all over the middle-west are expected to gather in Toledo for a day of singing, dancing, and good fellowship at the Museum. According to Museum director Otto Wittman, anyone of Dutch descent is invited to attend and participate in the day of Dutch festivities.

The day will begin at noon with the arrival of the Dutch-American visitors in the Museum's Cloister. Hank deKat, a native of the Dutch island of Urk and an employee of the Ettl Company, and other representatives of the International Institute in Toledo will act as hosts.

During the registration period accordianist Arie Verheul of Holland, Mich., will serenade the arriving guests with a selection of Dutch songs. Also during this period Dirk Bakhuyzen of Grand Rapids will play Dutch folk music on the Museum's 18th century Dutch Bureau organ in Gallery 15.

A special program will begin at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

This program is free and open to the public.

After the activities at the Museum have ended, the Dutch-American visitors will get together for dinner at the Collingwood Presbyterian Church.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Toledo Museum of Art, telephone (419) 255-8000.

The paintings, shown in only two other American cities, will be on display through Jan. 8.

Has Exhibit at Museum

The Toledo Museum of Art's Gallery 8 is showing a selection of paintings by Toledo artist William H. Scott through Jan. 1, 1967.

Scott, who attended Shurtleff College in Alton, Ill., has had his works shown in both area and national exhibitions.

He has exhibited at the Museum during the annual Toledo Area Artists show since 1964 and last summer some of his work was included in the Toledo Art for Embassies show at the Museum.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Almost daily now the beautiful Christmas story unfolds as the mail arrives. Sometimes it's just a cheery greeting, but precious because the sender took the time to think of us.

The first Christmas card was sent by an Englishman, Sir Henry Cole, in 1843 in historic London. Sir Cole had an artist friend, John Calcott Horsley, design a greeting which was lithographed in black and white and then colored by hand.

About 1,000 copies were produced, but it took 30 more years for Christmas cards to become popular. They were introduced in the United States in the late 1870's.

We especially enjoy the ones with pictures and personalized messages, but all are welcomed because memories of happy times with friends and relatives come flooding to mind.

The birth of a daughter, Rita Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williams in Aberdeen, Md., Dec. 9, prompted two Tecumseh grandmothers, Mrs. Albert Williams and Mrs. David Younglove, to take a plane Tuesday for a 10-day visit with the little newcomer and her brother, Timmy, 2½, and their parents.

Could Top Past Years'

DETROIT — Total retail sales of motor vehicles in the United States during 1967 could well exceed the long-term trend estimate for the year of 10¼ million cars and trucks.

"Next year could be among the best of the past four high-volume years when sales ranged from 9 to over 10.8 million units," Chairman Frederic G. Donner of General Motors said.

In a statement commenting on business trends in 1966 and the prospects for 1967, Mr. Donner pointed out that total passenger car and truck sales in the first two months of the 1967 model year, October and November, were at an annual rate of better than 10.5 million vehicles.

The annual rate of sales in these two months is above the normal trend estimate for 1967 and is strong evidence that the industry's 1967 line of cars and trucks have been well-received.

He emphasized that his analysis of 1967 prospects assumed that national defense expenditures could be held within recently-auuounced levels and that there would be no major changes in the areas of monetary and fiscal policy.

In addition, he said, "we believe that there are current indications that some of the sources of extreme pressure on the economy may now be moderating."

She Loves Animals

By JUDY FIELDER

The people walked by.

He sat on the sidewalk next to the pile of snow and watched.

Every so often, a child would stoop to pet him and then he'd follow him a little way, but no one would take him home or feed him.

It was snowing, he was hungry and night was here, so he curled up in the snow at the corner of the building and yoied to pass.

A car drove up.

Out of the night came a lady, who walked over to the black and white puppy talked to him, picked him up and put him in her warm car.

Three days later, after recuperating at the Tecumseh Veterinary Clinic, Spot found a new family, with loving children to entertain.

MRS. AL CAESAR has solved Tecumseh's stray dog problem.

In the past, lost dogs faced the bleak future of being put to death if not claimed.

Through her efforts, the lost animals are now boarded at the clinic for five days, giving owners a chance to claim them.

If not claimed, she then swings into operation to find a place for the homeless animals.

All of the lost dogs in Tecumseh have found homes since she started.

She became interested in the fate of local dogs three years ago, when, shortly after moving here from Maryland, she went to the police department to buy a dog license.

When she asked what the money was used for, she was told, "Nothing."

She then approached City Council about having the police take stray dogs directly to the clinic and asked council to guarantee board while she searched for the owner.

COUNCIL AGREED and money was appropriated from license fees to cover the cost.

Mrs. Caesar, who receives no pay for her service, is called about 35 times a week by people who have lost or found dogs.

She also has several people on her waiting list who want dogs.

Her plan has proved so successful that she is hoping to persuade the entire county to adopt a similar system.

The Caesars have two dogs, a full-blooded boxer named "Shawn" and a "little mongrel that stole my heart" which she found kept and called "Sidney".

A club has been organized, the Pet Watchers of Tecumseh, to help Mrs. Caesar. Members are Judy Sherwood, who takes over when Mrs. Caesar is out of town, Mrs. Ralph Lockridge, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Jack Lundi.

7th, 8th, Frosh Courtsters Win; Jayvees Bow to Flat Rock, 61-48

Coach Dermont Poley's Seventh grade team made it two, beating Blissfield on their home court 47-37.

Earlier, the seventh graders topped Saline, 16-13.

Against Blissfield, the Royals jumped into an 8-0 before Rick Bunch quickly netted six points. The Indians came storming back to gain a 10-10 tie at the first quarter's end.

Tecumseh erupted in the second period, outscoring their rival by a 16-6 margin. Sam Whitney and Mike Tilton led the surge, each hitting for seven points.

Coach Poley's cagers put the game out of reach in the third quarter. With Bunch tossing in another eight and Tilton adding seven to his total, the third quarter ended with the Indians holding a comfortable 42-26 lead.

With substitutes gaining game time, Blissfield was able to cut Tecumseh's lead. The final outcome however, was never in doubt.

All 15 boys played for the Indians, but only the five starters were able to score.

Tecumseh had three boys in double figures. Led by Tilton's game high of 16, Bunch and Whitney found the range for 14 and 11.

For Blissfield, Dave Hagenbuch popped in 13.

SALINE was a different story as both teams had bad cases of jitters.

Tecumseh, was led by John Curth who scored 10 of the 16 Indian points.

8th GRADE

Tecumseh's eighth grade cagers swept past Blissfield 42-34.

However, the victory wasn't as simple to achieve as the final score might indicate.

The Indians had to play "catch-up" basketball through the first three periods of play even though the score was tied at both the end of the half and third quarter.

Blissfield enjoyed a first period lead of 10-7 over Coach Ted Todd's hoopsters and it wasn't until the half-time buzzer sounded that the score was finally squared at 21-all.

The third quarter was a repeat of the second with Tecumseh trailing most of the way and then spurting at the buzzer to tie it again at 30 points apiece.

Craig Smith kept the Indians in the game by scoring six of the nine points the team managed to hit.

Fourth quarter heroics by Gary Hannibal gave the victory to the Indians.

Hannibal, who had picked up four personals in the first half and had to sit out of the third period, came off the bench and finished the game tossing in six points.

Hannibal finished the night with 12 points, second only to Smith who took game honors with 14.

The Royals were led by Gary Crist who hit for 12.

THIS GAME also, represented a marked difference from the eighth grade opener against Saline, won by Tecumseh, 37-31.

Tecumseh was in control practically from the opening whistle.

The second and third teams of Tecumseh played a good share of the game which allowed Saline to narrow a rather sizeable gap.

Tecumseh scoring was led by Gary Hannibal who got 15 points while Bob Pettit, Craig Smith and Scott Dalton each added six.

Tecumseh High Freshmen belted Milan's Big Reds black-and-blue, 48-37, Thursday.

Milan was as cold and nervous as a high diver about to jump into a damp dishrag.

Coach Bob Kiebler's cagers roared away to a commanding 14-4 first quarter lead stretching it to 27-7 by half-time.

The Indian Frosh out-hustled and out-bounded the frigid five from Milan.

The pressure defense of the Indians forced the Big Reds into numerous ball control errors.

With Tecumseh's starters sitting on the bench for most of the second half, Milan made a game of it outscoring the Indians by a 30-21 margin. But it was too little and too late.

The entire Indian squad of 15 boys saw action with 10 of them scoring. Mike Kennedy and Tommy Aiuto, two of the shortest boys of the team, led the Indians netting 12 and nine points, respectively.

Taking game honors was Milan's John Cosner, a name to remember for the future. He played an outstanding ballgame hitting for 24 points.

After the game Coach Kiebler said, "it was a fine team effort, although Kennedy and Aiuto have particularly good games."

THS JV

In basketball, as in math, there are certain formulas and equations.

One basketball equation reads, "A leaky defense plus cold shooters equals a bad beating."

Flat Rock's Junior Varsity was the "teacher" and Tecumseh's JV's, the unwilling "pupil," spanked to the tune of 61-48.

The game's theme was already set in the first quarter. The taller Flat Rock boys were able to outscore the cold Indians, 18-6.

ALTHOUGH Tecumseh was able to outscore the Rams in the second period, the closest the Junior Indians could come to making the game more respectable was a 10-point margin at half-time, 30-20.

In spite of hustle by Carlo Mobley, John Kennedy, Bob Reed, David Lord and Bill Puffer in the last half, the Indians simply made too many defensive errors.

Jim Hunt took game honors getting 18 for the night.

DOUG BUGBEE, GUS BISHOP BATTLE RAMS FOR REBOUND IN THS WIN

Water Study Will Engulf Six Years and $2 Million

Six years at a cost of nearly $2 million are required for the Army Corps of engineers to complete the entire study of 13 counties in Southeastern Michigan to form a plan for the efficient use of water and related resources.

The study, which began with public hearings, covers a 5,372 square mile area.

Physical, climatic, economic and population data on the area is being gathered.

The engineers will then cover the ground to discover water sources and developments.

Plans will be proposed with the best solutions chosen and refined.

When the report is completed, it will be reviewed at the national and state level, then submitted to Congress, which may modify the plan as it sees fit, then appropriate money for operation.

The River Raisin basin is one of the major considerations in the study.

Current Books

New books ready for you to borrow at your Public Library:

HANDBOOK OF CHURCH FINANCE by David Holt, a student of economics and a banker.

THE WOMEN IN THEIR LIVES: THE DISTAFF SIDE OF THE FOUNDING FATHERS by Frank Donovan. The women in the lives of the Founding Fathers are as different as the temperments of the distinguished men, whose lives they shared in one way or another.

THE WORLD OF JEWEL STONES by Michael Weinstein. From a lifetime spent in the study of jewels and precious stones, the author has amassed a great deal about them: their history, chemistry, location, processing and marketing. His life as a jewel dealer, plus encyclopedic research, has enabled him to, write a book that will make most interesting and helpful reading.

AUTOMOBILE ENGINE REBUILDING AND MAINTENANCE, and, AUTOMOBILE SHEET METAL REPAIR; both from Chilton's Automobile Mechanics' Series.

FASHION FROM ANCIENT EGYPT TO THE PRESENT DAY by Mila Contini. The history of fashion is the history of life. Nearly 550 illustrations, all but a few in color, trace the history of clothes since the dawn of civilization in Egypt.

THE ROMAN by Mika Waltari. This magnificent story takes us in the time of the Emperors Claudius and Nero.

THE BIRDS FALL DOWN by Rebecca West. This is different from any of this author's previous novels. Set at the turn of the century, it uses the ingredients of an international spy thriller for thoughtful probing into timeless human motives.

NEVER TOO LATE TO BE YOUNG by Percy Hansen. A positive and dynamic program for America's 19 million oldsters.

THE BIG SPENDERS by Lucius Beebe; the epic story of the rich rich, the grandees of America and the magnificoes, and how they spent their fortunes.

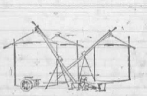
SPACECRAFT AND MISSILES OF THE WORLD, 1966; comprehensive and illustrated.

DOLLAR and SENSE FARMING.

BUY BEEF HEIFERS for cow herd replacements now, they'll cost more later on as demand steps up. Put them on a good wintering ration of silage or hay plus 2 pounds grain and 1 pound protein meal. Breed them 20 to 30 days ahead of cows and have them gaining in weight for best conception results. Your veterinarian should test them for pregnancy so you can weed out open heifers.

INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT OF GESTATING SOWS is being practiced more and more. Tying sows in individual stalls is common in Europe and is gaining interest in the U. S. Each sow can be fed individually. They would also be desirable for artificial insemination. Stalls are 2 feet wide, 6½ feet long with 3½ feet slotted. Slats are 4 to 5 inches wide with 1¼-inch spacing. Sows seem to adjust easily.

KEEP HOLDING CORN even though prices are showing strength. Further gains over winter will more than pay for your storage costs. Feed grain supplies per animal unit are smaller . . . and corn carry-over into next fall is projected to be the smallest since the early 1950's. To further tighten the supply situation, farmers are very tight holders this year. Experts should be stronger than last year, too.



YOUR ELECTRIC WELDER can be used to thaw frozen water pipes. Clamp leads to each end of frozen section and operate welder at 40% of its rated capacity. Thaw sections of 2 to 3 feet at a time. Since a "prolonged dead short" is created, watch welder closely to avoid armature burn-out.

TO THE EDITORS:

I would like at this time to thank you for the picture postcards of Tecumseh.

My name is Pfc. Gary L. Dunham and I live in Britton — that is, when I'm home on leave.

I'm stationed here on Okinawa, which is about 13,000 miles from home.

I've been getting your paper ever since I came into the service last January 17. I sure enjoy hearing things which occur around my home town area.

Today is Monday and it is raining over here. I suppose the weather where you are is a lot different.

The average temperature here is around 60-65 degrees every day and around 50 degrees at night.

I want to wish everyone in the Tecumseh and Britton area a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, especially to my folks and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Dunham and Linda, of Britton.

Merry Christmas to you and your family.

TO THE EDITORS:

So help me! It was not until I received the three papers a few days ago that I had the slightest idea that my letter addressed to Maxine Calhoun would be published. I believe I requested no publicity. Also, I had not seen a copy of The Herald in over 60 years and, of course, did not know the TOUCH of TIME was a regular feature.

No particular harm, I guess, so long as you found some news value in it, but the letter could have stood a little more editing. Further, had I even suspected that it would be used — which believe me, I didn't, I would have used a little more care in preparing it, and for added color, would probably included more of my experiences and observations along the "trail."

Anyway, I congratulate you on having what strikes me to be a very nice and well-balanced little newspaper.

SOLEI NOER — Mrs. James Sirks of Jackson is ready for the holiday whirl in a frothy black chiffon. Double layers of chiffon form the full circle skirt and also the sleeves of the matching overblouse. An alternate overblouse of black lace may vary the appearance of the costume, designed and made by Exclusives EvelDean of Tecumseh.

New Hope for Heavier Gals

By MAXINE CALHOUN

Women never lose their desire for fashionable clothes.

Not even when they've given up on the starvation diet routine for one reason or another, and reached the 24½ to 28½ size range — that's well over 200 pounds.

Thousands of such women find themselves in the dilemma of not being able to find those sizes in better ready-made dresses except in a specialty shop.

There's only one in Michigan — in Detroit, and there is usually a limited choice of styles.

Apparently, most dress designers have chosen to ignore the particular needs of the larger women.

FOR AN attractive business woman, like Mrs. James Sirks, 42, of Jackson, this clothes situation has gradually forced her to give up more and more activities in which she wished to participate.

Mr. and Mrs. Sirks own and operate the White Star Moving and Storage Co. in Jackson.

Mrs. Sirks said that it had long been impossible to find suitable clothes for social events.

"For my daughter's wedding, the only dresses available were sleeveless," said Mrs. Sirks, who long ago learned that she must have well-fitted sleeves.

The mother of two married daughters and an 18-year-old son, said she had never worn a suit and rarely found any two items of clothing that matched well enough to wear them together.

Even dress patterns are in a limited size and style range. The usual neighborhood dressmaker finds the task of altering a very large dress pattern is an impossible feat.

THAT'S WHY, Mrs. Sirks asked plaintively, "Am I impossible?" when she visited the custom design salon of Exclusives EvelDean for the first time this fall.

For the team of Tecumseh courturiers, Evel Garrido and Bill Dean Heimerdinger, Mrs. Sirks presented another challenge to their creative talents.

Spanish designer, Evel, soon sketched a number of chic costumes in which Mrs. Sirks had never before been able to envision herself.

Using techniques learned in Schools of Cutting and Sewing in Munich, Germany and Barcelona, Spain, Bill Heimerdinger meticulously fashioned the paper patterns from Evel Garrido's original designs.

Designer Garrido suggests, "no gathers and only half belts at the back" for the larger woman.

The EvelDean suits for Mrs. Sirks feature the wrist-length jacket, instead of the usual boxy waist-length jackets, which are so often offered in the larger half-size ready-mades.

"IF YOU have a problem with clothes, they can solve it," Mrs. Sirks said of the EvelDean salon.

Straight skirts, for Mrs. Sirks have five-inch deep pleats, off-center, front and back — and fit so perfectly that there is no need for expansion waist.

Vertical pockets help on jackets and darts hidden in the seams, maintain the important straight line effect.

"The larger woman's sleeve will be comfortable if it is fitted exactly at the shoulder," the designers said.

Mrs. Sirks was so delighted with the chic, comfortable fit of the first costume made for her

Ladies of the church prepared and served the dinner followed by carol singing led by Ralph Comfort.

Clara Waldron read an original Christmas verse and three ladies of the Methodist Church presented a playlet entitled, "For This Little Time."

Mrs. William Brandstadt directed the cast composed of Mrs. Carl Hale, Mrs. Ralph Scarbrough and Mrs. Norbert Sedelbauer. Mrs. Herbert Dillon presented Christmas music and accompanied the soloist.

Mistletoe, candles and greens were used to attractively decorate the tables by Miss Waldron and Mrs. Fay Van Valkenburg.

DANCE, TINY SKATER, DANCE — Alison Phillips, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Phillips, 212 W. Cummins St., is the youngest girl to pass the skating test and receive the bronze medal at the Adrian Skate Arena. The little star has been skating two years and under the instruction of Arthur Van Woermer of Britton in classes since May of this year. To qualify for the medal, a skater must do three dances on skates. Alison's sister, Andrea, 10, takes private lessons and has won several medals.

What About Zoning?

No. III

One of the basic functions of zoning is to establish the way land may be used in various parts of the community. For example: residences and industry obviously do not make the best neighbors. The appearance of our area can also have some effect upon abutting properties and through zoning some measure of control may be imposed.

There are several major objectives being sought through the Zoning Ordinance sign provisions. These are expressed in the Zoning Ordinance and are further explained as follows:

- The prohibition of new signs from within-and-over-hanging street rights-of-wty is required. This provision, as is true of all zoning regulations, applies to new signs being constructed or to the substantial reconstruction of existing signs in or over-hanging street rights-of-way. Existing signs which are in or over-hanging a right-of-way may continue to exist and may be maintained. These are called non-conforming signs. Should such non-conforming signs be removed or destroyed then the sign can only be replaced in conformance with the ordinance. Normal maintenance of the sign can continue for an indefinite period. At such time as major structural alteration is necessary or if the sign owner should want to enlarge the sign surface in the process of maintaining the sign, this would not be in keeping with the intent of the ordinance.
- All signs must be constructed to withstand normal wind forces and must be properly maintained so as not to become hazardous or unsightly.
- Signs cannot be constructed at street intersection where obstruction of drivers' visibility or where a conflict with traffic control signals or traffic signs might result.
- Non-accessary signs (those signs not advertising activities conducted on the premises — such as highway billboards) are not permitted in any zoning district except areas zoned for industry. This does not eliminate non-accessory signs that now exist in other than industrial areas. The same provision of non-conforming status exists for these signs as would for an over-hanging street sign. They can continue to be maintained but cannot be enlarged or structurally changed.
- For each different zoning district, residential, business and industry, a set of standards are provided. The major points covered in these standards are the following.
  a. Residential areas — name plates are allowed for homes and buildings such as schools, churches and other buildings of this nature are allowed to have identification signs and church bulletin boards.
  b. Office and business areas —must have signs flat against the wall surface and may not project above the roof line. Free standing advertising signs are allowed but must meet size requirements and be adequately set back from residential districts which might abut the business zone.
  c. Industrial areas — the same provisions for sign attachment to buildings are required as for business zones. Free standing signs are also allowed as are non-accessory signs (billboards advertising activities or products off the premises).
- Signs pertaining to real estate developments are also allowed on a temporary basis:
  a. Permits for 2-year periods are issued by the Building Inspector. A cash bond is also required to assure proper maintenance of the signs. There is also an inspection fee for the issuance of the initial sign permit and for its renewal.
  b. A maximum size of 100 square feet for any accessory real estate sign is established.
  c. Signs located off the premises being developed or sold are considered non-accessory and are allowed only in industrial areas. Non-accessory real estate signs cannot exceed 64 square feet in size.

It is the concern of your Planning Commission that adequate sign advertising be allowed, however, a measure of control is obviously necessary if we are to prevent our business centers and our highways from becoming a confusing jumble of signs. The latter would not only be a detriment to business but would also greatly reduce the attractiveness of our City.

Christmas Air Is Everywhere

By MAXINE CALHOUN

CLINTON — The tinkling sounds and sparkling aura of Christmas are everywhere in the village.

The colorful street decorations, in more profusion than ever this year, are going up on the main streets and the huge evergreen in front of the post office will soon take on the twinkling lights to catch the eye of passers-by.

Santa will dash into town on the fire truck for a quick visit Saturday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. He'll stop at the parking lot behind the village office, where local firemen will help him deliver treats to the children.

Once again, the moving story of the nativity of Jesus will be retold in area churches by dramatic presentations or by music and songs of choral groups.

Organizations are planning pre-Christmas parties and the calendar is filled with their dates.

At the high school, extra effort is being made by the Symphony Band in preparation for the Christmas Concert Dec. 21.

Goodies and greetings are wending their way to strange lands across the seas, where American servicemen are thinking about home and firesides.

Mysterious packages are being whisked into closets and under beds and mothers have a harried look.

Christmas on the Lord's Day this year will be doubly blessed if it is observed by attending our churches.

The Student Council is arranging a gala semi-formal holiday ball, "Patterns in Winter," to be held Dec. 29 in the high school. Girls are urging their mothers to take them shopping for pretty party dresses.

An old-fashioned Community Watch Night service at the Clinton Baptist Church on New Year's Eve will climax the happy holiday season in Clinton.

A joyous season awaits one and all.

Dressmakers Help Santa

By MAXINE CALHOUN

CLINTON — "Yes Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

And a Mrs. Santa Claus, too, or at least a feminine counterpart.

She may be a little hard to recognize, but look about any community this time of year and you may catch a glimpse of her working busily to make the Dec. 24 deadline.

It may be the Lucky Clover 4-H girls or, the members of the Tipton Community Church or Mrs. Harry Werth, who called Mrs. Edgar Randall last week in response to her plea for someone to sew little girls dresses in time for Christmas giving by the Salvation Army in Adrian.

"We'll make some," they said, and that helped to whittle down the pile of 100 dresses which Mrs. Randall had cut out from bits of yard goods donated by women of the United Church of Christ.

There is a bit of magic, too, in the imaginative way Mrs Randall is able to mix and match the little scraps and cut a bodice from one and a skirt from another. When some handy seamstress puts it all together and adds some trimming, it's sure to make a sad little girl—a happy one.

For more than 10 years, Mrs. Randall's house has been cluttered with the makings of these dresses, so many that she's lost count. She has cut around 200 this year and, even if they are not all finished by Christmas, Easter is coming later.

The prettiest ones are sent to the Adrian Salvation Army for distribution then.

The rest of the dresses are sent to the Church World Service center at Napanee, Ind. for distribution to the most needy areas of the world.

Some of the nimblest fingers assisting with the dressmaking project for the past several years are those of Mrs. Clarence Feldkamp, Mrs. Clyde Greenfield, Sr., the late Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Mrs. Paul Dunham, Mrs. Ed Bihlmeyer and Mrs. Agnes Geiger.

Mrs. Feldkamp has made more than 70 dresses and the others, many dozen.

With the assistance of other women who may only be able to sew one or two, the impressive total is a satisfying accomplishment for all concerned.

When the Salvation Army calls Virginia to come down to the warehouse to pick out her very own Christmas dress, she'll know — there is a Santa Claus.

SEWING FOR SANTA — Mrs. Paul Dunham of Clinton has helped for many years in the continuing project of sewing girls' dresses for Christm as distribution by missions of the United Church of Christ and the Adrian Salvation Army.

Residence Builders In Township Must Have One-Acre Lots

CLINTON — The Township Zoning Board held a public hearing and adopted a Township Zoning Ordinance at a meeting Dec. 2.

Before proceeding with the erection, moving, or use of any building, structure or premises subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, the owner of the premises shall first apply for a Certificate of Approval or Permit from the Zoning Administrator.

Fees for each Certificate of Approval will be placed in a Township Zoning Fund which shall be used solely for the costs of administering this ordinance.

Among the numerous requirements included is one which states:

Every one-family dwelling hereafter erected shall be located on a lot or premises not less than one acre in area and having not less than one hundred fifty feet frontage on the public highway.

The Clinton Township Zoning Board is composed of Chairman Charles C. Wilson, Secretary John Miller, James Meeks and Amos Wilson.

Rotary Plans $250 Senior Scholarship

CLINTON — The Rotary Club will initiate a scholarship program, with the presentation of a $250 scholarship to a senior boy or girl of Clinton High School next June.

The Rev. Charles Sturm was a guest at the Wednesday dinner meeting.

The club voted to cancel the Dec. 28 meeting.

Annexation Gets Village 128.8 Acres

'Christmas Then and Now'

BRITTON — The Christmas Program of the Grace Methodist Church was presented Sunday evening with Mrs. Raymond Bird and Mrs. John Lover in charge of the program.

The theme was "Christmas Then and Now."

The welcome was by the Kindergarten, first and second grades. The Senior Choir sang several selections, including "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," which included a flute solo by Susan Smith.

Merle Eaton was the narrator for the pantomime of the Christmas story.

Grades five and six gave a choral reading. Mary was portrayed by Connie Irwin and Joseph by Alex Gibson. Other children portrayed shepherds and wisemen.

The nursery and kindergarten children sang "Away in a Manger." Grades seven eight and nine gave a choral reading and grades three and four a skit, "Christ, the Bright Morning Star."

Charlene Bird read a Christmas poem. The Senior Choir and congregation sang as the Christmas scene was presented.

The program concluded with a candlelight birthday service. A large cake, topped with twelve candles, one for each month, was brought in.

As each month was called, the people of the congregation who had a birthday that month would come forward and give a donation to the Methodist Children's Home. Then each one present was given a lighted candle and the group formed a Fellowship circle and sang "Joy To the World."

Refreshments were served in the dining room at the close of the program and candy was given to the children.

Mrs. William Judkins and her committee decorated the church preceding the program. Mrs. Bernard Bishop baked the birthday cake and painted the background mural for the program.

Vershum Stars In 2 Tory Wins

BRITTON — A high-powered scoring attack by Senior Ray Vershum, who tallied 31 points, led the Britton Tories to their second consecutive River Raisin League victory of the weekend as they overcame the Sand Creek Aggies Saturday night, 63-56.

Sand Creek grabbed an early 7-1 lead in the opening minutes of the game, but Britton battled back.

The Tories were down, 27-24, at the half.

Britton turned it on after the intermission. Vershum dropped in three quick buckets in the first minute, giving the Tories the lead, which they never lost.

Britton's biggest problem was at the free throw line, as the Tories only connected on 15 of 36 chances.

Again Skelton and Dave Fairbanks took care of the boards with 10 and 13 rebounds, respectively.

Vershum was moved from guard to forward in the second half to get more scoring power and it worked.

Vershum collected 31 points, Larry Ash and Dave Fairbanks collected 12 apiece.

FOR THE first three games, the Tories are hitting 40% from the floor, but only 36% on free throws, 35 out of 97 tries.

Coach Sam Hamilton said he is well pleased with his boys "They want to play ball and want to win."

The Tories host Boysville Friday night, Dec. 16, in the last game before the Deerfield Christmas Tournaments.

The Britton Junior Varsity lost to the Sand Creek JV's, 37-34. Chuck Moore was high point man with 12.

Gift boxes for Ypsilanti State Hospital patients are to be taken to Gripton's Hardware store by Dec. 18 for pick-up.

The program began with the presentation of the High School Ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Donald Bush. The young people sang several numbers and then invited the Fellowship ladies to join them in familiar carols.

Mrs. Joseph Hall read the poem, "But When He Knocks," followed by a narrative reading by Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks entitled "No Room." Mrs. Hall concluded the program singing "No Room."

BRITTON — A determined Tory quintet put down the Deerfield Minutemen, 69-60 Friday night.

The first quarter showed Deerfield ahead by one point, 16-17.

But Britton took the lead early in the second quarter and were never headed again.

Sophomore Dave Fairbanks had 16, senior Larry Ash 13 and sophomore Jim Skelton 11.

Rick Holubik was high scorer for Deerfield with 17.

The Britton team showed a big improvement in team play since dropping their opener to Whiteford, 51-55 the past week.

Coach Sam Hamilton said, "I am well pleased with the two mainstays, Vershum and Ash and the two big sophomores, Fairbanks and Skelton. The young boys did a good job on the boards, with Dave Fairbanks grabbing 18 rebounds and Jim Skelton, 17."

Jubilant over the victory, which cracked a long Tory losing streak, Coach Hamilton remarked that the boys still need time to improve.

THS Dowdles, Still Gets Win

By JIM LINCOLN

Down once by 22 points, a scrapping Flat Rock five fought back here Friday night before losing to the undefeated Tecumseh Indians, 61-60.

An easy route of the Rams in the first half turned into a nightmarish session for Coach Vic Lawson in the final two quarters.

Tecumseh missed easy shots, threw the ball away repeatedly and ran into foul trouble.

After hitting 20 of 24 free throws in the opening two quarters, Tecumseh couldn't pry the lid off the bucket in the second half, netting just one of nine attempts.

In the meantime, the Rams started to click.

They picked off numerous passes in the second half and forced other errors with a full-court press.

THE INDIANS really took advantage of FR in the first half, getting their share of the rebounds against the bigger Rams and enticing the visitors into many fouls.

After Doug Bugbee slipped in a two-pointer to boost Tecumseh's margin, 36-14, midway in the second quarter, the Indians gradually started to slip.

The Rams clicked off 10 points to Tecumseh's two, and at the half, FR had pulled to within 17 points. The margin would have been considerably less except for Connie Combs who netted four quick points just before the buzzer.

Three quick turnovers in the third quarter gave FR new life and the Rams twice pulled to within eight points.

At the 4:06 mark in the fourth period, Jim Mobley connected on Tecumseh's first free throw of the second half. The Indians had missed six in a row, twice on one-and-one situations where Tecumseh had a potential of four points — but got none.

After Mobley's free throw, he fouled out and Tecumseh had two more turnovers. FD collected on one to narrow the gap to four points.

GUS BISHOP then provided the winning points when he hit a jumper from about 12 feet, upping Tecumseh's lead to 61-55.

In the waning seconds, FR picked up another goal, made one free throw, missed another, and then Steve Balyo tallied a two-pointer as time ran out.

Both clubs ran into foul trouble with Tecumseh's losses apparently hurting the most. Mobley had played well before leaving. Dean Hebb had Tecumseh's hottest hands with 20 points, even though he missed most of the final period by fouling out.

THOMAS, with 15 points in the first half, finished with 19. The Indians went into a semi-stall early in the second quarter and Thomas was blanked the rest of the way.

Hebb's three goals just before he left, kept the Indians from completely folding. When he exited, Tecumseh still had a 10-point lead.

Hoelzer Nets 40 for 'Skins

By IVAN McKENNA

CLINTON—After two straight victories, Clinton appeared headed for defeat Friday.

But a fourth-period rally sparked the Redskins to a 73-58 victory over Whitmore Lake.

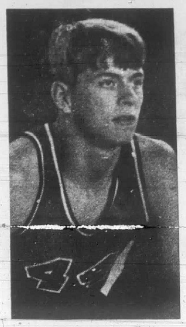
Personally waging war on the Trojans was Clinton's 6'4" forward, Butch Hoelzer, who netted 30 points in the second half to finish with a total of 40.

He connected on 17 of 24 shots, increasing his average to 30 points a game.

A full-court press that the Redskins had employed most of the evening finally became effective in the fourth quarter as the Trojans were forced to 10 straight turnovers.

Trailing 56-51 going into the final quarter, the Redskins started to roll, outscoring the frustrated Trojans, 30-12, in that period.

Hoelzer, deep man on the press, led the comeback with 20 points during the go-ahead rally.



BUTCH HOELZER

Clinton received some fine rebounding from forward Jim Gray, who was cited by Coach Dick Content as playing an excellent game.

Besides Hoelzer, the Redskins had two others who hit in double figures. Guard Gene Brown scored 14 points and Sam Sparks added 10. High for Whitmore Lake was Percy Wright with 22 points.

IN THE Junior Varsity contest, Clinton picked up its first victory of the season by pounding the Trojans 61-26.

Clinton, who has two wins and no defeats in Lakeland "C" play, has two league games coming up over the weekend.

Friday night the Redskins travel to Ypsi-Roosevelt and on Saturday they will host the Grass Lake Warriors.

Boysville's physician protects campus from flu epidemic. Doctor Barlow, assisted by Doctor Kerry, administered preventive flu shots to the entire Boysville campus here Nov. 30. Each year Dr. Barlow has donated this service to Boysville. As a result very few cases of the flu, which could crippie the school's activity, turn up.

Glee Club spreads Christmas cheer with programs of carols. The Boysville Glee Club this year, under the direction of Brother Stephen Davis, CSC, are in performance with their traditional Christmas program. So far the Knights have sung for the Notre Dame Council of the Knights of Columbus in Garden City and St. Mary's Church in Manchester. On Dec. 18 and 25 you can hear and see the Boysville Glee Club on Father Slinker's show "With This Ring" on Channel 2 at 9:30 a.m. The Glee Club was heard on "The Tecumseh Spotlight" Wednesday.

U. S. History class goes culture. Brother Stephen Davis took his class to visit the Detroit Historical Museum. It is one thing to study history from books and another to walk down a street back into history. While the class was in the area it also took in the cultural atmosphere of the Detroit Institute of Art.

The seniors are half-way to the nation's capitol. The seniors' campus canteen project, which not only keeps the students filled with pop, ice cream, candy, and pop corn, but also finances the May trip to Washington, has proven very successful. The canteen has only been open about four weeks and the class of '67 has profited about $300. The seniors' goal is $550.

Saturdays are busy days at Boysville. The Knights rise at 8:10 a.m. and dress in their working clothes before going to breakfast. At 9 a.m. the students scatter themselves all over the campus for two hours of good thorough house cleaning. The Brothers are not left out of the picture — they, too, pitch in as supervisors. It seems hard for boys to see dirt, but Brother is always on hand to point it out for them.

After work until lunch, which is at 12:30, there is general recreation. Also after lunch there is general recreation. Most of the students will engage in some athletic activity — whatever might be in season. At 1:15 the buses leave with many Tecumseh shoppers and return an hour later.

At 5 p.m. all the students go to their dorms. While in the dorms the boys shower, clean out their lockers and take care of other personal cleaning. At the usual 6 p.m. supper is served.

From after supper until 8 p.m. recreation is taken in the rec. halls. At 8, the students go to the gym for a movie. After the movie the boys retire to the dormitories.

The Fighting Knights are twotime losers. Boysville's Varsity and Junior Varsity cagers lost decisively to the River Raisin League's two top-rated teams, the Ida Blue Streaks and the Summerfield Bulldogs.

Ida took an early lead in the game and never allowed the Knights to threaten their power. At half-time the Blue Streaks led, 30-21. During the second half they combined their heighth advantage with their scoring ability and beat the Knights, 65-45. Senior guard Mike Geaudrea was high for the Knights with 23 points. Geery Anderson was top man for Ida with 26 points, seven of those being free shots.

The Knights were out-sized, out-shot, and out-hustled last Saturday by probably the league's No. 1 team, Summerfield High School. The Bulldogs gave Boysville a large marginal score defeat of 91-53. Friday, previous to meeting Boysville, Summerfield smashed Whiteford, 126-73.

Summerfield took control of the game in the opening seconds and kept it that way until the final buzzer. Sophomore Elbert Neal was high for the Knights with 11 points and Mike Nieman took honors for Summerfield with 28 points.

Boysville begins a long tour away from their home court at Britton Friday night. The Knights will not return to their home court until February. Boysville opened its first season of competitive wrestling last Friday against Madison High School.

JUNIOR VARSITY BATTLES — Indian JV's are short, but wow, do they make up for it in hustle and drive. Here three Junior Indians, Bill Puffer, David Lord and Jim Hunt battle a tall Ram.

Milan Next

Tecumseh should have little trouble making it three straight for the season Friday night, when the Indians tangle with winless Milan on the Big Reds floor.

Airport, top heavy favorite to run away with the Huron League crown this season, swamped Milan 96 to 52 last week. The Jets with every starter back from last year's team do not play the Indians until Jan. 13.

Coach Vic Lawson's club has a lot of improving to do before that engagement, if it's to be a real league contender.

Saturday night at the Tecumseh gym, the Indians play host to Hillsdale. The Hornets will be decidedly different competition from the Big Reds.

Hillsdale bowed to Adrian Friday night, 84-72, when the Maples took advantage of Hillsdale fouls at the free throw line. Adrian picked 18 charity points while Hillsdale was limited to just four.

This week's games end the schedule until the ABHT Tournmet at Adrian, Dec. 28-30. League play resumes Jan. 6 when the Indians entertain Grosse Ile.

'None for Road' Is Auto Club Holiday Theme

The Automobile Club of Michigan has launched a unique program to cope with holiday drinking and driving.

For the first time the Auto Club is acknowledging that 80 per cent of Michigan drivers DO have an occasional social drink, and that liquor is served at most holiday parties.

The campaign is asking holiday hosts to be 'First a Friend . . . Then a Host' — refraining from encouraging their guests to impair their driving ability through overindulgence.

The Auto Club is distributing thousands of pamphlets with a list of suggestions for party-givers.

The pamphlet carries on its cover the suggestion that when serving holiday drinks, the good host should make it "none for the road."

It converts into a "sleeve" that will fit over a liquor bottle, serving as reminder to both host and guest.

In Strolls Santa

In Spirit of Christmas, St. Elizabeth Altar Society members said the rosary in the church Dec. 7.

Then the women went to the school for the monthly meeting to discuss a Pancake Breakfast being held in January.

Annual Christmas cleaning of the Church will be Wednesday, starting at 9 a.m. Volunteer help is invited.

Mrs. Robert Laidlaw gave a report of the meeting she had attended at the Methodist Church, where women of all churches located in Tecumseh and the surrounding area attended.

Mrs. Laidlaw said guests all agreed that they are equally interested in the betterment of Tecumseh and its growing youth.

SISTERS of St. Elizabeth and the Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins attended.

Immediately following the meeting the lights were turned off, candles were lit and the Christmas tree lights were turned on.

Sister Anne Celestine played the piano while members sang Christmas Carols.

"When we got to the song 'Here Comes Santa Claus,' we heard the bells and Santa came in to help hand out the gifts," said one member.

Christmas cookies, candy, coffee and tea were enjoyed. Credit for the Christmas party goes to Mrs. Elmer Spreeman and her committee, Mrs. Fred Frolich, Mrs. Edward Rapin, Mrs. Roy Brosamer, Mrs. James Kershner, Mrs. Glen Forsyth, Mrs. Kenneth King, Mrs. Eugene Frolich, Mrs. Carl Sieverts, Mrs. Annie DeJonghe, Mrs. Virgil Diver, Mrs. Marie Frolich and Mrs. Carlos Knisely.

Auction Nets $130

Members of the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church realized $130 from the Christmas auction Monday evening in the Youth House with Mrs. June Kirkland in charge of the sale.

This is the 17th year that the organization has held an auction of Christmas goodies and handicraft items with the proceeds donated to Mather School in Beaufort, S. C.

Members were especially pleased with the total for the donation since it was the largest amount to be contributed and it also is the 100th anniversary of the school.

Thirty-five members were present bidding and buying decorated centerpieces, handmade hankies, pillowcases, towels, jewelry, candle holders and net Christmas trees with miniature balls.

A love gift of $41.60 was received and dedicated.

Mrs. Floyd Bryan was hospitality chairman for the evening. The hostesses were Mrs. Claude Sebring, Mrs. Henry Howard, Mrs. J. D. Cook with Mrs. George Gould and Mrs. William Rader serving beverages.

Mrs. Robert Gillespie led in prayer and Rev. Blair Bashore showed pictures of Mather School. He bought all of Mrs. Roscoe Hewlett's caramel corn and departed hastily before he was placed on the auction block.

The Youth House was gay with the Christmas tree decorated by about 40 children of the Junior Department Sunday evening under the direction of Mrs. Donald Cobb assisted by Mrs. Rader and Mrs. Robert Montgomery.

A&P something for "Harry the Hacker"

Lots of us are known as, "Harry the Hacker," because of what we do to a Christmas Turkey.

The secret to classic carving is a very sharp, thin-bladed knife. Allow bird to sit in roasting pan 15 to 30 minutes. It will slice cleaner and the juices will be absorbed, too. Follow these simple directions:

1. Cut off leg by drawing knife deeply between leg and body through hip joint. Press leg away from body and remove.

2. Before slicing breast, make a deep horizontal cut to bone in breast, just above the wing.

3. Beginning about halfway up breast, slice downward with straight even strokes until slices fall free at cut.

4. Cut off wing through shoulder joint. Cut off wing tip. When one side is clean, turn platter and carve other side.

If your Harry's a Hacker, cut this out and put it in his Christmas Stocking.
One final thing you can do for "Harry" . . . buy your turkey at A&P.

Our Super-Right Turkeys are all Grade "A" birds.
Harry will carve such beautiful slices you'll want to rechristen him, "Sam the Surgeon."

Icy Streets and Salt Budget

A resident in Herrick Park speaking:

"If the city would do something about these icy streets instead of sending us packets about this miserable garbage, maybe we'd feel better."

She went on to explain that in trying to get to Herrick Park School to pick up her daughter, who had suffered a minor mishap, the down-hill drive was glare ice.

Streets in the subdivision were just about as bad, she said.

Maintaining city roads is a major program, points out City Manager Cal Zorn.

The annual budget calls for purchase of 250 tons of street salt. About 20 tons are required to give all streets a "once over" treatment.

First priority, of course, always goes to main arteries and these are salted many times during a single winter. How much of the 250 tons they'll require is never known until spring.

Mr. Zorn notes that the drive to Herrick Park School is not city property. If the schools request it be salted, the city will quickly do the job and bill the Board of Education.

To salt or not to salt, that seems to be the question with each bad ice storm.

He Likes To Raise Money

Radioman Jim Gerity is a fellow who enjoys working on money-raising projects and then when the job is complete, likes to thank people who helped him.

Jim just put the finishing touches on a back-breaker — gathering up more than $800,000 for the new Lenawee County YMCA.

He's the first to admit he didn't do it alone. There were about 60 fellows pitching in and Monday evening he had them as his guests for dinner at Lenawee Country Club, following a tour of the new Y.

Jim was profuse in his plaudits for the group and then he found himself on the receiving end of a plaque from the Y board. It expressed "recognition for his leadership in the financial drive."

It was certainly an honor well deserved.

Putting over a king-size undertaking takes many willing hands. But most of all, it calls for a leader with fire, determination and lot of punch.

Saga of a Capitalist

While some teen agers find their way to prominence via the police blotter, let us examine a different approach.

This report could even be entitled Saga of a Capitalist.

Playing the lead role is 14-year-old Jim Gates, who lives just north of town on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. and is a freshman at Clinton High School.

His brother-in-law wholesales Christmas trees and a few weeks back, Jim put in an order for 80. "On consignment, of course. Right now, I'm a little low on capital."

Jim turned the family front yard into an outdoor salesroom, stood up his trees in rows, spotted several signs by the road and fashioned a 20-word classified ad to run three weeks in The Herald.

Things began to happen. Car after car rolled up into the Gates' driveway and luckily it circles, so customers had no problem getting back onto the road.

As of last weekend, Jim was almost sold-out, the cash box nicely filled. After paying off the wholesaler, there will be a tidy profit.

This is the kind of teen story we love to relate.

Others Wonder About Pacemaker

One big reason for a newspaper is to help people.

That was the object behind last week's Long & Short column in which the pacemaker operation, which Mrs. Alton Snyder underwent, was reported.

Five, tiny, one-volt batteries in a three-by-three-inch packet encased near her arm pit and connected to her heart, help maintain a steady heart beat.

Mrs. Snyder consented to the story in hopes it would be of help to others and it has already.

So far, she has received two telephone calls as a result of the story, from local folks with relatives who well may be in need of help from a pacemaker. One is a young mother with five children.

Of the unique pacemaker system, one of Gini's callers said, "I never heard of such a thing."

"Neither had I," was Mrs. Snyder's reply.

Gini was quick to assure her callers that the operation is quite simple for the patient — and the results are marvelous.

She admitted to the two persons who called her, "I was scared and skeptical when I went in."

But this apprehension was quickly gone and Gini feels delighted now in being a member in the exclusive Pacemaker Club, belonged to by about 12,000 in the entire United States.

Hog Farmers Told: Don't Flood Market

Hog farmers have had two good years in succession and Norman Bless, Lenawee extension agricultural agent says history believes that 1967 will be the year for swine producers to "watch out".

Since hog numbers can be multiplied quite rapidly, expansion following higher prices has been the rule. This larger number on the market then causes a tumble in prices.

Ralph E. Hepp, Michigan State University agricultural economist, says: "Farmers who start to raise hogs when hog prices are up and drop out when prices hit bottom seldom make any money. They are usually getting out when the prices are on the upswing and moving in when the prices are on the down-swing."

The county agent says this advice from the MSU authority should be good for farmers trying to decide whether they should raise a few hogs.

Like Mr. Hepp he believes that unless it is a permanent venture, farmers will be money ahead by not gettting into hog raising at this time.

A recent analysis by Mr. Hepp shows that hogs as a secondary enterprise has an important place on many Michigan farms. Hog production utilizes excess labor and capital not in use.

As long as this secondary enterprise does not compete severely for labor and capital, profit prospects in the next years could be good.

Through My Window

THE HAPPY QUARTET

I would be hard-pressed to pick one favorite bird. Oh, sure, some birds are nicer than others — a male Baltimore oriole is certainly to be preferred over a grackle, cardinals are prettier than sparrows and right now I can think of nothing good to say about starlings.

But out of the whole world of birds to narrow the field down to just one would be next to impossible. It would not, however, be difficult to compile a list of favorites.

Ranking high on that list would be the tufted titmice. They are great finder birds and such fun to have around. This winter is starting out to be the best titmouse looking we have ever had.

We couldn't be happier, either. Before going further, perhaps I should explain my use of the term winter. I know that according to the calendar it has not yet arrived, but, with three bad snows and an ice storm already, I say winter has come.

BUT GETTING back to the pert and cocky titmice. Three of them monopolized our new feeder for awhile and since that extraordinary bird Sunday of several weeks ago the threesome has been a happy quartet.

Four tufted titmice — wow! And happily they're eating from all feeders. We have tufted titmice everywhere.

They are fun birds, their high spirits are contagious. As they frolic from place to place, having such an obviously fine time, one just has to feel good with them.

If sunflower seeds are available, nothing dampens their enthusiasm. In quick jerky flight movement they flit from place to place and 9 times out of 10 a plump tasty sunflower seed is involved. They dearly love them.

EVEN WERE their actions not so entertaining we would treasure these little birds for their appearance. About six inches long, and a lovely gray in color, they have big bright black eyes and a cocky little topknot or crest.

Their breasts are several shades lighter than their backs and a slight tracing of reddish brown shows under each wing. They are the epitome of neatness, their feathers look soft and never is there one out of place.

The titmouse has a rather surprising voice. It is a loud shrill whistle that somehow just does not match his pretty looks. There is nothing very musical about it. He is a year-round singer though and what he lacks melody-wise is more than made up for by enthusiasm.

In the middle of winter, when the temperatures are flirting with the zero degree mark in the thermometer, a little bit of sunshine will start a marvelous titmouse whistle-fest.

BETH shares our fondness for these little gray ones. I am so glad that she is spending a happy winter in sunny California, but on these busy titmice days, how I do wish I could call her and ask her over to share the fun.

Before leaving she was over several times to see what was going on and, of course, there was nothing. Birds are somewhat like children — they can be great show-offs until there is someone for whom they should perform and then they are nowhere to be found.

This current titmouse watching though, has us all excited. We have never had so many at once nor for so long.

So it is that the action these days is coming from four tufted titmice, what a happy quartet!

NEXT WEEK:
Merry, Merry Christmas

Ventilate Barns

Winter months are when livestock farmers have housing ventilation problems.

John Comstock, Lenawee County Extension Agricultural Agent says most problems are individual, but there are some guidelines that may help determine ventilation needs.

Michigan State University agricultural engineers find that allowing one cubic foot of forced ventilation capacity per minute for each 10 pounds of livestock or poultry housed is a good place to start.

For installations needing more than 3,000 cubic feet per minute ventilation the agent suggests multiple fans or a fan with dual volume.

Fresh air inlets on the long sides of the building help.

Ridge ventilators and eave openings for three- or four-sided cold buildings are also an aid. Two to four air changes an hour are almost necessary to control moisture accumulation.

Besides odor and feeling of dampness, the best way to tell whether adequate fresh air is coming in is to look for condensation, the agent explained.

Mr. Comstock concluded, "Most farmers tend to keep buildings too tightly closed. Condensation can only be overcome by moving more fresh air through the building. This air picks up the moisture and carries it out."

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Santa Claus goes under many names.

One of them is Frank Angelo, who played the role for my wife and me one night last week.

He toils each day as managing editor of The Friendly Free Press, but we now suspect this is merely a front.

Frank actually must be Santa.

Here's how the wonderful happening all came about.

For several months, Cherie had hinted she wanted to see "Fiddler on the Roof" when it came to the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

Like the thoughtful husband I am I kept forgetting to send for tickets. With each new remark about the show, there would be renewed intentions of getting a check out right away.

Rave reviews appeared in the papers and theatre goers were singing the praises of "Fiddler."

Three weeks before closing night, I finally sent in a check, fully expecting to get tickets by return mail. Instead, back came my request and the check with the notation, "Fiddler is a complete sell-out."

The reply hit like a trip hammer.

Suddenly it dawned on procrastinating me that Cherie would miss the show which she had wanted so badly to see. Besides, my own desire to attend "Fiddler" began to grow.

ENTER Santa.

"Could you do me a favor?" was my telephone query to Frank.

"Only if it's a big one," he responded.

The sad story was unfolded and when it was complete, Frank said he'd see what he could do.

Next day, there was a call from Frank's secretary. "Two tickets will be at the box office Thursday for you."

What a delightful thrill, how unexpectedly wonderful!

Like a couple of teen agers, the Riordans motored into Detroit, had a fine meal at Fisher's 666 and then floated into the beautiful Fisher.

And the tickets Frank got us — 14 rows from the stage in the center section. What a Santa!

Of course, there was the musical itself and this capped the whole evening like whipped cream on a sundae.

Luther Adler was so great as

Smith Firm Designs $18 Million Complex

Burroughs Corp. of Detroit is going to have a new $18 million headquarters complex — designed by Smith & Gardaer, Architects.

First half of the partnership is Jim Smith of Tecumseh.

He has been busy carving out a career since his graduation from the University of Michigan College of Architecture in 1951.

His headquarters were over Wright's Drug Store.

He was joined two years ago by William Gardner, a classmate at Michigan.

FIRST NIBBLE on the Burroughs project came in 1965 when Smith & Gardner was invited to prepare a feasibility study along with other firms.

This job took about a month to do and gave Burroughs officials an idea of what could be done with three old empty factory buildings, which once had been the manufacturing headquarters for the company.

Since the original skeletal structures were sound, it was decided to re-use them, designing new exteriors and interiors.

Burroughs, nation's largest data processing equipment manufacturer, will headquarter 2,500 administrative personnel in the complex by 1971.

ANOTHER PICTURE, PAGE 2

The present central office will be torn down when the three remade buildings are ready for occupancy. The 16-acre site, in mid-Detroit along Second Blvd., adjoins Wayne State University to the south and the New Center area to the north.

"BURROUGHS" guide lines were straigat forward," explained Mr. Smith. "The company wanted something reasonable and practical, as efficient as possible."

Officials told Smith & Gardner they were seeking a world headquarters whose character would reflect the strength and stability of the company, as well as exhibit a high level of durability and lasting architectural design.

To feature an intensive landscaped site, the complex will be included in the model city idea which Detroit will propose to the Federal government.

The Burroughs' project has engulfed Smith & Gardner, which now operates from headquarters in the Northland Center area of Detroit. Nearly 60 people, including consulting engineers, are laboring for the firm in finalizing various aspects of the job.

It is expected to take about three years.

WILL THESE chores clip Mr. Smith's wings — pursuit of his sail plane hobby, which carried him to a national championship in 1962.

"No," Jim told The Herald Monday, "I'm planning to get in quite a bit of soaring this summer."

Actually Mr. Smith has been up in the clouds, even without wings, since Burroughs named its architect.

New Collection Methods Begin for All Refuse

Paper sacks and holders are now being distributed throughout Tecumseh for the compulsory garbage and trash pickup service, commencing Monday, Jan. 2.

Residents will be notified of their collection day, probably next week.

Dependable Garbage, changing its name soon to Modern Disposal, and a representative of St. Regis Paper Co. are dropping off the sacks and holders, along with other instructions.

City Manager Cal Zorn told Council Monday night that state authorities have again asked when the city is going to conform to regulatoins in handling trash at the dump.

Costs and other problems are prohibitive for Tecumseh to meet the regulations. In an attempt to relocate the dump and provide service, for the area, Clinton, Raisin and Ridgeway Townships have said they're not interested.

The city manager says the state could close the dump here, but would not expect such action before next Sept. 1.

Tri-County Club Has Celebration for Christmas

Seventeen members of the Tri-County Extension Club met at the home of Mrs. Dunine Murphy Monday evening for a Swiss steak dinner and Christmas party.

The group completed making gifts of waste baskets and pencil holders for the Girls' Training School.

Assistance was sought from the popular Action Line of the Detroit Free Press in getting gallon ice cream containers with the desired results. Soup cans were used for the pencil holders.

Sleigh bells on the front lawn heralded the appearance of Santa Claus who drank punch with the members, gave them each a little gift and a kiss.

70 Lockers Will Be Put in Ridgeway

New lockers for the Ridgeway Elementary School were authorized by the School Board Monday night.

The school has been without lockers and youngsters have been forced to clutter hallways with their coats, boots and lunch sacks.

The 70 lockers, costing $1,088.50, will be installed as soon as they arrive from the supplier.

HOLIDAY GLOW — Downtown stores will be a blaze Thursday and Friday nights as happy shoppers enjoy the gay decorations. $50,000 Go in Bonuses

By JIM LINCOLN

All school employees teachers, secretaries, custodians, maintanance and bus drivers — will receive a bonus, the equivalent of one regular paycheck, next February or March.

Tecumseh's School Board approved the idea Monday night. Agreements have been reached by all negotiating committees and only approval from the Tecumseh Education Association is left.

Cost of the bonus will be approximately $50,000. There are nearly 130 teachers in the system and about 80 other employees.

See Editorial Sec. C, Page 8

For several months, school officials have watched various budgeted funds grow with surpluses. Example being funds allocated for sick leave and payments for substitute teachers.

For some unknown reason, these costs have been far less than budgeted. Other surpluses have come from a pre-paid insurance program, state aid, county superintendent's office, library and other areas.

The schools' financial picture will remain bright as officials predict a balance of about $51,000 at the end of the current school year, unless some expenditures for equipment are made.

School officials substantiate the bonus on the grounds that salary contracts signed last spring were less than TEA had expected and hoped for, and less than some other neighboring schools contracts over their employees.

Local Children Christmas Party Thursday Night

The Tecumseh Children's Christmas party, sponsored by the Jaycees and the Parks and Recreation Board, is Thursday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Community Center.

The entertainment will be a cartoon movie by Walt Disney.

Clowns and a visit from Santa Claus will climax the festivities. Gerald Harris is in charge of the arrangements by the Jaycees.

City Gift Is Free Parking

City Council gave patrons and downtown Tecumseh businesses a Christmas gift Monday night when officials voted for free parking Friday and Saturday.

A motion to extend the free parking from off-street lots to on-street parking was approved. In the past, free parking was allocated to lots only.

Board Approves Storage Addition at High School

A 20x20-foot storage addition to the shop at the high school was approved by the School Board Monday night.

It had been originally planned with the new addition, but was cut when other expenses mounted. Money, in the amount of $4,000 and intended for two metal lathes, was allocated to cover the costs.

The lathes were not purchased earlier this year as lack of space did not permit their installation.

Land Given to City in Parents' Memory

City Attorney James C. Beardsley donated 12 acres of rolling, partially wooded land to the city Monday night at the Council session.

The philanthrophic move was given in memory of Mr. Beardsley's parents, John W. and Mable M. Beardsley and was donated for a family park-recreation purpose.

The site is just east of the Community Center and River Raisin, running over 1,000 ft. south from M-50 near a company's utility installation. There are 400 feet bordering M-50 or E. Chicago Blvd.

Estimated value of the property is $15,000.

The Beardsleys are an old Tecumseh family and have been well known here for many years. The attorney's father was a country doctor here from 1911 to 1937, when he died.

His wife, the lawyer's mother, passed away in 1959.

Pension Program for Town Workers OKed in Clinton

CLINTON — Plans for a new village pension program have been completed by Council reported Mayor John Truesdale.

An initial payment of $43,000 has been paid into the state pension program to begin a retirement fund for village workers. The yearly cost will approximate $3,000 to $3,500.

Employment histories of all full-time employees is now being compiled and each will receive pensions at retirements. Amounts will be determined by length of service.

Gingerbread Men Are Mead Tradition

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Gingerbread men in fancy pants, gingerbread girls in scalloped lacy aprons and ethereal angels with pastel wings and silver halos are a part of the Aden Mead family at Christmas time.

Margaret Mead started making the cookies at 128 W. Brown St. when Roger, Mary Ann, Nancy and Kathryn were in elementary school.

Now she can't stop because their youngest daughter, Laura, naturally wants the lively little "people" for her schoolroom friends.

When Margaret decided it was all much to much of a mess and she just wouldn't do it this year, her husband said, "Now Margaret ——"

Thus indicating that in spite of having to eat on TV trays while the table is cluttered with all the necessary embellishments, Aden thinks the project is first-rate.

He helped his wife to fashion with pliers cookie cutters in just the right pattern from aluminum flashing. Using figures about two inches high as patterns, they twisted and bent the material into shape for boy and girl cookies. A friend made the angel cutter.

Many other commercial shapes are used but not until the need for true boy, girl and angel has been satisfied, not only for the Mead youngsters but for the neighbors, school friends and also the church people.

Margaret made cookies and cookies for Ye Olde Fall Festival at the Methodist church this year as she has for the bazaars in past years.

Sometimes the shape and bake procedure goes on for days until Mom can get the last lacy scallop and bit of mistletoe in place.

"If I didn't have the best husband in the world I couldn't do it," she sighed.

Using a small spatula, she deftly applies the frosting, then after it dries, she uses toothpicks and decorating tube to make buttons, collars, mistletoe, holly or whatever is required to complete the attire of the little "people."

Most necessary to the production of perfect cookies is "Never move the cookie," Margaret said.

She cuts squares of wax paper to fit the cookies. The dough is rolled on each square individually and the excess dough pulled away. Paper and cookie go on the cookie sheet and into the oven.

When queried about the tastiness of the delicacies, Mrs. Mead said, "Oh, these are good, especially with the lemon flavoring in the icing. No use having a pretty cookie if it doesn't taste good. They are still good after they have been hanging on the tree for some time."

Hole for hanging is made by drilling with a needle. "Some people bake them with beans in them to make a hole but we found that the needle procedure is simple and it works," she said.

A host of Tecumseh youngsters and teachers have enjoyed Margaret's gingerbread because she has sent an endless amount to various classrooms throughout the city, not only at Christmas time but at Halloween, Easter, Valentine Day and numerous birthdays for years.

The Meads share the recipe for both gingerbread and the frosting with Tecumseh Herald readers.

Long & Short

Tevye, the dairyman, in an obscure Russian village. In his slow-paced, bone-weary style, Tevye carried the story, brilliantly, with great feeling.

Everyone in the cast of 44 contributed delightfully to the story of a poor Jewish family with house full of daughters, the eldest of whom breaks with age-old tradition to marry for love instead of entering into bonds arranged by the town's matchmaker.

AS A STORY line, its seems trite and improbable. But believe me, Fiddler is an absorbing and moving show.

With numbers like "Tradition," "Matchmaker," and "Anateka" a guy is quickly moved with emotion.

The Fisher itself is a thing of beauty. This was our first visit there since its movie days and what a change.

Santa was never more thoughtful than with his early Christmas gift this year.

Three-Year-Old Boy Hospitalized

Michael McLoughlin, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLoughlin, 726 N. Union St., is under observation and testing at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

First reports indicated the youngster, a twin to Mark, had polio. This affliction has since been discounted.

Teen Sends Santa a Poem

Dear Santa,
When all is still on Christmas Eve
And you're loading up the sleigh:
The reindeer impatiently pawing,
Anxious to be on their way —,
Please check your list a second time
And make sure we are there.
We've waited such a long, long time,
Watched our behavior with great care.

You're an awfully busy man, I know,
But perhaps in your bag some cheer
You could find upon us to bestow:

Airman 1/c Gerald E. Honeycutt left Monday to go to Vietnam. He had been spending some time here with his wife, the former Kathryn Southwell and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Honeycutt, 734 S. Union St., while waiting for his orders. He was previously based in Texas and South Dakota. Mrs. Honeycutt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Southwell, 1204 Murray Dr. She has resumed her former position at Meyers Industries, Inc.

A victory for our Indians,
Or a sell-out for the paper,
A black check for the Senior Play,
A mutual laugh or clever caper.
It doesn't have to be expensive
Nor need it be a toy;
Rather something to make us pensive
And want to share a little joy;
Something to bring us close together
So the feeling for our kin
Will be a bonding tether
Extended to all men.

FINALE OF ST. ELIZABETH PROGRAM WAS MANGER SCENE

They Built a Snowman

Students at St. Elizabeth School staged "The Legend of the Snowman", a three-act operetta Sunday and Monday evenings.

The story tells of a brother and sister building a snowman on the day before Christmas. The legend is that the snowman will come to life if a child does a good deed.

The brother does not believe the tale and is very rude to a poor newsboy, so the snowman decides to teach the selfish boy a lesson.

Fred Gerten and Pearl Knisely portrayed the brother and sister Sunday night, Robert McKee and Kim Sieverts Monday night.

Hugh Conklin was the Sunday snowman, Paul Murray, the Monday.

Edward Rapin was the newsboy.

First graders performed the snowball dance as snowball pixies, dressed in white and had a styrofoam snowball fight on the stage.

Sixth graders sang, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" and "Silent Night" and fifth graders were snowmen in the Dance of the Snowmen.

THE BROTHER, because of his bad deed, is plagued in his dreams by tin soldiers and Christmas dolls, fourth graders; three jugglers, Greg Henricks, James Robideau and David Ryan and Christmas Imps, second graders.

Third graders sang "Must Be Santa" as Santa Claus (Charles Cote) "Ho-Ho"ed and rang his sleighbells.

Christmas clowns and sprites were portrayed by Cal Roll, Philip Moros, Peter Murray, M. M. Rapin, P. Tressler and M. Wanzeck.

The brother learns his lesson of sharing and the story ends happily.

Ruth Rudd portrayed the mother.

Sister Ann Celestine accompanied at the piano.

Stage crew was Tom Drouillard, Bernard Riordan, Mark Roberts and Joe Schneider.

The Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins was in charge of lighting and Mrs. Carl Sieverts helped with the daneing.

In the Christmas scene, Mary Gonzales portrayed Mary, Tom Burns, Joseph; Robert Aten, W. Berry and K. Limes, shepherds; C. Albaugh, P. Randall and L. Rebottaro, wisemen and L. Bailey, D. Fitch, M. Jacobs and B. Ries, angels, as the seventh grade sang several verses.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Excitement mounts. The big day is almost here when kitchens throughout the land will abound with fragrant smells of turkey, gravy, dressing, biscuits, cranberry sauce and all the fixings.

When we sit down for Christmas dinner this year, let's ask a special blessing for the farmers of America who so bountifully provide the good food that gives us health and energy not only at Christmas, but every day in the year.

We hear much about food surpluses and, thank God, the dread word, famine, is not one that we have had to use in this country. Sometimes we take an abundant food supply for granted, but it takes much effort on the part of the agriculturalist, both brain and brawn, to assure it.

Tipton Youth Do 'Christmas Around the World'

TIPTON — "Christmas Around the World" was the theme of the Christmas program presented at the Tipton Community Church Sunday evening under the direction of the Senior High Class.

The American family was portrayed by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jackson and the members of the classes taught by Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Ann Allen. Each child gave a reading.

Representing Germany were the boys of the Rev. Philip Rusten's class.

Debbie Vollmer, as the "Spirit of Christmas," narrated the story.

Gay Mexico was depicted by Mrs. Carol Tuckerman's class and Mrs. John Becker's class represented Norway.

Mrs. Richard Vollmer's junior high youths presented a play, "Mrs. Santa Comes into Her Own."

Mrs. Don Daniels portrayed the customs of Holland and Mrs. Raymond Buell's class described Christmas in Russia, Denmark and Syria.

The Nativity scene by the Senior High Class climaxed the presentation.

Christmas carols were led by Mrs. Harold Every and Mrs. Raymond Platt.

Christmas cookies and punch were served and a visit of Santa concluded the evening.

Indians Swat Hornets as Thomas Pours in 33 Points - 19 Straight!

Tecumseh's fourth straight victory over Hillsdale Saturday night undoubtedly was the oddest and craziest seen on the local floor for many years.

Coach Vic Lawson's team nipped the Hornets 62-61 behind the brains and scoring of Charlie Thomas.

Tecumseh's 6'3" center scorched the nets for 33 points and, except for opening minutes, was the dominant player on the floor.

The game had everything a fan could ask for including a field goal shot by Thomas as the buzzer sounded the half. At the time, the Indians needed another two points, and Thomas' shot switched the tough.

ODDITIES of the game?

Dean Hebb scored Tecumseh's first 10 points, and then Thomas took over for the next 19. It wasn't until 6:20 left in the third quarter when Steve Dalton hit a goal that another Indian tallied.

Hillsdale apparently had the game wrapped up with 23 seconds left and leading 61-58. With 16 seconds left on the clock, Hebb hit a jumper.

The Hornets then collapsed and were unable to get the ball in play. On the out-of-bounds play for the Indians, Thomas was fed underneath the basket, he caught the shot and was fouled in the scramble.

His winning free throw came with just eight seconds left.

Earlier in the fourth quarter, Hillsdale lost a point—a point which could have won the game—when the officials mistakenly gave Tom Masuga an extra free throw.

Play had resumed before the officials were notified of the error.

Another quirk to the game occured just before the half—and just before Thomas' big shot—went the timekeeper failed to start the clock. The officials and coaches agreed that about five seconds had elapsed. Another second chopped off and Thomas would never have gotten the ball away.

An unfortunate incident, reminiscent of just a couple of years ago occurred in the third quarter when Jim Mobley broke free and went in for a lay-up.

Just as he left the floor, a Hillsdale player purposely slammed him to the floor. Mobley was luckier than Jim Lawson, an outstanding Indian who was crippled just before Tecumseh tourney play.

Mobley, grimmacing, got off the floor and was able to resume play. Officials charged the Roscoe net with an intentional foul, but did not eject him from the game.

HITS 10 STRAIGHT — Senior forward, Dean Hebb, opened the Tecumseh-Hillsdale encounter with 10 straight points before Charlie Thomas caught fire with 19 straight. Hebb ended the game with 18 points, his average per game this season.

Nip Milan

Tecumseh's Indians battled both Milan and their own errors Friday night, before coming out with a 72-60 victory.

The win, second for the Indians in Huron League play, gave Coach Lawson's team a tie for first place with Airport. The Jets and Tecumseh tangle at Airport on Jan. 13.

Milan gave the Indians unexpected competition before folding in the final quarter.

The Indians had struggled to a six-point margin at the end of three periods before storming out front with a 20-point final stanza, eight of the total coming in a straight burst just before the game ended.

Charlie Thomas, top Tecumseh scorer, paced his teammates with 24 points and in rebounding, grabbing 21 off the boards.

The Big Reds threw a mess at the Indians, and, as in the Flat Rock game, Tecumseh floundered, throwing the ball away numerous times.

One big consolation for Lawson was balance scoring. Only Dean Hebb has helped Thomas in the scoring column, but Steve Dalton and Doug Bugbee pitched in against Milan, hitting with double figures.

INTENTIONAL FOUL — In Hillsdale's last two tilts here, an Indian is slammed to the floor while driving for the bucket. Two years ago, Jim Lawson felt the blow. Friday night, Jim Mobley was the victim but unlike Lawson, he was able to get off the floor and resume playing — but not until after he rubed off some sore spots. The ref caught this one and automatically gave Mobley two free throws.

THS Meets Adrian Five in ABHT

For the first time in the brief history of the annual ABHT tournament, Adrian has a good chance of winning and ending Tecumseh's dominance of the county cage event.

Adrian's chances will be determined next Wednesday night when the Maples bump up against our undefeated Indians. Game is scheduled at 8:30.

If the Maples win, they'll have to stop Charlie Thomas, Tecumseh's 6'3" center, who is averaging better than 25 points per game, and Dean Hebb, 6'2" forward, with nearly a 17-point-per-game average.

While Adrian's record is a poor 1-3, the Maples did whip Hillsdale on the Hornets' floor. The Indians just sneaked by Hillsdale here Saturday night.

Last Friday night, the Maples bowed but showed a big improvement against Lansing Everett.

Blissfield and Hudson, other two county teams participating in the tourney, have little chance of winning, except for the scheduling which pits the Royals against a Hudson five in Wednesday night's opener.

One of the two clubs will play either the Indians or Adrian for the title Friday evening, Dec. 30.

Only 4 Mishaps Despite Snow, Ice on City Streets

Although snow and ice coated the streets here much of the past week cautious motorists were involved in only four mishaps investigated by Tecumseh police.

A resume is:

Dec. 14 — Doris M. Jenkins, Tecumseh, backed into a parked car in the A&P lot. Other auto was owned by Lawrence Cote, 4393 Comfort Rd.

Dec. 16 — William B. Rubin, 17, of 205 Cairns St., turned in front of Nelma J. Korth, 37, Pennington Rd., at the intersection of W. Chicago Blvd. and Union St. He was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Dec. 16 — Merton B. Gillin, 75, was cited for failure to yield the right of way after an accident with Mable J. Mayes, 30, of 6501 Ridge Rd., at the intersection of E. Chicago Blvd. and Maumee.

Dec. 17 — William J. Walker, 39, of 746 S. Union St., reported to police that he had hit two parked cars the night before on Occidental Rd. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failure to show proof of insurance. Other cars are owned by Randall Maynard, 811 Occidental Rd., and David Lee Moore, 813 Occidental.

Skins Up Record to 5-0

By IVAN McKENNA

CLINTON — Last weekend produced a pair of Lakeland "C" victories for the Clinton Redskins, running their season record to 5-0.

Friday, the Redskins defeated Ypsi-Roosevelt 64-42, and Saturday night walked away with a 74-56 victory over Grass Lake.

The Ypsi-Roughriders managed to hold Clinton's scoring ace, Butch Hoelzer, to only 11 points.

But guard Gene Brown came through with a sparkling performance, pumping in 35 points.

HOELZER WAS stopped from scoring, but not rebounding as the 6'4" junior pulled down 23.

Jim Gray picked off 16 and Sam Sparks grabbed 12 as the Redskins out-rebounded Roosevelt, 64-50.

Although 64 points are the fewest Clinton has hacked up this season, they hit a respectable 45% of their shots while the Roughriders connected on 33%.

Teaming with Brown at the other guard spot, Jake Schwab turned in a fine floor game and also netted six points. Jim Gray added seven. High scorer for Ypsi was Pete Ylisto with 15.

SATURDAY night the Redskin attack was again led by Brown and Hoelzer as they connected for 28 and 23 points respectively.

Hoelzer, leading the county in scoring, is now averaging 25 points a game, while Brown has a 21-point average.

In the second quarter, the Redskins opened up a wide margin, but it dwindled to a four point advantage at half time.

In the third frame, Grass Lake kept pace with Clinton and momentarily took the lead toward the end of the period.

In the final eight minutes, the Redskins came to life and poured in 26 points to sew up the victory. Brown accounted for 12 and Hoelzer six.

Clinton again hit exceptionally well from the floor, 49%. Grass Lake was only 33%.

High scorer for Grass Lake was Walt Paszkiet with 20 points and Dave Kimball with 15.

With the two conference victories, the Clinton Redskins are now in sole possession of first place in the Lakeland "C", boasting a 4-0 record. Brooklyn is in second, with a 3-0 mark.

Boysville Nips Britton, 61-60

BRITTON — The Fighting Knights of Boysville lived up to their name Friday night as they fought to keep ahead of the Britton Tories on the Britton court, and succeeded in edging Britton, 61-60.

The Tories led at the end of the first quarter, 15-1, but had slipped to 30-34 at half time. Early in the last quarter, Britton managed to get the lead, 50-49, but a free throw by Boysville tied the score, and the Tories could not get the lead again.

The Tories had moments when they looked good, but did not work together as effectively as they can.

Boysville out-rebounded Britton, 45-35, and was way ahead on floor shots as they made 24 out of 78, while the Tories took 91 and only connected on 25.

Larry Ash and Jim Skelton shared scoring honors for the Tories, with 15 points each. The Tories' leading scorer, Ray Versham, was held to only 12 points. The Knights' Mike Gaudreau won top scoring honors for the night with 19.

The junior Tories, coached by Paul Palka, also lost another close one to the junior Knights, 38-36. Chuck Moore was high scorer for Britton with 11.

Mike O'Dea, Elbert Neal and Dave Rockwell of Boysville all got in the double figures with 14, 13 and 10 points.

It's time for holly and mistletoe . . . for fun with friends and family! Happy Holidays all!

Unpublicizedly,

School Architects Named

CLINTON — The firm of Jahr-Anderson Associates has been named as consultant and architect for the Clinton School building program by the Board of Education.

Meeting with Richard Wegner, superintendent, and members of the faculty, were Thurston Jahr and George L. Craven. Mr. Craven will be the architect in charge of the local project.

Mr. Jahr is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Architecture and Engineering.

The firm was organized in 1945 and since 1948 has specialized in school planning and construction. It has built 100 schools.

The firm recently completed construction of a $7½ million school at Hazel Park and the John Glenn School at Wayne.

The Clinton school building program is to be a "community-planned" project, the architects said, with local committees working with the architects and engineers at every stage of the project.

The Citizen's Committee visited schools, checked credentials and presented a list of three architects selected from a list of 12, for consideration by the School Board, who made the choice of the Jahr-Anderson Associates.

At present, the firm is getting acquainted with the community, studying sites and establishing planning procedures.

Performance Sets Record Attendance

The largest group of parents and friends ever to attend gathered at the Youth House of the First Baptist Church Sunday afternoon for the church school program.

Mrs. Francis Packard narrated due to the illness of Mrs. Robert Grigg, superintendent.

Each class depicted a different symbol of the program entitled "Symbols of Christmas" with children of the Junior Department as choir.

The welcome and prayer were given by Carl Bowen and Beth Burkhard.

Dawn Champanois sang "All I Really Want for Christmas is To Keep The Things I've Got."

Joey Murphy played a piano solo and Bonnie Flanders and Laura Downard presented both a piano and flute duet and a flute and clarinet duet.

Lighted Tree Greets Members

A lighted Christmas tree on the porch welcomed members and guests of the Tecumseh Music Club to the home of Mrs. Wilfred Waldron Dec. 13.

Twenty-one ladies gathered to hear a program of Christmas music and spend a few moments singing the old carols. Mrs. Maynard Mulvaney was co-hostess.

Mrs. Norman Bailey, program chairman for the evening, introduced Mrs. Milton Bailey and daughter, Lynn, of Clayton. They combined their voices to present the evening's music. Mrs. Fred Oberlin accompanied at the piano.

The Mother-Daughter combination sang, "Lo How a Rose E'er Blooming," "Silver Bells," and "Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," an arrangement of Longfellow's well-known poem.

Lynn, a sophomore at Hudson High School, sang "The First Christmas Tree" written by her mother. It was composed when Lynn was five years old and represents Mrs. Bailey's fanciful attempt to explain the history of the lighted Christmas tree as it is known today.

Mrs. Bailey led the group in singing, closing the musical evening with "Silent Night".

Additional guests for the event were Mrs. Raymond Crippen, Mrs. Lillian Hoagland and Mrs. Paul Keyser.

News From Boysville

By RICK CURRIE

Boysville News Bureau wishes all the Tecumseh Herald readers a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Boysville is studentless. The Knights have left Boysville for the Christmas Holiday vacation. Every boy goes home for the vacation. All the Brothers will remain until after Christmas and then begin their exits for a little vacation relaxation. The campus will come back to life again Jan. 2.

Junior class Christmas card sale was not extremely successful and yet still profitable. Ray Tyle sold the most cards by bringing in $45. The real life-saver for the class was Mrs. Holder, one of the sophomore student's mother, who sold more than $100 worth of cards. The money the class did make will go for the expenses of the Junior-Senior Prom.

Boysville campus dresses in holiday trimmings. Every dorm is decorated with the spirit of Christmas. In Cardinal Mooney Hall each student took it upon himself to adorn his cubicle. Of course the focal point of all this glitter is the traditional Christmas tree. The Jaycees of Tecumseh donated to the campus this year's trees.

Christmas semi-formal dance gave beat to the season spirit. The student council sponsored its third dance at Boysville last Saturday night. The students paid $1.25 to enter the gaily-decorated dining hall. St. Joseph Academy provided the partners for the Knights as they danced to the Rock 'n' Roll music of the 19th Oracles from Monroe.

A Day of Recollection prepared students for Christmas. Father David, OSM began the preparation for Christmas Sunday night by Communal Confession. A married couple then talked to the seniors, and answered any questions they might have on the married state of life.

The Mass the next day was divided into two parts, the liturgy of the word in the morning and the liturgy of the sacrifice in the afternoon. The hymns sung at mass were in the style of the hootenanny with guitar accompaniment.

Candlelight Christmas Supper finales Boysville's activities for 1966. With the dining hall decorated in the warm Christmas cheer, the Boysville family gathered to have its Christmas meal together. Ham, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, turkey, salad and sherbet were served by the freshmen, sporting red bow ties, white hats and aprons. After the meal, the traditional Merry Christmases were given to all from all.

Five teams make up a new and exciting intramural basketball league here at Boysville. The teams were selected by five chosen captains on an imaginary $1,000,000 budget. The games are played on certain scheduled nights starting at 8 p.m. In the standings so far, Ron Cook's Brunis, by beating Larry Heibel's Irish and Greg Quinn's Revengers by beating Don Chalmer's Pop-Poys, are leading. Willie Dozer's Globetrotters have not had a scheduled game as yet.

Wrestling team lost their first meet, 36-13, to Madison High School. There was only one pin by the Knights and that was by Marvin Bohl. Phil Mirin and Pat McGovern won their meets by a three-point margin and Robert Hall received a two-point tie.

EMU Glee Club Breaks into Prison

The Eastern Michigan University Glee Club last week broke into prison — with the aid of an inmate — to give a concert.

Club members had gone to the Federal Correctional Institution at Milan to present a Christmas concert. They were being admitted to the prison through a passageway which has electronically controlled doors at both ends. One door will not open until the other is closed.

As they went through the first door, it locked behind them, but the other door refused to open. Prison officials worked on the controls for a half - hour, but were unable to get the doors open.

Finally, an inmate — who apparently has had some experience at this sort of thing — was summoned, and he was able to free the Glee Club, which gave its concert on time.

Light To Shine Out of Darkness

Lenawee Seal Campaign Tops Former Total

Support for the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases can be seen in the increased numbers of contributions to the 1966 Christmas Seal campaign, reports Mrs. Ellen Ziegler, campaign chairman for the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Lenawee County residents are helping to boost the fund raising campaign to a new record. Contributions to the end of the first five weeks have reached $9,791 as compared to $9,077 at the same time last year.

Hillsdale Couple Is Injured in Car

Willie G. Dumas, 45, and Beatrice Dumas, 43, of Hillsdale, were admitted to Herrick Memorial Hospital at 12:55 p.m. Sunday with injuries received when their car was involved in a collision on US-12 just west of Tipton Hwy.

The Dumas car collided with a pickup truck driven by Lawrence Penny, 58, of Onsted, then the Dumas car went off the highway and rolled over.

Clinton State Police are still investigating.

Kitty Kurtis Objective: Improve Angus Breed

By TOM RIORDAN

Just about everyone enjoys sitting down to a thick, juicy steak.

But few persons, including a lot in the gourmet class, have little idea of what goes into producing that meat.

Multiply your steak by several million per day and suddenly there's another giant industry.

But raising beef for those steaks, plus roasts and hamburgers, isn't the only item. There is the continued development and improvements to breeds of cattle which provide beef for the table.

That's what Kitty Kurtis, Inc., in the Ridgeway and Britton area is all about. Located there are headquarters for an Angus developmental operation which includes layouts in three states.

Kitty Kurtis was founded by Curtis Brown, an Indiana farm youth who struck it big in industry, but never lost his love for agriculture. He has fashioned a fascinating operation.

Born 63 years ago near Monon, Ind., Mr. Brown graduated in 1926 from Purdue University's School of Engineering, then with Jens Touborg and the late Frank Smith founded TRESCO — Tecumseh Refrigeration Engineering and Sales Co.

TRESCO designed and sold refrigeration compressors manufactured by Tecumseh Products Co. They watched gross sales grow from zero to nearly $150 million, eventually selling out to the Products in 1955.

Even through those exciting days in industry, Curtis Brown never had lost his love for agriculture.

In 1941, he purchased a 190-acre farm on M-50 near Ridgeway to get into the cattle business for the first time, building up a top-rated Jersey herd of 250 head.

One of his Jersey bulls was judged grand champion at the 1953 Dairy Congress.

IN THE MID-1950's, Kitty Kurtis expanded into the beef feeding business, which fattens 1,000 steers for market in a giant feed lot along Hendershott Rd., just north of M-50.

It's a scientific process, with all cattle weighed monthly to check their feed conversion efficiency — their ability to turn chow into meat. This experimental work is done in close cooperation with Michigan State University's Animal Husbandry School.

Much of the cattle in the Kitty Kurtis feed lot comes as calves from commercial herds in western states — the Dakotas, Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Montana — and many of these steers were fathered from semen of registered Kitty Kurtis Angus bulls.

"We often buy complete calf crops," explained Mr. Brown, who added that last summer this included five herds, about 500 head.

Major interest of the folks at Kitty Kurtis now centers on the top-flight Angus herd, which includes nearly 700 females of proven blood strains located in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

There are 40 bulls here and a like number in Monon, Ind., a division of Kitty Kurtis run by Kenneth Brown, a brother of the founder, on the Brown family homestead.

ORVILLE COOK, a graduate of Ohio State University School of Agriculture is vice-president and general manager of Kitty Kurtis Angus, Inc. Ed Wilkie, who attended Michigan State University, is herd manager.

The objective at Kitty Kurtis Angus is to improve the breed—make steers rangier, better producers of table meats. By breeding cows with semen from the top bulls this gradually happens.

HERALD PHOTO BY TOM RIORDAN

Prize Kitty Kurtis Bull Worth Over Half Million

Not yet two years old, this 1,600 pound beauty won the title the first time he was shown individually.

Projector made his debut in a carload - of - 15 showing in Denver last spring and that's when Kitty Kurtis Angus, Inc. purchased one-half of the bull.

Ownership of Projector is shared with Ankony Farms of New York and UT Farms of Oklahoma.

Projector makes the Ankony herd his home for the present. His semen, for artificial insemination purposes, is shared by all three herds. It is frozen, then flown across the nation to impregnate the purebred cows and heifers, is also sold commercially to breeders and rangers.

THEY RUN THINGS — Orville Cook, Bill Brown, and Curtis Brown are pictured at the Kitty Kurtis feed lot on Hendershott Rd., where 1,000 steers, mostly Angus, are scientifically prepared for market in a giant fattening operation. As animals are sold to processors, new calves are purchased to take their places and process st arts all over again.

Linda Palmer Is Wed to Barry Branham

BRITTON — Brenda Palmer and Barry Branham exchanged their marriage vows in a beautiful Christmas setting Saturday evening at the Congregational Christian Church of Britton. The Rev. G. O. Hannevik performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with poinsettias.

The gold cathedral candelabra flanking the altar were decorated with evergreens, velvet ribbon trim and poinsettia. Poinsettia plants also stood at either side of the bride's kneeler.

Lighted single branch candelabra, trimmed with clusters of poinsettia and holly foliage, marked the pews along the carpeted aisle.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Palmer of 543 Centennial Road, Britton and Barry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Branham of 7585 Pennington Road, Tecumseh.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of ivory bridal satin as she approached the altar on the arm of her father. The gown was designed with a scoop neckline and short sleeves.

Alencon lace was fashioned on the front of the A-line skirt, with a narrow velvet ribbon accenting the Empire waistline and the sleeves.

Her headpiece was an open top pill box trimmed with crystal, and held a floor length illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of petite white carnations and variegated holly, centered with a detachable corsage.

Mrs. Terry Faust of Palmer Highway, Britton was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was styled with a fitted dark green velvet top and egg shell crepe skirt with a wide band of lace marking the empire waistline.

BRIDESMAIDS were Anna Branham, sister of the groom, of Tecumseh and Linda Clement and Sharon Mann of Britton. They wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor.

The attendants all carried avacado crystal goblets, decorated with red velvet ribbon and containing a lighted candle, with a cascading arrangement of miniature red carnations, holly and white glamelias. Each wore a short, circular veil of green nylon net, topped with a green velvet bow which matched the dresses.

Terri Branham, sister of the groom, was the flower girl. She was dressed in red velvet and wore a garland of red velvet holly leaves. Bruce Wertenberger, cousin of the bride of Dundee, was the ring bearer.

Mrs. William Raeburn played traditional wedding and Christmas music and accompanied the soloist, William Hetrick, as he sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Larry Branham of Jackson served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Lynn Palmer, brother of the bride, Terry Faust, brother-in-law of the bride and Rick Robinson of Battle Creek.

Assisting at the reception were Diane Bigelow of Clinton, Judy Branham of Tecumseh, Mrs. Douglas Hamilton of Jackson and Mrs. Jerry Crawford and Sandra Skelton of Britton. The wedding cake was baked and decorated by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Linville Childers of Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rowlands of Britton were the hosts.

The bride is a graduate of Britton - Macon High School and Cleary Business College. She was employed as a secretary in Toledo prior to her wedding.

Airman Apprentice Branham is a graduate of Britton - Macon High School and attended Eastern Michigan University. He is now stationed with the Navy at Mempis, Tenn. attending Aviation Electronics school.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Memphis. He returns to duty Dec. 28.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents in their home Thursday evening.

How the Wonderful Story of Jesus Is Told Around World

BRITTON — "I Love to Tell the Story" was the title of the annual Christmas program of the Congregational Christian Church presented Sunday evening at the church by the Sunday School Department.

Mrs. Ronald Frayer and Mrs. John Beal were in charge of the program. Mrs. Terry Faust and Mrs. William Raeburn were accompanists. Doug Fairbanks gave the opening prayer.

The nursery and beginner children opened the program with recitations and music.

Then, several scenes were presented, each in front of a framed tableau of the nativity. The scenes included a mission station in India, the home of a shut-in, a class of Jewish boys, a hospital clinic in Formosa, and a group of modern girls waiting for Sunday School. Each scene showed how the wonderful story of Jesus is told around the world.

Special singing by a ladies' sextet, "I Love to Tell the Story," was heard between scenes, as well as recitations and music by the various classes.

The program concluded with the congregation singing "Joy to the World" and the benediction by the Rev. Hannevik.

Christmas cookies, tea, punch and coffee were served to the group in the Fellowship Center following the program. Gifts were presented to the Sunday School children, the pastor and church organist.

Baptist Program Tells of Choice Each Person Has

BRITTON—"The Character of Christmas meets Christ" was the title of the Christmas program presented by the Bethel Baptist Church Sunday evening.

The theme of the program was the choices a person has when he is faced by Christ; he may neglect, reject or accept Christ as he came to earth from heaven and died on Calvary's cross in our stead.

The program was directed by Mrs. Alva Clark.

The Rev. Duane McNeil opened the evening by leading the congregation in singing Christmas carols, Arthur Mann was the narrator for the program which followed. Four girls gave Scripture readings and a group of young children recited "A Welcome." The pre-school and kindergarten classes sang "Away in A Manger."

A recitation of "A Birthday Present for Jesus" was followed by a selection by a brass ensemble. A clarinet trio played "Star of the East" while a flannelgraph of the wise men was shown.

An acrostic "His Star" was presented by a group of young boys followed by the primary choir singing "Christmas Star."

"Rejected" was the title of the next acrostic, followed by the Junior, Junior High and Young Peoples Choir singing, "Oh, Why Not Crown the Savior King of Your Heart?"

A vocal solo, "Thou Did'st Leave Thy Throne," was rendered by Howard Bishop. A recitation "Hearts With No Room," was given by a group of girls.

The program was then summarized and the question asked, "What will You do with Jesus?" Donna Piercy and Sandra McNeil closed with the song, "Have You Any Room for Jesus?" Betty Bishop was the accompanist for the evening.

Jayvees Trim 2 More Opponents

"Boy, I wish we could play one team our size," sighed JV Coach Val Spangler wistfully.

"We haven't had a height advantage all year long."

It's quite an obstacle for Tecumseh's Junior Varsity cagers to overcome, but they hurdled both of them against Milan and Hillsdale, trouncing the Little Reds, 68-50, and dumping the Hornets, 67-37.

Tecumseh shot a torrid 55% in the first quarter against Milan, hitting 10 for 18 from the floor, enjoying a 22-7 margin.

MILAN COULDN'T cope with the Little Indians' press and hustle. John Kennedy, Bob Reed, David Lord, Jim Hunt and Bill Puffer were all over the floor.

A complete change in personnel — Ken Pieh, Denny Lewis, John Bryan, Butch Quinn and Terry Bolden — started the second quarter, but Milan didn't have much luck against this combination, either.

Quinn, playing his best game of the season, had the hot hand, dumping in eight of the 13 points Tecumseh garnered.

The half closed with the Indians enjoying a comfortable 35-19 lead.

Coach Spangler was particularly pleased with the work of the freshmen on the squad, singling out Puffer for his excellent rebounding and fine offensive showing, and Ken Pieh, for his all-around play.

"Quinn, Reed and Jim Hunt also played fine games," Coach Spangler added.

The Indians were led by Puffer, who got 15. Quinn added 13, with Hunt and Pieh getting 12 each.

WHEN THE Hornets' JVs took the floor, it looked as though their varsity had slipped in by mistake. Larry Waters, Hillsdale's center, is 6'4". Two of his mates are both 6'2".

Fortunately, the Indians were not intimidated by Hillsdale size. In fact, Tecumseh was in fair control of the game almost from the opening tip-off.

Jim Hunt, Ken Pieh, David Lord, Bob Reed and Bill Puffer outclassed the taller, but slower, Hornets.

The Hillsdale press was broken repeatedly by the starting five, and when one or two of them encountered early foul trouble, John Kennedy, John Bryan, David Laidlaw, Denny Lewis and Butch Quinn continued the good work.

Tecusesh led, 32-26 at half-time. There were several "picture" plays in the game:

- Pieh, with a beautiful assist to Puffer
- Bryan, with a fine feed to Laidlaw
- Hunt, with a classic reverse lay-up from Lord on an out-of-bounds pass.
- Puffer, who constantly gained good position and played his taller rival right off his 6'4" feet.

Hunt had 17, Lord 11, and Pieh 10.

Coach Spangler's lightly-regarded "runts" now have a 3-1 record.

Early Christmas 'Gift'

"It is better to give than to receive," goes the old saying.

But you won't be able to convince the Dundee seventh grade coach that the advice brings happiness!

He was a most unhappy man as he saw his confused cagers "give" Tecumseh two points by popping in a bucket into the "wrong" basket.

He was even more unhappy when that gift turned out to be the margin of victory for Coach Dermont Poley's seventh grade hoopsters as they turned back the Vikings by a 31-29 score.

THE "early visit by Santa" happened at the beginning of the third period. At that, it took persistent effort on the part of the Dundee cagers to present Tecumseh with the basket since two Indians did their level best to prevent the bucket from being made.

The Vikings didn't succeed at first, so, they tried again — and again — finally succeeding, much to the consternation of the Dundee coach.

The game, something less than perfect basketball, started out as though Tecumseh would blow Dundee right out of their own gym. A first quarter score of 12-6, was streched to 18-9 at half-time.

The last half largely belonged to Dundee, as the Vikings outscored the Little Indians by seven points, 20-13.

Near the close of the fourth quarter, Dundee not only caught up, but forged into a two-point lead.

WITH 40 SECONDS showing on the clock, Mike Tilton tied the game at 29-all. He was fouled on his shot, but missed on the free toss.

With 29 seconds Rick Bunch got the ball and dropped in the "winner".

Neither team played particularly good ball with turnovers as common as fleas on a mongrel.

Tying Dundee's Rick Boldt for game honors with nine points, was Mike Tilton. Two of Tilton's teammates, John Curth and Rick Bunch, helped the Indian cause by netting 7 points apiece.

8th Grade Gets Third Decision

Posting win No. 3 in a row, Tecumseh eighth graders hammered Dundee, 38-20.

Last time these two teams met—one year ago as seventh graders — the Vikings employed a successful press and eventually won, 34-30.

This year, the script read differently for Coach Ted Todd's cagers.

The first quarter was relatively close, 10-7 for Tecumseh, as Scott Dalton canned seven.

THE INDIANS broke the game wide open in the second period, leading Vikings 18-9.

Gary Hannibal of Tecumseh cut loose in the third quarter pouring in seven of the 15 points the Indians registered.

Good defensive effort on the part of the whole Indian squad held Dundee to just eight.

Both benches were cleared in the low scoring fourth period. At that, Tecumseh outscored its rival by 5-3 margin.

Dundee's high point man, Bill Busch, was held to just six points by Craig Smith who was his "shadow". Not only did Craig hold him down, Smith stayed foul free for the whole game.

COACH TODD, while praising the defensive effort of his entire team, also singled out Frank Geisenhaver and Scott Dalton for their effective work in breaking Dundee's press.

Bob Pettit and Hannibal were also lauded for their fine rebounding.

"The game was well played," Coach Todd said. "The starters moved the ball well and were consistently hitting the open man. They committed few turnovers."

Seven of the 15 players Tecumseh employed, broke into the scoring column. Hannibal was high for the game with 11. Dalton and Smith hit for nine and seven respectively.

Frosh Win Thriller

In a thriller, Tecumseh's Freshmen basketball team topped Airport, 61-55. Coach Bob Kiebler, in a post game interview, said with considerable relief in his voice, "That was a good one to win."

"We certainly didn't beat them easily. In fact, we had to come from behind to win. But the boys played fine ball, never once losing their poise." he added.

With two minutes left in the game, Airport was on top by three points. The Little Indians promptly tightened its press, flustering the Jets into several costly turnovers.

With the tide of battle still much in doubt, "Tom Aiuto really came through under pressure," Coach Kiebler stated. He calmly sank four straight free throws to ice the game for the Indians.

THE FIRST quarter ended with Tecumseh on the low end of a 17-11 score. It wasn't until half-time that the Indians finally took the lead, 30-25.

The Jets were able to cut the Tecumseh lead to one point in the third quarter. Near the close of the game the Indian lead had evaporated and Airport was on top.

But then, led by Mike Kennedy and Aiuto, the Indian Freshmen turned into ball-hawks, repeatedly broke the Jet press, and finally took the game.

Coach Kiebler also cited Jack Baker as being particularly outstanding on both boards.

Tecumseh finished with four boys in double figures. Auito was high for the Indians with 15, Kennedy hit for 12, while Paul Burns and Baker canned 11 and 10 points respectively.

The Jet's Jim Albright had a hot hand, leading all scorers with 28 points.

The Indian Freshmen now carry a 3-0 record.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Joy Is Tempered

Our thoughts of joy and excitment this week must be tempered by the realization that a lot of Americans are involved in a war.

This is brought home with crushing force by a series of incidents, some of which involve a Tecumseh Seabee, who remains nameless at his request.

Several weeks ago, he and a buddie, a lad named Ken from Tennessee, composed a poem. Their unit was bound for Vietnam as they wrote. At the last moment, the Tecumseh GI's name was removed from the shipping list and he is still in the States.

But Ken went, arrived last Wednesday. On Sunday he was killed. Here is the poem they composed:

CHRISTMAS IN VIETNAM

Christmas will come and Christmas will go
Without so much as a flurry of snow.
There is no tree with ornament balls
And no mistletoe for the walls.

They have no presents for buying
For somewhere near, another soldier is dying.
Instead of having the carolers sing
They only hear the roar of a cannon ring.

No Christmas sleigh full of toys
Only rescue helicopters with dying boys.
But no matter where they might be
You can be sure they are thinking now of Thee.

Bonus Could Cause Backlash

From "rags to riches" seems the general theme surrounding a $50,000 bonus for school employees, approved by the School Board Monday night.

Whether boardmen erred in approving the bonus remains to be seen, but we imagine the district's taxpayers — plus the County Tax Allocation Board — are raising their eyebrows.

Fortunately for the schools, unforseen surpluses have built up in various areas so that now a sizable balance is in the till.

This is good, better than being in the red as the Tecumseh schools were just a few years ago. District taxpayers want the schools in the black, a fact shown by support at the polls.

We believe that citizens want the schools to collect just enough money to operate, maintain and improve our excellent educational programs and facilities.

We don't feel the taxpayers want their monies used for bonuses, an assumption which may well be substantiated in the future when the schools need more millage.

For the good of the schools, a wise gesture would have been a cutback in present millage now being collected. This is being done now for the $1,900,000 bond issue passed about 10 years ago. Instead of collecting eight mills for the bonds, the schools are getting about 6.3 mills.

Why not a cutback in millage instead of bonuses?

We hope that the Tecumseh Education Association realizes the many advantages in store by turning down the Board's bonus. A buck today won't offset tomorrow's losses.

Cities, Townships Join Forces

Each home in Tecumseh has or will have received this week 50 refuse sacks and a wall bracket.

On Monday, Jan. 2, Dependable Garbage is going to make the initial paper-sack pickup.

Few subjects regarding local governmental services have received as much cussing and discussing. City Manager Cal Zorn admits, "Right now everybody seems unhappy about the situation."

We've even heard that a special number in the Jaycee Follies will center on the paper sack situation. That should prove interesting. We seriously doubt the rumor that Mr. Zorn is going to sing it. However, stranger things have happened and he has managed to keep his sense of humor through it all.

Another aspect to the refuse problem offers a brighter ray and this has to do with a group of governmental units going together on the operation of a land-fill dump.

Two meetings have already been held and another is slated for mid-January. Joining forces so far are the cities of Tecumseh and Adrian, plus townships of Macon, Franklin, Cambridge, Woodstock, Tecumseh and Adrian.

Three other townships were invited to participate, but declined. Raisin plans to run its own, Clinton will use village facilities and Ridgeway reports it now has a pickup system.

State law requires that dumps must meet rigid standards — fenced-in, guard on duty, all-weather roads, refuse placed in trenches at least 10 feet deep, then covered with earth daily.

The rule of thumb is that one acre of land per-year, per-10,000-population-served is needed to do the job properly.

This would indicate about 60 acres as a starter, a crane to dig trenches each morning and a large bulldozer to cover them each night.

What happens when a large site like this has been used to bury refuse for many years? Does it become useless?

Mr. Zorn says no, although it probably couldn't be used to build a subdivision for example, the area might well be turned into a golf course or park area.

We think officials are heading in the right direction on the resting place for trash and garbage.

Shovel by Nine

According to a city ordinance — fractured by most of us — sidewalks are supposed to be shoveled by 9 a.m. following a night's snowfall.

Calling the law to our attention was a city mailman, who has been fighting the good fight along with his fellow carriers.

Faced with ice and snow on quite a few days so far this winter, he reported, "We have to slide all the way. On some porches you about kill yourself. I fell down on one."

No question about it, snow and ice are a menace to life and limb of pedestrians, especially the folks who tote the mail.

We hesitate to admonish householders to get out bright and early and make those snow shovels fly — only because this sort of exertion is too rough on adult hearts. Of course, if there are some teen agers about, they might be cajoled into the duty.

The happy medium would seem to us a bag of rock salt, which can quickly cut through the worst slabs of ice Mother Nature is turning out these days.

Ralph Peotter's Art Is Exhibited

An art instructor in the applied arts department at North Dakota State University, Mr. Peotter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Peotter, 6875 Rogers Hwy.

Kay Cann, a writer for the Fargo newspaper said of Mr. Peotter, "His beautiful ceramic pieces have long been familiar in this area, but those now at the Rourke are even more beautiful. Especially impressive are the pieces of glass sculpture, much admired in the Red River Annual last spring. There are six in the showing."

Miss Cann continued to tell of the many glass pieces in a variety of colors in which such compounds as nickel chloride, copper ruby, silver chloride and iron oxide were used.

The University of Wisconsin has one of the few glass blowing departments in the country. Mr. Peotter received a master of science degree there in 1953 and a master's degree in fine arts there this past year.

Born in Tecumseh in 1928, the art professor attended the Toledo Museum of Art School of Design 1947-1950 and received a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan.

He taught at Wisconsin in 1957-58 and again last year while completing his MFA degree there.

He has taught at NDSU since 1958 and his work has been shown in regional, national and international shows in the United States and Europe.

Mr. Peotter and Shirley Diamond of Fargo were married in 1960 and the couple has two children, Rene and Ryn.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

Just received the Dec. 8 issue of The Herald. Though I'm not familiar with some of the latest happenings of the Tecumseh area, it still is enjoyable to hear local news.

I have noticed that of the letters received from men in the service, none have been from medical corpsmen.

Do you or any of the readers know of any friends or relatives who are Air Force or Army medics, or naval corpsmen.

I would appreciate their addresses if possible so we could correspond and compare our rating and duties.

I am now on staff at the Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, N. H. after finishing Corps School at Great Lakes seven weeks ago.

The weather here is okay, but all that beautiful snow that Michigan has had is very much lacking here.

Duty here is not bad, but the draft of corpsmen to Vietnam has been causing a lack of corpsmen to man the hospital.

We stand a three-section duty, with ward duty eight hours a day. Every other weekend we stand a 13½-hour ward duty and every third night we stand duty in the Emergency Room or as ambulance driver or attendant.

I, myself, have had ambulance attendant consistently since I arrived here. It is not bad except that I've been receiving three to five calls a night. I'm dreading that first OB case that I'm called out for.

At this moment I'm on Ward B, the prison ward. I'll be here from 10 p.m. until 7 a.m. for the next 21 straight days, or rather nights.

This hospital was built in 1913, but was well constructed and has some very modern equipment.

We have five wards (surgical, medical, security—Ward B, orthopedics, and sick officers' quarters), two OR's, one sigmoid room and the usual labs, X-ray, etc., all in the main building.

In one of the two adjoining buildings is the maternity and surgical section for dependent women. The other building is for pediatrics.

The base itself is really on SeaVey Island, a part of Kittery, Maine. The Treaty of Portsmouth, ending the conflict between Japan and Russia was signed here.

Being a sub base, many ships that are frequently in the news elsewhere are very common here. At this time, the Sea Wolf and two or three other subs are here along with one or two destroyers.

I would appreciate any letters from those I once knw while I was at THS.

Sincerely yours,
Glenn Slick

MERRY MERRY CHRISTMAS

"At Christmas time it seems as if we see with clearer vision, as if we look at the world with more love, as if we look at other persons with more understanding, as if we believe in and expect miracles, as if we feel Christ nearer, closer, more immediate than at other times."

So says Martha Smock in the current issue of Daily Word.

And isn't it true though? Of course, there is utter frustration at the over-commercializing of the holidays, there is near exhaustion from trying to do everything and being every place at once and there is absolute confusion with all the noise and haranguing.

But nevertheless, there are still the quiet moments when the true magic of the wondrous Christmas season comes alive.

THESE ARE the times to re-examine and to re-affirm our faith. So, if you please, read over my shoulder while I explore some personal thoughts and beliefs.

One of our favorite thoughts is taken from Peter Marshall, that famous Scot, who spoke so eloquently from a Presbyterian pulpit. He believed that God never closes one door without opening another.

So then, it is our job to find that other open door. The search can be a long, hard one — certainly it is a full-time task.

There is no time for bitterness or self-pity. Oh, of course, there are dark moods and moments of doubt. But when faith falters, a look outside quickly sets us back on the right track.

HOW CAN anyone disbelieve God's existence as a Supreme Being, and all-powerful Father, when a look at nature shows — the beauty of a bird, the perfection of a single feather; the always-fascinating parade of clouds across the sky; the miracle of growing things, trees, grass and flowers. The fury of a strong wind; the flash and crash of a thunderstorm; the soft quietness of a gentle snowfall.

The bright warmth of sunshine, the muted stillness of a heavy fog. The glory of a sunrise and the splendor of a sunset.

These are a few of the things that make us believe!

MOST OF MY time is spent in bed — a hospital bed whose head elevates so that some part of each day I can spend sitting up.

When in an upright position I look out through lovely big picture windows at well-landscaped yards, always busy bird-feeders and a picturesque stretch of twisting and turning Evans Creek.

When lying flat and looking up, the world outside still attracts my attention. Birds, tree tops and the vast expanse of the heaven, whether it be blue or gray, is always inspiring.

Truly, no matter where we look, there is a constant reminder of Him whose Son's birthday we are celebrating this joyous season.

BEING A quadraplegia — and isn't that a mouthful of a word to just mean paralysis from the neck down? — but anyway, being in that condition I am fortunate that a pair of full-length braces allows me to sit comfortably in a wheelchair or a car.

When warm weather permits, I love to get outside. In the wheelchair we prowl the neighborhood enjoying the lovely yards and gardens.

Rides in the car, whether short drives through our pretty countryside or the long three-week vacations which we are privileged to take, are always exciting.

The most marvelous family a person could ever wish for, wonderful friends and a friendly town have made my life full and rich.

SO IT IS that there is time for one last thing and, just as in past years, may I wish you all the Merriest of Christmases and the Happiest of New Years — may you find lots of presents beneath your Christmas tree and a full measure of peace and joy in your heart!

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

While most everyone was living it up Christmas Day, duty called for Dr. Carlos Knisely.

Out on the George Allen farm near Tipton a two-year-old Holstein heifer was trying to deliver her first born.

The Allens did their best to help, but with no luck, so they reluctantly phoned the Tecumseh veterinarian.

Dr. Knisely arrived at 10 a.m. and surveyed the situation, decided a Caesarian section was the only possible answer, hurried back to Tecumseh to gather his surgical instruments and an assistant — his wife.

In the meantime, the Allens placed a heater in the barn by the heifer's stall and fashioned a make-shift table, with bales of hay, for the instruments.

For two hours the Kniselys labored with the heifer, who was in critical condition. They couldn't save the calf, but the mother survived the ordeal and by Tuesday morning was "doing fine."

"Dr. Knisely felt pretty good (about saving the heifer) and I did, too," said Mr. Allen, who owns a dairy herd of nearly 100 cows and calves.

IN TOWN for the Yule holiday was Julie Parrish, Tecumseh's official delegate to Hollywood.

Her latest work has been in an Arthur Miller Trilogy, in which she had two parts in two of the three shows, "The Crucible" and "After the Fall," at the Beverly Hills Actors Theatre.

"After the Fall" got top reviews and is being brought back for the month of January. Julie plays Maggie, the feminine lead and the role Mr. Miller wrote for his late wife, Marilyn Monroe.

Julie has completed two television jobs, one in "Family Affair" and another in "Death Valley Days," but she doesn't know when they're to be released.

READY FOR UNVEILING — The one-way signs and new road signals are ready to be put into operation, discovers Jeff Schwartz, 17, of 500 Seminole. The signs will be unveiled next week, turning Evans and Ottawa into one-way streets.

Patrolman's Car Has Tough Week

It's been a tough week for the police car driven by Tecumseh patrolman, Jerry Anderson.

A motorist, Kenneth E. Dowling, 59, of Clinton, backed into the patrol car after Anderson stopped to assist a stalled motorist at the corner of Chicago Blvd. and N. Evans. Dowling was ticketed for an expired driver's license.

The following day, he parked the patrol car on E. Chicago Blvd. in front of Larry's Grill. A truck driven by Harold A. Slack, 68, of Buckley, pulled into the parking space in front of the patrol car, striking the left front fender. Buckley received a citation.

Clinton State Police investigated both mishaps.

Other accidents include:

Janet Osworth, 29, of 500 Center Dr., backed out of her driveway and struck a parked car owned by George Van Camp, 38, of 501 Center Dr., Dec. 23.

William F. Schaeffer, 54, of Toledo was cited for running a stop sign on N. Pearl when he pulled out in front of and struck Namon Click, Jr., 18, of 305 W. Pottawatamie, who was going east on W. Logan Dec. 24.

Cars driven by Grace Marsh, 601 Herrick Park Dr., and Ferma C. Fairbanks, 6581 Rogers Hwy., slid into each other in the alley behind Helms Furniture Dec. 27.

Traffic Should Roll Smoother

Promptly at 2 p.m. Tuesday, a new downtown one-way street pattern will go into effect.

Evans will run southbound, from St. Peter's Church to Kilbuck St.

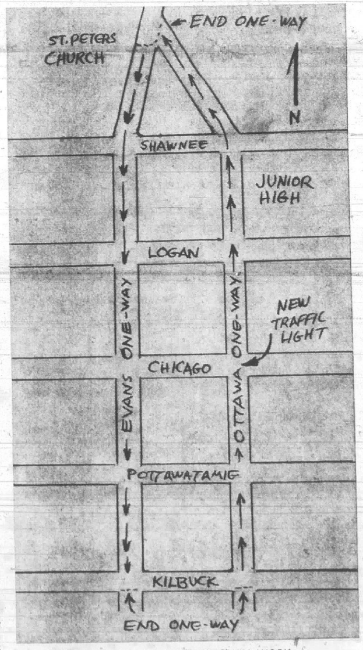
Ottawa is going north, between the same cross streets.

A new traffic light at Chicago and Ottawa will also go into effect at the same time.

Turns are being permitted off Chicago onto Evans and Ottawa.

Stop signs on Ottawa and Logan and Shawnee have been removed, permitting a steady flow north from Chicago to Evans.

The one-way plan was initiated following a traffic study made here in 1963 by the Automobile Club of America.



HOW ONE-WAY PATTERN WILL WORK

"We will vote Republican." — William Wright, Ernie Oliver, Sally Pope, LBJ.

"My favorite team will be the Buckeyes." — Jack Hanna.

"We will beat Adrian."— Tom Fagan, football coach.

"I will not shoot any duck decoys." — D. J. Martin.

"I will switch my allegiance to U-M." — Chuck Butler.

"We'll pay off only 10 parking meter bonds." — Pat Meadows, Bank prexy, head of merchants' drive to eliminate off-street parking meters.

"We will beat Adrian." — Vic Lawson, basketball coach.

and "I will positively and undeterringly enforce the 2 p.m. on Tuesday ad deadline." — Jim Lincoln.

Pit Opens for Skating

The warming house at the Pit will open Thursday, if weather stays cold.

Two Youths Hospitalized

CLINTON — Douglas Feldkamp, 6, and his cousin, Dale Finkbeiner, 16, spent Christmas weekend in Herrick Memorial Hospital for treatment of gunshot wounds received at noon Saturday.

The boys were shot in the Feldkamp home at 501 Railroad St., when a 16-gauge shotgun accidentally discharged as Douglas' brother, Robert, 16, was ejecting shells from his gun after returning from hunting.

Several pellets lodged in Dale's lower left leg. The second and third toes on Douglas' foot were shot off.

Douglas and Robert are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Junior J. Feldkamp and Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Finkbeiner of 12695 Case Rd., Saline.

Clinton State Police investigated and determined the shooting was accidental, closing the case.

Collingsworth Will Lecture on Vietnam

The public library will sponsor a free lecture on Vietnam, Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room.

Arthur J. Collingsworth, a resident of Tecumseh and a senior in political science at the University of Michigan, will be the speaker.

He plans to discuss Vietnamese history, geography, culture and recent political events.

He will also show slides of Vietnam and neighboring countries. The lecture will be followed by a question and answer period.

Mr. Collingsworth traveled to South Vietnam twice during the past two years in various capacities.

Since his first trip to Vietnam, he has spoken at more than 20 colleges and universities throughout the country, the German Military Academy, the International Symposium for Freedom in Vietnam in Washington and written a number of articles based on his observations.

Decorations Earn Prizes

Honors were given to the Richard P. Clute family when they won the first prize $25 savings bond in the City Home Decorating and Lighting Contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Carter, 6900 Occidentad Hwy., and the Lawrence Packards of 500 Cairns, were second and third place winners.

A wreath theme was used as the outside decor of the 104 Pine St. home by the Clutes with their children Rick, Nancy and Lisa assisting in the decorating.

Two gold wreaths embellish the double doors at the front entrance, balanced by two more evergreen wreaths on the garage doors and smaller ones with tiny lights in the bedroom windows.

Candles flank the wrought iron railing and an abundance of evergreen roping entwined with lights is also used.

A cross of blue lights highlights the home between the bedroom windows.

Mrs. Clute said that decorating is a hobby of her husband and the rest enjoy it too. More is done inside the residence than out with a nativity scene in the family room taking precedence over the other lovely arrangements, many of a religious nature.

The family does not place the Christ child in the creche until Christmas Eve when they celebrate with a birthday cake.

Members of the Senior Citizens judged the homes entered in the contest December 20.

BEHIND PAGE ONE

If The Herald employees look a little jollier, a little more rofund than usual these days, it's due to the kind hearted Baptist ladies and Mrs. David Criss, Mrs. Fay Luce, Mrs. Hamilton Moore, Neil DePuy and dear Don Moffatt who have each contributed luscious homemade cookies, candies and boxes of chocolates. In the case of the latter, we suspect he is looking for more members for the slimnastic class at the Community Center. Sly one, isn't he?

If you think you might like to take part in the January Jaycee Follies, get yourself out to the Tecumseh Grange Tuesday night, Jan. 3, at 8 p.m.

Jaycees are sponsoring a "get-acquainted" party to introduce their director and to outline the show to prospective participants. Rehearsals start the next day. If you're interested, but can't make the party, give Talent Chairman Mrs. Roger Butler a call at 423-4201 and find out more about it.

The Follies will be held Jan. 19, 20 and 21 at the Tecumseh Products Union Hall. Tickets go on sale Jan. 3. at Flanders, Helms, Woolworth's, Office Supply or call 423-2462 or 423-3931.

Caroling Jaycees thrilled a lot of people Friday night as they buzzed around the city, bringing joy and happiness to many homes. Especially thrilled was Mrs. Alton Snyder, who in addition to being charmed by the vocalizing, received a slender red rose.

It turns out the Easter Bunny letter — chiding Santa for all the publicity he gets — was composed by Chris Gentry, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gentry. Chris confessed on Christmas Eve. And all the time we really thought that note actually came from the Fast Bunny.

Tecumseh's poet laureate, Neil DePuy, dispensed bits of verse with luscious boxes of chocolates around the city before Christmas. Most of the rhymes started out with a slur, but ended rather pleasantly, and the candies were sweet to the last crumb, like Neil.

Josephine Roe must have thought that her husband had purchased his supply of Red Man tobacco for the rest of his life. Actually Earldean disguised her Christmas gift, a bowling ball bag, in the huge carton.

Fred A. Nash of 213 S. Pearl St., reported to Clinton State Police that he hit a deer at 8:30 p.m. on M-50 west of Pentecost Hwy. But a search of the area failed to turn up the deer so the officers couldn't give it to him.

A mama deer and two fawn may have known where they were going when they sprinted across the front lawn of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald O'Neill at Wampler's Lake recently, but, The Herald didn't. It stated the deer were at the Donald O'Neill residence.

Santa was the mailman — and a day late — but oh so welcome, as far as Linda Easton is concerned. Her grade card from Western Michigan University arrived Tuesday morning, replete with many goodies, more than Linda could have imagined. Her fondest hope had been for a 2.75 average (A is 4, B 3 and C 2) but zap, bam, wow, it came out 3.6.

The news got to Linda as she was working Monday morning, via a phone call from her mother, Mrs. Harold Easton. For awhile, there was difficulty restraining Linda from leaping through the Eggleston Jewelry's plate glass window in sheer exuberance.

After reading the rumor that he might sing "Ode to Paper Garbage Sacks" in the Jaycee Follies, City Manager Cal Zorn pondered if maybe he shouldn't change his number to "Tecumseh Herald, I Love Thee."

If merchants seem nervous and haggard these days, don't blame it on Yule shopping jitters. It's inventory time and everyone is a-countin'.

Tired of figgy puddings and all the other holiday treats? The National Jaycee Auxiliary has a meat cookbook recently published that they offer as a money-making project for local groups. Recipes are all tested before publication and it happens that Mrs. Walter Elwartowski was one of the fortunate ones to have her recipe for chicken sandwiches selected to be printed. President of the local Auxiliary, Mrs. Elwartowski said Tuesday that her members were not going to sell the cookbook but they will order some if enough people call her stating that they would like one. Those sandwiches with sweet pickle, celery and shredded cheese sound licking good.

HERALD PHOTO BY JUDY FIELDER

MY DOLLY — Melissa Becker recited the poem about her baby at the recent Christmas party at Herrick Nursing Home. Entertaining along with Melissa were about 20 children, who sang and danced and sparkled the evening for the elderly. Santa Claus brought a gift for everyone. The Hospital Auxiliary and Circle 3 of the First Presbyterian Church presented the home with a new radio. Tipton Extension Club and the Tip ton Congregational Church Woman's Fellowship assisted in providing candy baskets and gifts.

Auto Hit in Rear, as Driver Slows To Look for Fox

Jerry J. Dicks, 25, of 11733 Monroe Rd., Britton, was given a sundmons for driving too fast when his car struck the rear of of a car driven by Richard D. Vallie, 36, of 523 W. Chicago Blvd., Britten.

The mishap occurred at noon Saturday on Britton Hwy., near Knilften Rd., as Vallie slowed to look for foxes in a field and the Dicks car was unable to stop.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

May laughter light your way,
May your dreams come true,
And may health and happiness shine
On you and your loved ones in the New Year.

Christmas Day at the John Saling residence was highlighted by a phone call with son, Charles, in Lenggries, Germany. An army radio school student, Charles, was as delighted as his parents to have their voices bridge the mighty ocean and have a few moments together at this blessed time.

Pvt. Saling made mention of the fact that he had not realized how much the street decorations and the Christmas music had meant to him in past years until he missed it this year.

Those city employees who spend a good deal of time in the cold putting up the pretty baubles and seldom receiving a "thank you" for it will be a little recompensed for their efforts when they read of Saling's feeling.

Talk about Cloud Nine! "Grandma" Eleanor Buehrer was there when husband Elmer, presented her with two tickets to Beeville, Texas, for them to be with her son, Dean Eddy and family over Christmas.

Cameras did a lot of clicking. Christmas turkey and all the trimmings were served at the Officers Club for personnel and their guests, leaving ample time for grandparents to have a joyous Christmas with their kiddies.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holdridge entertained twice last week for their daughter, Wendy, on her third birthday anniversary. Grandparents Norma and Lawrence Holdridge were there Thursday evening and Friday evening the Earl Benningtons from Brooklyn, the James Benningtons from Holloway and the Don Reimans of Jackson celebrated Wendy's birthday as well as Christmas.

Industrial Boom Is Year's Highlight

By MAXINE CALHOUN

CLINTON — 1966 brought many changes to the village, the greatest of which is the industrial growth.

Peerless Gear, Clinton Division of Tecumseh Products, held an open house during Michigan Week in May showing their new plant to many visitors. Soon afterwards, a new 10,000 sq. ft. addition was begun to house heat-treat furnaces.

Budd Company, already firmly situated in Clinton in the former Clinton Engines facilities, announced the purchase of a 248-acre tract from Mr. and Mrs. John Walz at the south village limits for possible future expansion. Then, in September, the company began building what they first announced as a $6.5 million disc brake plant. Since then, company estimates of the plant value have been raised to around $13 million, leaving villagers a bit breathless with the portent for the future.

Richards Engineering Company moved away to Inkster and the vacated space in the old Woolen Mill building was quickly absorbed by the expanding Dearborn Steel Tubing Company.

BUSINESS

Clinton Business places took on a new look during the year.

A $20,000 renovation in the Clinton Theatre was completed by the new owner, John Truesdale, last January.

The Teen-Canteen was closed by John Truesdale, who then remodeled the two buildings and rented them to Kukini Flowers and Shur Bon's Beauty Salon.

Rex Campbell closed the Clinton Bakery, leaving a vacancy on Michigan Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller closed the dime store.

The Blue Dot teen center was opened in the dime store building by Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hunt and it is filled with youngsters every evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Tuckey sold the M & M Market to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz, who are planning a few changes.

Ken and Barb's Coffee Shop was opened in the former Purity Restaurant building by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Waters.

Bohannon's Cleaners vacated the building beside the bank, leaving five buildings empty on Clinton's main street as the year ends.

SCHOOL

The Redskins were so close to victory that they could taste it, when they were edged in the final seconds of a Class C tournament clincher at Jackson Parkside High School in March. The Leslie Blackhawks' jump shot as the final buzzer sounded was the the only time the Blackhawks led in the basketball contest as they triumphed, 66-65.

Clinton's Band Follies "left them laughing" when the lighting effects failed for a time during the black-light hula-hoop number, but the audience really loved the whole show, in April.

LuAnn Rhoades and Diane Lauer were named co-valedictorians of the senior class, a first for the school.

A gift of $400 covered the entire cost of four new majorette costumes for the Clinton Marching band.

A colorful production of "The Mikado" by the high school choir was directed by Mrs. Donald Geiger.

The high school band marched in the Tulip Festival parade at Holland for the first time.

Phillip Bareis resigned and Mike Snyder became the Redskins' new football coach.

The three first grade classes of the Elementary School began using the rooms in the new Methodist Church Educational unit to alleviate the shortage of school rooms.

The need for more school buildings was recognized by the board of education and a Citizens' Committee was formed to study the matter.

In December, the board named the Jahr-Anderson architectural firm to begin the study of school needs with an aim to build additional facilities.

CHURCHES

Local churches began looking to the future and many improvements were made.

The United Church of Christ planned an extensive remodeling program and, in the spring, members pledged more than $20,000 in a three-year financing program. During the summer, the exterior of the church and the parsonage were covered with new siding and the trim was painted.

The Clinton Baptist Church completed building a new 60x100-foot sanctuary and church school rooms on a hillside site on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., which was dedicated in December.

The Methodist Church completed a $100,000 two-story education building between the church and parsonage.

The Rev. Donald Heacock resigned as pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church to accept a position as priest-in-charge of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in the Canal Zone.

The Rev. Charles Sturm became the new priest of St. John's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Fr. Edward Kalinowski was transferred and the Rev. Fr. Joseph Noelke became the priest of St. Dominic's Church.

PEOPLE

Flying enthusiasts and long-time residents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Stadler died when their two-seater single-engine plane crashed and burned near Coburn, Ky.

Two of the pioneer residents, Mrs. Hazel Barnard and Mrs. Adelbert Campbell, became ill and moved from their spacious homes to nursing homes in nearby communities.

VILLAGE GOVERNMENT

In March, the Council adopted electrical, plumbing and building codes.

In the spring, the village acquired the former railroad right-of-way beside W. Michigan Ave. and enlarged the Monument Park on the North and widened Division St. on the South.

In June, the Council began considering the plans presented by the River Raisin Clinton Corp., formed by the Donald Thomas family for a proposed subdivision at the Northeast village limits.

The need for additional housing was becoming critical as increased industrial activity brought many newcomers to the area.

The Council announced plans in November to issue revenue bonds for $12.3 million for the construction of the new Budd plant, which will double the village valuation in one year. The village limits were extended to include the new plant site.

Clinton Township adopted a zoning ordinance.

HEROES

Two teen-agers, Dennis Kime and Terry Schuler, became village heroes when they pulled Kenneth Geiger to shore in Evans Lake, when he sank out of sight in deep water. A bystander, Mrs. Virginia Lewis of Warren, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, saving Mr. Geiger's life.

Scarlet Blazers Worn by Choir at Yule Concert

CLINTON — There were some surprises for those attending the Christmas Concert Wednesday evening.

The high school choir of more than 60 members made their first public appearance in new scarlet wool blazers, purchased through the proceeds of their operettas.

Directed by Mrs. Donald Geiger and accompanied by Barbara Bowman, the choir sang a collection of familiar Christmas songs.

The Cadet band, which is composed of many first-year band students, directed by Karl Wirt, played "Air for Band" and "Christmas Carol Suite."

The seventh and eighth grade choir sang "Carol of the Bells" and "Winter Wonderland."

Christmas songs with a new Latin American beat were sung by the high school choir, "Mary's Little Boy" and "The Carol of the Star."

Soloist Donald Steffens sang the popular calypso, "Mary's Little Boy Chile."

As the band played more Christmas music, Director Karl Wirt called to the podium the former band director, now superintendent, Richard Wegner and invited him to direct the rousing "Sleigh Ride."

An added innovation at the concert was the Christmas Story, read from the Bible by Michael Braden.

Minota Fox sang "He Shall Feed His Flock" from the Messiah by Handel.

Former members of the choir were invited to come from the audience to join in the Hallelujah Chorus from the Messiah, to climax the program.

Gets Summons for Fast Driving

CLINTON — Robert E. Waltz, 29, of Saline, received a summons for driving too fast Saturday afternoon.

The Waltz car struck the rear of a car being parked on Locust St. by Robert L. Osgood, 18, of 111 Gibson St.

Waltz told Clinton State Police he was unable to stop because of snow on the road.

Church Families Have Christmas by Candlelight

CLINTON — Candlelighted tables were filled by more than 100 persons attending the family night Christmas dinner at the United Church of Christ Thursday night.

After dinner, the contemporary play, "A Search for Christmas" was presented by the members of the Senior Youth Fellowship.

The Rev. Paul McKenna led the group singing Christmas carols, accompanied by Ivan McKenna at the piano.

'Spirit of God'

MACON — "Spirit of God" was presented by the Junior and Senior Choirs and members of the Macon Church School with Hallie Mehler as the choir director, Mrs. Carl Thomas, organist, Gerald Fugate, narrator and Mrs. Charles Bigelow, reader.

The children around the Christmas tree were the nursery and kindergarten children and the first and second graders were the angels and shepherds.

Gilda Wedemeyer of Saline portrayed Mary and Richard Ruhl was Joseph.

DOLLAR and SENSE FARMING.

DAIRY EXPANSION PLANS should be based on ability to pay for it. One rule of thumb is to invest no more than one year's gross income per cow in added facilities. Approximate initial costs for housing, milking and feeding facilities are $400 per cow in cold free stall housing, outside feeding; $450 in cold (uninsulated), free stall housing; and $500 in warm, closed free stall housing. Costs do not include silos and young stock facilities.

NARROW ROW CORN, if you're going to switch, makes it especially important to select the correct hybrid, along with tillage, fertilizer and population. Agronomists say a 10% to 30% yield jump is possible in selecting the right hybrid alone, regardless of row width. Growers favor hybrids that can take the stress of high plant population and the earlier, shorter hybrids.

WORMING BEEF COWS 30 to 60 days before calving will pay off. A veterinarian can check fecal samples for worms or eggs. Where present worm all cows and calves with thiabendazole. All animals can be treated safely with thiabendazole whether they are pregnant or sick. Thiabendazole can be used as a drench, bolus or in pellet form.

CHECK STORED CORN periodically. With harvest problems this fall farmers had a tendency to push dryers beyond desirable limits. Even at safe moisture levels corn with trash and broken kernel may give rise to hot spots, especially if corn was not well distributed.

The collection which includes a 1907 Waterman, was secured from Dr. John W. Hunt of Sanford, Me.

The boat show expects to have dozens of other antique motors on display because of a contest it is conducting.

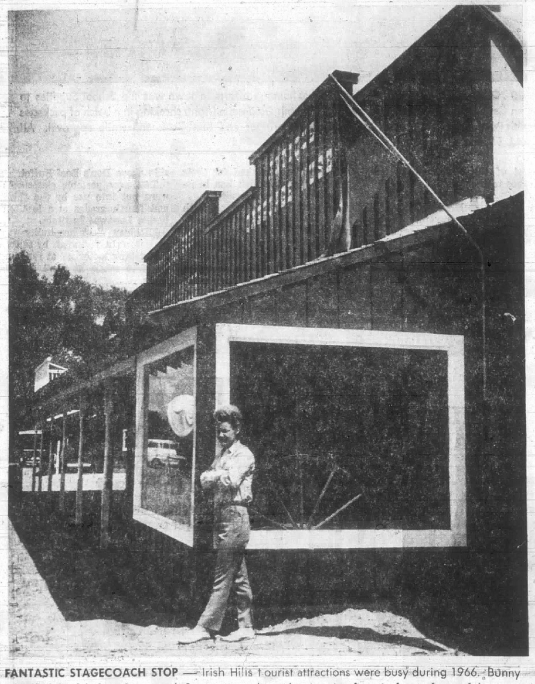
Sought are the oldest operating outboard motors in Michigan. Owners who enter the contest stand to win $1,150 in prize money. Deadline for entry is Jan. 16. Winners will be announced Jan. 26.

Dr. Hunt's collection is not part of the contest, but Dr. Hunt, an oral surgeon and antique outboard motor buff, will be one of three judges of the contest.

A member of the Antique Outboard Motor Club of America, he operates an outboard motor museum in South Wolfebor, N. H.

Contest entries will be shown at the boat show, as well as hundreds of sparkling new outboard motors. About 600 all-new 1967 boats of all kinds and sizes will be shown.

Also on display will be inboard motors, outdrives, water sports gear, and camping and travel trailers and equipment.



FANTASTIC STAGECOACH STOP — Irish Hills tourist attractions were busy during 1966. Bunny Ward of the fabulous Stagecoach Stop contemplates the situation from in front of one of the many buildings housing antique autos, carriage, an 1890 general store and an old-time ice cream parlor. Fred and Dorothy Bahlau, owners, make extensive additions to the "Stop" each year.

Murrays Go North for Skiing

SAULT STE. MARIE — The Slogan "Ski the Sault" really has meaning for the Robert J. Murray family of Tecumseh.

They registered their four sons in the Lake Superior State College-Weber's Christmas vacation ski school via special delivery letter received by Ski School Director Robert Curtis.

According to Mr. Curtis, the Murrays read about the school in an Associated Press story in a down-state newspaper and in planning a ski trip north, decided to enroll their sons in the school.

Mrs. Murray said the four boys, Robert, Mark, Paul and Peter are all advanced beginners on a self-taught basis.

In her letter, Mrs. Murray inquired of Prof. Curtis about eating and lodging facilities at the Sault, and he responded informing her that many desirable accommodations are available, as well as other nearby ski resorts where the family plan to ski during the afternoons.

As far as it is known, the Murrays would be eligible for any prize given a student traveling the furthest distance to attend the annual Ski School.

Damaging Mailboxes No Joke

Mailboxes are protected by Federal law.

Pranksters who damage them may be in for a heavy fine or imprisonment, Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf has warned.

The Postmaster noted that some 25,000 mail receptacles were damaged or destroyed in the past year and that 2,641 persons were arrested up to June 30 for damaging or destroying them.

"Pranksters — and especially children who do not know any better — should be made to realize the seriousness of their actions," the Postmaster said.

"A $1,000 fine or a team in jail is enough to take the humor out of any prank."

Often the mailbox damage is the work of youths, who do it for "kicks." Courts have shown little sympathy for this youthful means of expression.

In Michigan, a justice sentenced two 18-year-olds to 10 days in jail, including two on a diet of baby food.

The diet specifications, explained the judge, was because the youths "acted like babies." They were also fined $25 each plus $15 costs.

In New York state, five youths were fined $25 each plus restitution or restoration, plus no driving for an indefinite period, plus an 8 p.m. curfew, plus a written analysis by each of a magazine article entitled "A Judge Gets Tough on Hoodlums."

Two Iowa youths who damaged 39 mailboxes were required to personally apologize to each boxholder in addition to making repairs or providing new boxes.

In Missouri, three 17-year-olds lost their driving privileges, were given a 9 p.m. curfew, and had to report twice weekly to juvenile authorities.

Gals in White Are Fast on Draw with Decorations

Members of Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary usually decorate the hospital lobby for the holiday season and they had a collection of materials for that purpose.

This year, however, the staff nurses beat them to it.

When Mrs. Charles Gross dropped in to deck the halls, she found everything finished.

Meanwhile, back at the Nursing Home, Mrs. Irene Merx and many of the patients had dug out trees and decorations and completed their display.

SPEAKING of holiday decor, a couple of unsung heroines deserve recognition.

Mrs. Jens Touborg furnished centerpieces of candles and greens for use at the Nursing Home during the season.

Mrs. Harold Pickard, who provides seasonal arrangements in the hospital lobby four times a year, has produced a striking Christmas display there again this year.

1966 IN REVIEW — PART I

It doesn't seem possible that in just a few days we will be tearing the last sheet from the 1966 calendar, does it? Was it really 12 months ago that we wrote our last "in review" column — doesn't seem possible.

Time certainly does fly, and since it does, perhaps we should get to matters at hand. What kind of a year was 1966?

Well, we said goodbye to 1965 with hard rains. Do you remember the three inches of rain which fell a year ago Christmas Eve Day?

The creek was in high flood on the 25th and several days after that we saw canoers paddling by.

New Year's Day, however, dawned clear and bright, the year was off to a real start we hoped.

ALTHOUGH THERE was some rain and some warm weather during the first full week of the month, by the 7th it was snowing and zero readings were recorded on the 8th.

Cold, strong winds, snow flurries and scattered sunshine sums up the January weather.

The wintering flock of grackles were flying around on the 11th, seven cardinals appeared on the 12th, five titmice on the 13th, a male and female hairy woodpecker on the same date.

Sunday, the 16th, we were royally entertained by seven squirrels. The squirrel action was good for almost two and one-half weeks.

Chick-a-dees showed up on the 21st and song sparrows on the 22nd. All month we hosted a huge flock of mourning doves, practically no bluejays and most exciting of all, a pair of tiny red-breasted nuthatches.

FEBRUARY FOUND the tiny red breast still faithful. We celebrated Ground Hog day by seeing, not the weather predicting animal, but the round and cute songsparrow.

The 3rd found us seeing red — cardinals were all over the place, five males and four females. Wow! One lone bluejay appeared on the 7th and an eager kingfisher played the early bird by showing up on the 11th.

His timing was good because the ice went out of the creek on the 10th and the temperature soared to a warm (?) 54 degrees.

Winter came back the next week, however, and we finished the month out with chick-a-dees, cardinals, hairy woodpeckers, downy woodpeckers and the news that Clara had evening grosbeaks.

MARCH CAME in like a lamb, but went out like a lion. In between times, we bounced back and forth between spring-type and winter-like weather — wind, rain, wind, sunshine, wind, snow, wind, sleet — a typical March.

Bluejays finally began appearing and the squirrel-watching contined good. On the third a bluejay and the kingfisher fought over the ownership of a little creek-side tree.

Robins started showing up by the 7th and bluebirds were reported to have returned on the 1st. We noticed Papa Cardinal feeding Mama on the 10th and Sunday, the 13th, was so warm that the crocuses exploded into bloom.

A rabbit hopped through the yard on the 14th and on the 29th the woodchuck waddled along the creek bank. Four inches of snow on the 26th, crocuses still out and bravely peeking through the white stuff.

Juncos busy on the 29th and the 31st brought a report that the goldfinches were starting to exchange their winter drabness for brighter springtime suits of yellow.

APRIL STARTED out as a cold, dreary, snowy flurrish month. On the 2nd, however, a woodchuck was very much in evidence and on the 4th a big beautiful kingfisher was the star performer.

Cassius Clay, a black squirrel, made a brief appearance on the 11th and the wrens were home by the 17th. Flickers and bluejays were pairing off by the 16th and on the same day, a pair of wild mallards floated down the creek.

Tulips in bud on the 19th. Forsythia, daffodils and hyacinth out the 20th. Blood root and adder tongue came the 24th. Gertie's magnolia tree, the 26th. A white crown sparrow showed up at Dorothy's and we had tow-hees and cowbirds on the 29th.

MAY — vacation month! Always one of our best bird months, but our thoughts, and in fact, we, ourselves, were in Colorado and New Mexico. Great trip!

Jackson CC Enrollment Hits 2,450

Jackson Community College's enrollment will take its normal second semester dip, but still will be well above the second semester tally for 1965-66, according to estimates by the registrar's office.

Although total enrollment is expected to drop from fall's 2,569 students, the coming semester's part-time student registration will continue to climb, Gunder A. Myran, assistant registrar, reports.

Predictions for the second semester indicate a total college enrollment of 2,450 persons. This would be 169 persons fewer than the first semester's, but 255 more than for the second semester of the 1965-66 year.

3 Re-elected to ASCS Group

The three regular members of the Lenawee County ASCS Committee were re-elected Dec. 15.

Again selected as chairman was Roland Russell of Adrian.

Vice-chairman Leland D. Bush of Tecumseh was also re-elected.

Floyd Barrett of Britton was re-elected as third member of the committee for a three-year term of office.

Elected for a one-year term of office as alternate to the county committee were Wayne Lipp of Morenci and Robert Ziss of Blissfield.

CITY ENGINEER — Tecumseh is growing fast. To assure it grows with quality, as well, was the responsibility of Lynn Noble. His regular inspections enforced high standards of workmanship and material in all new and planned construction, paving, water lines, sewers, curbs and gutters.

CITY ASSESSOR — Larry Goddard joined Tecumseh government last year. He is engaged in the current reappraisal and reassessment program which has resulted in Tecumseh attaining the 50% of value assessments required by the State of Michigan. In addition to continuing his studies on the refinement of present values he undertakes certain special assignments and, at times, works as aide to the City Engineer.

City Assessor Larry Goddard

How Tecumseh City Government Operates

LEGISLATIVE

As Tecumseh's governing body, Council attends to all required municipal legislation

A Mayor and six Councilmen-at-large, elected to one- or two-year terms, comprise its membership.

Council meets in chambers at City Hall on the first and third Mondays of every month.

Meetings are open to the public.

ADMINISTRATIVE

The City Manager keeps the community informed on municipal affairs.

He is Council-appointed and serves an indefinite term. Tenure is based on his performance.

He supervises all city departments in accordance with the city charter and ordinances, reporting regularly to the Council.

In his role of administrator he must interpret and carry out Council policies on a non-partisan basis.

SERVICES

Paying taxes is the most convenient — and cheapest — way to provide for the many services rendered by departments of city government.

Tax revenue provides funds for maintenance of parks and streets, protection of health and welfare and recreational facilities for all residents.

City police, fire, water, sewage and highway departments are available at any hour to deal with emergencies affecting the security of the community.

Highway Department

Construction and maintenance programs of the city's Highway Department are under supervision of Wes Haeussler.

Crews are on call 24 hours a day.

Their duties include snow removal, street cleaning and repair, sign erection, tree trimming and removal, trash pickup, dump maintenance, sewer cleaning and repair, weed mowing and the maintenance of city equipment.

Large quantities of specialized equipment are required in much new construction, making it necessary to hire outside contractors for many jobs.

Local participation in these projects is limited to earth removal, grading, engineering and other accessory assignments.

The entire construction, however, is included in the Highway Department budget.

Over 4,926 tons of bituminous concrete (permanent black top) were used in new construction this year.

Almost 500 tons were used in street repairs and maintenance.

An additional 177 tons were used on the N. Pearl St. parking lot.

Sewage Department

An expansion program costing $560,000, currently underway, will double the capacity of Tecumseh's wastewater treatment plant.

Operation of the new plant will be the activated sludge type, affording more efficient removal of wastes.

Existing sewage disposal facilities were designed to handle a capacity of 700,000 gallons per day.

Since February, 1965, when the new Fisher Body plant began operation, this limit has been exceeded — at times by close to 100,000 gallons per day.

A $560,000 expansion bond issue was approved in April, 1965, and contracts for construction of the new plant were assigned later that year.

An average 710,000 gallons of waste per day were treated here this year, about 7% more than in 1965.

Present facilities achieve about 75% removal of solids and other harmful elements. The new plant should attain 90% removal, with a capacity of 1,400,000 gallons per day, enough to serve a city of 14 000.

City's Major Achievements

The $110,000 Evans Creek interceptor sanitary sewer was completed in the fall of 1965, the biggest project — without aid of bonding or gifts — ever attempted in the city's history.

It was financed from the general fund over a period of three years.

The sewer is essential to the present and future development of the city's northwest section. In addition, it eliminated the need for the lift station serving the southwest side.

Land west of Occidental Hwy., near Willow St., was acquired in December, 1965. It will be used to alleviate drainage problems in that area.

A new lift station to serve the city's northwest section was installed near Paul's Trailer Court on N. Union St. in January. It will provide sanitary sewage service and allow for expansion in this area.

Other sanitary sewers have been installed to serve homes on Iroquois and S. Evans St. from Russell Rd. north to Tuttle Mfg. Co.

Continuing the curb and gutter program started in 1956, the city has added approximately 11,500 feet on these streets:

- Adrian, from Russell Rd. to Murray Dr.
- West side of Occidental, in front of Westhaven Subdivision.
- Westhaven Blvd., Southwick Dr. and Bedford Ave. in Westhaven Subdivision.
- W. Patterson St., from Evans to Union.
- N. Van Buren St., from Chicago to Logan.
- N. Evans St., from Shawnee to the bridge at Bidwell.
- Island Dr., fom Outer Dr. to Herrick Park Dr.
- Wyandotte St., next to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

FIGURE 1---Curb & gutter 10-year program with streets in green done between 1956 and 1966

Curb and Gutter Program

Tecumseh now has approximately 2½ times as much curb and gutter as it did 10 years ago. (See Fig. 1.)

The city also continued to blacktop streets and parking lots during 1966.

N. Pearl St. parking lot was finished and the S. Pearl St. lot received painted stripes.

The following streets were blacktopped:

- ► N. Maumee St., from Chicago to Logan.
- ► W. Logan St., from Division to Maumee.
- ► N. Pearl St., from Logan to Bidwell
- ► S. Union St., from Kilbuck to Cummins.

S. Maumee St., from Cummins to Mohawk, was finished and Adrian St., from Murray to Russell, was given a base coat.

All of this was in addition to the "seal coat" (semi-permanent) surfacing of many other city streets.

Until the current program was begun in 1959, Tecumseh's only hard-surface streets were the two state trunk lines, Evans and Chicago.

Fig. 2 shows the progress made in this area since then.

Approximately 415 feet of sidewalk were constructed on the south side of Shady Lane this year. Another 180 feet were laid on N. Evans between Shawnee and Bidwell.

The property at the southwest corner of Ottawa and Logan Sts. was purchased in 1966. It will be put to use in the future as a parking lot.

A new road grader, badly needed, was bought for Highway Department use.

Two new riding mowers, purchased for the cemetery department, will assure the continued good care of this property.

The following bonds were retired:

- ► Water Bonds — $10,000, leaving $135,000 remaining to be retired
- ► Parking Bonds — $3,000, leaving $53,000 remaining to be retired
- ► Sewage Bonds — $15,000, leaving $650,000 remaining to be retired
- ► Highway Bonds — $2,000, leaving $16,000 remaining to be retired

This year saw completion of the program of tax refinements that brought local property assessments in line with the rest of Lenawee County and to conformity, as well, with the 50% of value required by the Michigan State Tax Commission.

A more understandable and equitable tax situation should evolve from the new plan.

Having brought local assessed values in line with state equalized values over the past two years, Tecumseh has seen a drop in tax bills despite the fact that the tax rate has increased about $6 per $1,000.

A final accomplishment, although no city can take credit for it, is the enactment of the Senior Citizens' Exemption, which has aided over 125 local homeowners more than $12,000.

Local city officials study papers signed with the Conservation Department in Lansing this week which will put Tecumseh on the receiving end of $17,500 in federal Land and Water Conservation funds to help purchase "The Pit" Park. An equal amount of Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation money is matching the Federal grant to purchase the 22-acre playground parcel which features a four-acre spring-fed pond. The recreation site will be developed as a year-around outdoor center for such uses as swimming, fishing, picnicking, skating, miniature golfing, and archery practice. Representing Tecumseh at the signing ceremonies for the Federal funds were from left, Donald E. Moffatt, Superintendent of the Parks and Recreation Department; Mayor Harold Easton and City Manager Calvin Zorn. Signing papers for the Conservation Department, which administers the Land and Water Program for Michigan, was Deputy Director Glenn C. Gregg, (second from right).

When winter comes, there is plenty of ice for skating

Pit's four acres of water area and large sandy beach are ideal for summer fun

Parks and Recreation

Well endowed with parks and ponds, Tecumseh offers ample opportunity for leisure time enjoyment.

Cultural activities at the Community Center attracted almost 28,000 people this year.

And the prospects for development of additional recreational facilities are encouraging.

This year's proposed Parks and Recreation budget is $46,000 — considerably more, for instance, than the $16,850 allotted only five years ago!

Swimming lessons are available to all, and life guards always are on duty at Andrews Pool and The Pit.

These areas were used more than 21,000 times this year.

The Pit also provided 29 days of ice skating during the season, and almost 1,750 people were there to enjoy it.

Supervised league baseball was available on our sandlots for 35 teams of Little Leaguers, girls, men and women.

Spectators at the games numbered 8,500.

Each of Tecumseh's four playgrounds was open all year and junior citizens spent many enjoyable hours on their swings and slides.

An estimated 400 picnickers used the City's six parks this summer.

Weather permitting, tennis courts were in daily use during summer months with about 500 people playing there.

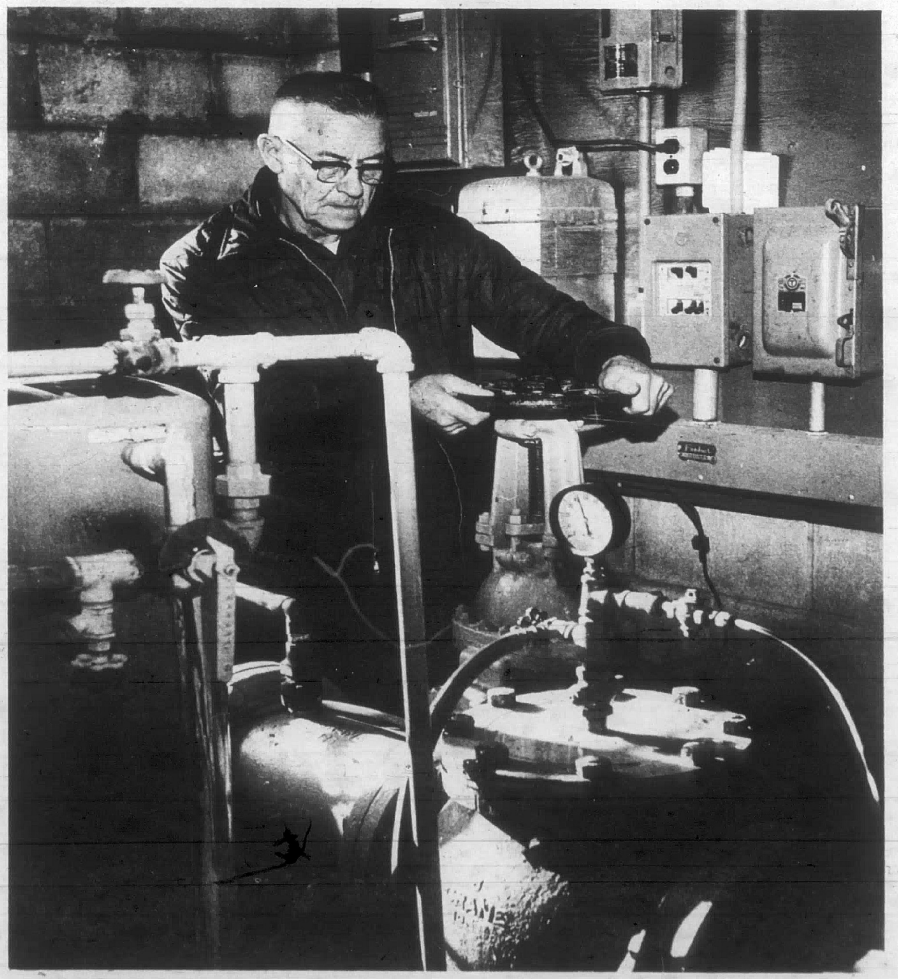
Teen-age dances at the Community Center attracted over 5,000 young people.

Hundred of others of all ages used the Center for plays, receptions, parties and square dances.

Close to 2,000 lessons in golf, tennis and dancing were given there.

On approximately 1,800 occasions, a senior citizen played cards, attended a birthday party, participated in a community service project, or just enjoyed the companionship of his friends under the Center's Senior Citizen program.

Police Chief Murell and Sgt. Gene Skinner discuss work of busy department



John Kopka Supervises Department which pumps 1.5 million gallons of water per day

Police Department

Tecumseh police officers logged 93,956 miles in the line of duty during the past year.

Routine patrols and investigation of accidents and complaints account for most of the department's time, but it renders other services as well.

Issuing gun registrations and bicycle licenses, property inspections, driver's license address changes, assistance to cars, finger printings and the setting up of road blocks are other dimension of local law enforcement.

These individual services numbered 2,510 during the 1965-'66 fiscal year, an increase of 299 over the preceding year.

Income from meter fines and collections increased $1,600, amounting to $18,477.70 this year.

Court costs and fines totaled $14,175.03, an increase of $2,064.49 over the previous year.

Water Department

The State of Michigan required chlorination of Tecumseh water in July of 1964.

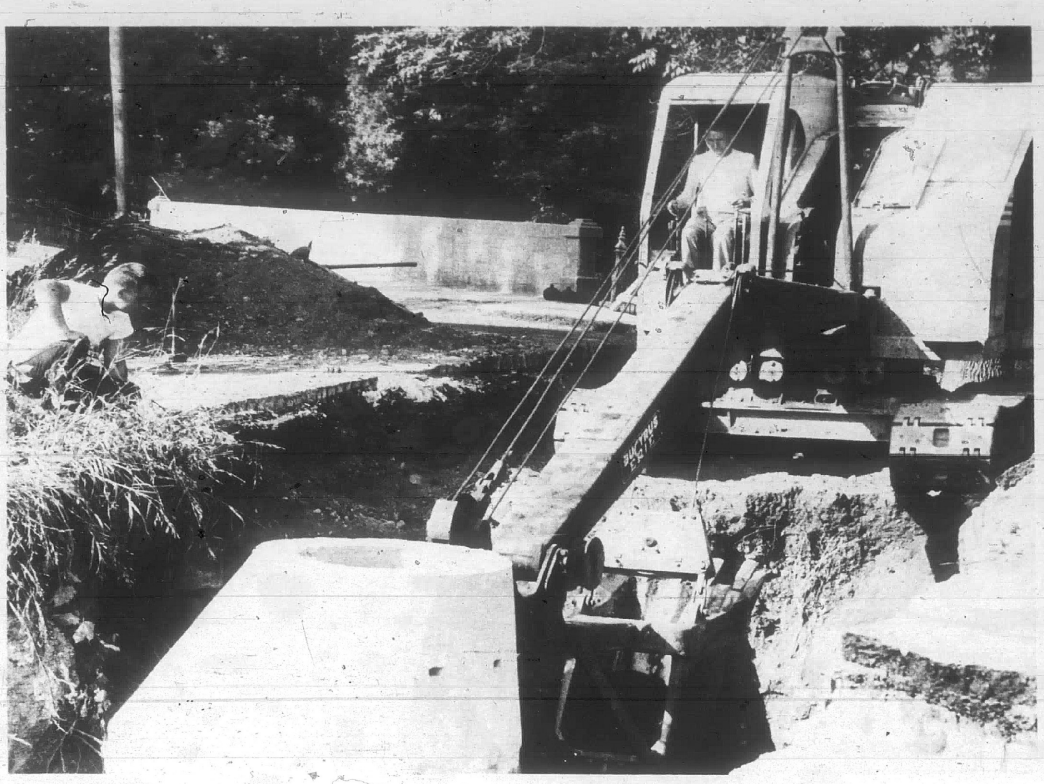
Since that time approximately $16,000 has been spent on additions of chlorine, fluorine (fluoride) and polyphosphates to the city's water supply.

Filling a growing community's increasing needs for a continuous source of water is the responsibility of Water Department Superintendent John Kopka and his crew.

Currently five wells are used to provide our water. Two of them were drilled last year.

Eight more exploratory wells are being drilled now in an effort to locate new sources of water for the city's future needs. During the coming year working wells will be drilled at one or more of these experimental locations.

Almost 592,000,000 gallons of water were piped into Tecumseh homes and industries during 1966. The figure is about 20% less than the previous year's total, due largely to improvements in industry's utilization of its water supply.



Largest Sewer Project

Evans Creek Interceptor line was largest project ever completed by city without the help of bonds or gifts. Its cost $110,000, is essential to development of city's northwest section.

Fire Department

Tecumseh boasts a well-trained and efficient volunteer Fire Department.

Chief Wallace MacGeorge and 22 volunteer firemen worked over 1,300 hours and made 103 runs during the past year.

Besides completing routine rescue and fire runs, they were called upon to search for a pair of missing boys, rescue a cat, pump water out of a flooded basement and release a duck frozen in Red Mill Pond ice.

Tecumseh's volunteers also made eight runs to Raisin Township, three each to Clinton, Tecumseh and Franklin Townships, and one to Adrian Township.

Biggest fires, in terms of loss, were those at the Raisin Township home of Louis Rebottaro, the Catherine Baldwin home in Franklin Township and the James Vanzo home in Tecumseh.

Public attention to fire safety conditions seems to be improving, if current records are any indication. Volunteers answered 31 fewer calls this year and their man-hours spent amounted to 500 less than the previous year.

The Future

Tecumseh's wastewater plant addition should be completed in early 1967, providing for more efficient removal of waste and doubling disposal capacity from 700,000 gallons to 1,400,000 gallons per day.

Enough paving, curb and gutter has been petitioned to keep crews busy for the next two to three years.

Zoning and master plans, financed partially by Federal funds, will be instituted to provide for orderly future growth.

Projected park improvements include the acquisition of picnic tables for city parks and the construction of a miniature golf course at The Pit.

The entire Pit area, in fact, again with partial Federal funds, is to be developed into a community recreation center with a variety of new facilities.
